Grand Jury Indicts Shaw for Conspiracy

By JOHN S. LANG

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Clay L. Shaw on a charge of "willful and unlawfully conspiring" to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Shaw, 54, headed for a hideaway today on the Mississippi Gulf Coast with Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's approval.

Shaw, who retired in October 1965 as managing director of the International Trade Mart here, has been free on $10,000 bond since his arrest March 1.

The district attorney had said earlier he would bypass the grand jury and file a bill of information before bringing Shaw to trial.

Garrison risked a "no true bill" by taking the case before the grand jury. He had already won a ruling from a three-judge state court panel that sufficient evidence was presented at a preliminary hearing to warrant holding Shaw for trial.

However, he still could have filed a bill of information in the case if the grand jury refused to indict Shaw.

By filing a bill of information, the district attorney would have had to divulge specific details of the case. In Louisiana, which patterns its laws on the Napoleonic code of France, a prosecutor has a choice of bringing a man to trial either by a grand jury indictment or a bill of information.

Shaw was charged by the grand jury's true bill with "willfully and unlawfully conspiring with David W. Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and unnamed others to murder John F. Kennedy."

Perry Raymond Russo, 25, star witness for Garrison in last week's emotional court hearing, made a surprise appearance before the grand jury before the announcement of the indictment.

Russo told the three-judge court last week he heard Shaw, Ferrie and Oswald plotting in mid-September 1963 to kill Kennedy. Shaw is the only one of the conspirators named in the indictment still alive.

Ferrie, 47, was found dead in bed here Feb. 22. Ferrie was under investigation at that time by Garrison.

The Warren Commission concluded that Oswald was the sole assassin of Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. No evidence could be found, the commission said of a conspiracy but it said that it could not categorically establish that there was no conspiracy.

Oswald was shot in the basement of the Dallas police station

ROME (AP) — An Italian parachutist has reportedly told authorities that 300 employes of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were involved in a Soviet spy ring being established at every NATO base in Europe.

Those involved were said to be civilians and military personnel from a number of nations, including the United States.

The civilian parachutist, Giorgio Rinaldi, and his wife, Angela Maria, were questioned for more than three hours in Turin Wednesday by a deputy state attorney, Guido Netti-Modona. They were formally charged earlier in the day with spying for the Soviet Union.

A source present at the questioning said authorities were believed to have arrested suspects in Greece, Cyprus, Switzerland and Spain.

Netti-Modona and an Italian defense ministry spokesman declined to comment.

The informant said the espionage organization focused on NATO bases mostly in southern Europe and the Mediterranean. He said it was not believed to have been far along in development.

The source said Rinaldi listed cover names for several NATO officers and "a number of real names" of persons involved.

A radio receiver and communications codes were found in the Rinaldis' possession, police said.

Yuri Pavlenko, a Soviet Embassy attache said to have been a member of the spy network, left for Moscow Wednesday. There were unconfirmed reports he had been expelled by Italian authorities. With him were his wife and 6-year-old son.

Investigators said they caught Pavlenko with papers and microfilms at a rural letter drop near Rome Monday.

Police said another Soviet not listed as a Soviet Embassy staff member was also implicated. He was identified as Yuri Goudar and his whereabouts were not known.

NFO Plans to Step Up Milk Strike Effort

CHICAGO (AP) — Dynamite blasts, rifle fire, marches, dumpings, milk baths and washing cars with milk highlighted efforts of a week-long campaign by the National Farmers Organization to raise the price of milk.

Despite violence and the shenanigans, including farmers' wives bathing in milk, there was no significant evidence of price hikes or milk shortages in affected areas.

In some instances, the NFO bought up supplies of milk in supermarkets, then gave the milk away with declarations that "we'd rather give it away than sell it."

Reports from around the country indicated the NFO would step up its attempts to get a two cent per quart price increase.

Milk was being dumped on a grand scale by gallons and pounds throughout the country. One gallon weighs 8.8 pounds.

At Chapel Hill, Tenn., an explosion wrecked a 33,000-gallon milk tanker which was parked and empty. A bullet from a high-powered rifle punctured a 4,000-gallon tanker en route from Lafayette to Nashville with milk.

Farmers, their wives and children marched on the state house in Trenton, N.J. All seemed assured the march would have some affect on consumers.

"You can't throw a million gallons down the drain a day and say you're not affected," a farmer shouted from the steps of the New Jersey Capitol.

Although a heavy snowstorm hit the East, 200 farmers gathered in Andover, N.J., and watched while 500,000 pounds of milk was dumped.

At NFO headquarters in Des Moines, Iowa, the group refused to lay out details of the contract it wished. The NFO merely said it is seeking a boost of two cents a quart for the farmer.

Such major centers as New York City and Chicago reported no effect on their supplies, and dumpings in various parts of Pennsylvania and Kentucky failed to bring shortages in those states.

Nevertheless, everywhere the NFO engaged in its activities the reports were that efforts would be bolstered in an attempt to cut down on milk supplies.

"No effect" was the word in Lincoln, Neb., and Cincinnati despite dumpings. Both areas reported "very little violence."

In Iola, a town in southeastern Kansas, the NFO went to a couple of supermarkets and bought up 170 gallons of milk which was later given away at the town square.

"We'd rather give it away than sell it at present low prices," said a spokesman.

At Aviston, Ill., a group of farmers dumped 47,000 pounds of milk worth $2,350 while 150 persons looked on.

In Wisconsin, there were shooting incidents, arrests and a fire reported but, generally, violence was diminishing.

The district attorney's office in Richland County, Wisconsin issued summonses to seven NFO members for littering the highways.

Individual farmers in Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky filed suit in U.S. District Court in Cincinnati asking temporary restraining orders and permanent injunctions against NFO interference

Colorado Water Problem Study Being Proposed

A proposed two - year study of Colorado's surface and underground water problems is scheduled to be discussed the latter part of this week in the state assembly.

Requests for the measure are included in a bill offered by Sen. Frank L. (Ted) Gill, R-Hillrose, state Senate majority leader.

The bill would call for appropriations of $50,000 for the study. Gill said Wednesday that Gov. John A. Love is supporting the measure.

The call for the study has been roundly supported by the Colorado Bar Association, which was instrumental in drawing up the proposal. One of the main proponents of the study measure is attorney Glenn Saunders of Denver.

Saunders said earlier this week, as he has on numerous other occasions, that "piecemeal legislation on water prob-

Morgan Trust Co. Cuts Its Interest Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. today cuts the interest rate it charges its best customers. The move could trigger the second round of interest rate cuts across the country in less than two months.

Morgan said it would cut its prime rate from 5¾ to 5½ per cent, the same rate Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's second largest, has been charging since Jan. 27.

Prices rose on the Pacific Coast stock exchange after the announcement late Wednesday.

Morgan Guaranty's action was announced about 4:30 p.m. — too late for most other banks here to react. The First National City Bank here said it was studying Morgan Guaranty's move.

But the two largest banks in Philadelphia — the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Co. and the Philadelphia National Bank — announced reductions in their prime rates to 5½ per cent. The same action was taken by the Wells Fargo Bank and the Bank of California in San Francisco, both important lenders to business on the West Coast.

Bankers in a number of places said privately that it was likely that their rates would be cut in a day or two.

Chicago, where loan demand has continued strong at the major banks, appeared to be the only financial center where opposition to a prime rate cut at the present time appeared strong.

Gaylor A. Freeman Jr., vice chairman of the First National Bank in Chicago, said: "At a time when your product (money) is in great demand, it doesn't seem to me to be the time to cut the price."

Freeman said Morgan Guaranty's action was "unfortunate, unnecessary and undesirable." Some other Chicago bankers expressed similar sentiments privately.

The prime rate is the lowest interest rate charged a bank's most credit-worthy customers. Other interest rates are scaled up from it.

Low Bid Given For Power Plant Superstructure

B. H. Baker, Inc., of Colorado Springs submitted the apparent low bid Wednesday for erection of the super-structure for the $10 million addition to the Martine Drake Power Plant on South Conejos Street.

The firm submitted a figure of $468,859, lowest of the six submitted to the Department of Public Utilities and almost $200,000 under the estimate of the consulting firm of Lutz, Daily and Brain.

More than $7 million in contracts are underway at the site of the 66,000 Kilowatt addition to the Drake Plant which is scheduled to go into service a year from this fall.

Other bids on the super-structure were as follows:

Lembke Construction Co., Denver, $494,880; Craftsmen Construction Co., Denver, 511,000; Vrooman Construction Co., Colorado Springs, $532,223; Lippert Brothers Construction Co., Denver, $599,000 and Elzinga and Volkers, Inc., Holland, Mich., $623,800.

They gorged themselves on a total of 3,481 saucer-sized pancakes. Another group of high school boys a week ago consumed a total of 1,356 pancakes, and the race was on. Other high schools planned to take up the challenge. Don't think it's all syrup for the restaurants, though, for the boys do it at restaurants that feature "all you can eat for 49 cents." Bums Boycott Mission Over Long Sermons

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP) — A boycott of the Twin Cities Rescue Mission by 40 transients went into its eighth day today.

They are protesting mandatory attendance at interdenominational religious services which generally last two hours.

A statement approved unanimously by the mission's board of directors Wednesday night affirmed the requirement: No worship, no free meal or lodging.

"The primary purpose of the mission is not to feed, bathe, clothe or sleep the men, but to save souls," it said.

95th Birthday Noted by Gazette Telegraph

The Gazette Telegraph celebrates its 95th birthday today.

The first issue of the paper, published March 23, 1872, was known as the Out West and was seven months younger than the city of Colorado Springs.

Colorado Springs was founded with the driving of the first stake July 31, 1871, by William J. Palmer at the southeast corner of Cascade and Pikes Peak Avenues.

The city needed new residents. Palmer and prominent citizens felt that a semi - literary magazine should be published here and designed for circulation in the East and in England to advertise the Pikes Peak area.

They selected J. E. Liller of Chester, England, to establish the publication. The Liller family arrived in Colorado Springs the first week of January, 1872. A small printing plant was purchased.

The plant was established in a two-story frame structure located on the present site of Kaufman's store.

The new Out West had shaky beginnings and it was decided to print the Gazette and the El Paso County News. The Gazette appeared as a weekly newspaper until May 1, 1878, when it became a daily.

The Evening Telegraph was eventually founded and it purchased the Morning Gazette May 1, 1923. Upon consolidation of the two papers, the plant was moved to 18 E. Pikes Peak Ave.

The plant remained at that location and was purchased, after varied ownerships, by R.C. Hoiles, his sons Harry and Clarence Hoiles, daughter Mrs. Jane Hoiles Hardie, and their families Jan. 10, 1946. The purchase was made from the late T. E. Nowells, Charles L. Tutt, Mrs. C. C. Hamlin, and Mrs. Tor Hylbom.

The title was conveyed by the Gazette Telegraph Co. to Freedom Newspaper Inc. May 15, 1950, following organization of Freedom Newspapers.

The Gazette Telegraph moved to its present location at 30 S. Prospect St. June 22, 1957.

It continues to expand its facilities, the most recent addition being a new press. Circulation presently stands at 38,505 for week-day publication, 38,588 on Saturdays, with a high of 39,763 on Sundays. The paper publishes three daily editions.

President Will Stay In Uruguay Chalet

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson will stay in a chalet whose French name, "Beaulieu," means "beautiful place" during the hemisphere summit conference in Punta del Este April 12-14.

Johnson chose the chalet owned by Argentine industrialist Manuel Siliesky after Federal Bureau of Investigation and Secret Service agents sent photographs of the building to Washington. The building has several bedrooms and sitting rooms and is near the conference site.

More than 20 telephones reportedly will be installed in the residence. An antenna will be set up at a nearby golf club for direct radio communication with Washington. Johnson's aides will stay in buildings surrounding the chalet.

First rubber golf balls appeared in 1899 and were called "Bouncing Billies."

CAPITOL STUFF

By JERRY GREENE

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's war council junket to Guam launches his spring propaganda counteroffensive against domestic critics who have been swarming all over him since last November's Congressional election.

Despite all of the White House warnings that no great decisions will be made, that no startling developments can be expected from the conclave of top military and diplomatic chiefs, Johnson knows well that world attention will be centered on and around him for three or four days.

He doesn't need to go to Guam. He is thoroughly familiar with military reports and estimates.

The President knows now that he will be told that heavy fighting in South Vietnam should be pretty well wrapped up by the end of this year. He is aware that the chiefs will tell him that the military situation as it relates to the Communist main forces should be what the generals call "well in hand" before Christmas.

Just how the optimism will be hedged and spoon-fed to the public remains a question; certainly the high expectations will be well guarded in the communiques. Administration leaders will wince at the successive verbal booby traps tripped by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in his bring-the-boys-home talk of 1963.

The important point is that having made his big peace moves in the wake of Viet Tet holiday — just as he did a year ago — having seen the North Vietnamese again use the bombing lull for massive reinforcement, Johnson feels he is in a position to take the offensive on the home front.

For three solid months the President has been swamped by the peace-pushing chorus led by Sens. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Bobby Kennedy (D-N.Y.). Now, in the company of Gen. William Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, McNamara, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and his forthcoming successor, Ellsworth Bunker, Johnson can't help but make the center of the stage. He can be expected to make the most of it.

Already in his speeches the President has been elevating Westmoreland in his performance to the company of the nation's military great. Certainly the appearance and the pronouncements of the tough capable general at the war council cannot fail to lend support and substance to the Johnson position on conduct of operations.

It is to be expected that none of the chiefs at Guam will venture any certain date for a windup of the war, nor even any definite ideas on how it will come to an end. Ambassador Lodge has insisted consistently that there will be no formal stoppage, but rather a sort of fading away of hostilities when enough of the Communists have been killed, as was the case, in Malaysia.

What has been overlooked generally here, perhaps largely because of the great noises over manipulations toward peace, is that the Vietnam war has been proceeding precisely according to plans — plans which were made readily available to all concerned nearly two years ago.

The basic American war strategy was determined in the series of White House huddles in July, 1965. At the conclusion of the talks, in a nationally televised appeal to the people for support, Johnson proclaimed: "This is really war. . .We will stand in Vietnam."

When the anti-war people here have jumped and screamed "escalation" every time a fresh American unit has cranked off a round from a new weapon in Vietnam, they have been simply ignoring the realities.

What the U.S. has been doing has been to pursue the accepted plans. There were three phases in the strategy: First, to break the momentum of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese push; second, to seize the initiative and defeat the Communist main force units and, third, to help the South Vietnamese extend control over their own homeland.

All that has been done has been in accordance with this multiple objective.

Westmoreland had to fight while building the bases and establishing his supply lines. He took a calculated risk, and it has paid heavy dividends.

The plans called for establishment of mobile, powerful striking forces, with secure base areas which would enlarge these constantly and strive for contact with main bodies of enemy troops. The air strikes north would be increased gradually, step by step, with pressure, always more pressure, on supply lines and installations.

As of today, the military people believe they are midway or well beyond that point in phase two of the strategic plan, the cleanup operation against enemy main forces, and that they are moving well into phase three, the extension of South Vietnamese control.

In pursuit of phase three, the conferees at Guam may announce the shift of much of the so-called "other war," or pacification, from embassy civilians to Westmoreland's military command, since the first objective here is physical security of the countryside.

But there aren't any earth-shaking military decisions to be made. That job has long since been done. Now all Johnson has to do is convince political foes at home and the Commies in Hanoi alike that the war machine won't stop grinding until there is some assurance that 8,000 American dead have bought freedom, as well as peace for South Vietnam.

South Vietnam Major Flees to Cambodia

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam reported today that a South Vietnamese air force major flew to Cambodia in a small plane March 19 and asked for political asylum.

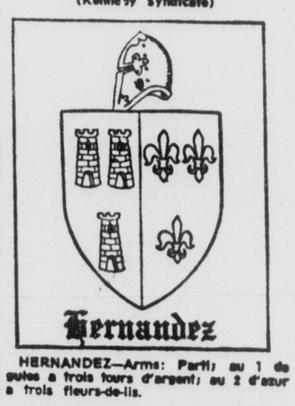

The Communist Vietnam news agency said Maj. Ngo Tan Dieu, 37, landed a Cessna L19 plane at Veanvong Airport in Kompong Cham Province. The report said Ngo and the plane were brought to Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, Wednesday.

The report gave no other details.

HERNANDEZ—Arms: Parti; au 1 de gules a trois tours d'argent; au 2 d'azur a trois fleurs-de-lis.

The Hernandez family name is of Spanish origin, paritcularly from the Provinces of Galicia, Cordova and Castile. It means "the son of Hernando" and "hernando" translates as a journey, or venture.

Oddly enough the Spanish family name of Fernandez means the same thing and there are several Fernandez Coats of Arms which are practically duplicates of the Hernandez family Arms. The "F" and the "H" on the front of the name seem to have been interchangeable over many centuries.

Gregorio Hernandez, also called Fernandez, was a baroque sculptor of religious art between 1576 and 1636, two Francisco Fernandez', sometimes called Hernandez were Spanish explorers and conquistadors in the early 1500's in the New World in both Mexico and Nicaragua.

Jose Hernandez was the Argentine poet and writer of gaucho literature who lived between 1834 and 1886. And that's about all I know about the Hernandez family name. But then, what does Hernandez know about me?

LBJ's Domestic Program Faces Real Trouble

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Their ranks swollen by last year's elections, House budget-cutters have indicated in the first test vote this year that President Johnson's domestic programs face real trouble.

They showed considerable muscle Wednesday as the House passed and sent to the Senate the first of a series of appropriations bills financing domestic programs for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The action came on the eve of recess by the House and Senate for a 10-day Easter vacation. The legislators were to meet briefly today — with no major action scheduled — and won't return until April 3.

The appropriations bill carried $7.5 billion for the Treasury and Post Office Departments and the executive office of the President. Since it finances the jobs of thousands of mail carriers and other postal employes, it is one of the most difficult to cut.

Yet it reached the House floor trimmed $112 million below the President's request. And, with almost solid Republican backing, the House chopped out another $2.4 million earmarked for more postal field employes and more personnel for the office of the Treasury secretary.

More significantly, the budget-cutters came much closer than in any recent year to imposing an across the board reduction in spending next year for activities financed in the bill.

One of the items is the President's salary and allowances of $150,000.

The over-all cut, proposed by Rep. Charles R. Jones, R-N.C., and supported by most Republicans, would have in essence trimmed spending next year 5 per cent from amounts set out in the President's budget.

Jonas estimated the saving at $109 million.

Jonas' amendment lost 217 to 168, with 153 Republicans and 15 Democrats supporting it and 198 Democrats and 19 Republicans opposed.

Earlier, in the day, Republican leaders set a goal of $5 billion to $6 billion in spending reductions for next year and singled out such things as rent subsidies, the war on poverty, the Teachers Corps and some phases of the foreign-aid program as potential targets.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's renewed call for cutbacks in U.S. troops levels in Europe drew support from freshman Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

Percy said, "It's time we adjust our position in Europe to the changing facts of life," and cited lessened East-West tension, a stronger European economy and the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

Mansfield said reduction of the number of troops in Europe from six to two divisions wouldn't affect U.S. determination to defend its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, adding "regardless of the number of troops we have there, our commitment to NATO will be honored to the hilt."

Johnson's three-step nondiscriminatory housing proposal and other parts of his civil rights package were introduced as separate measures in the Senate.

Backers said they hoped by breaking up the package to win more favorable consideration of the legislation, which as one measure would face rugged opposition in the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss. The open housing bill was referred to the Senate Banking Committee.

Many countries are discovering that national parks are lucrative resources, the National Geographic says. In Kenya, for instance, tourists attracted by lions, elephants and other big game spend about $2 million a year. Annual park maintenance costs only $420,000.

World population has increased from Noah and his sons to our present total of 3 billion, 400 million. It is estimated that an equal number will be added in the next 35 years. Who said man was not prolific? When Noah emerged from the ark, the Lord promised that never again would the waters rise and destroy all living creatures. For many centuries, war, disease, and pestilence stabilized the population.

The richer and more educated nations want to do more for their children and tend to limit their families. Japan cut its birth rate in half within a generation. Two - thirds of the world's population consists of the poorer and under-developed nations whose birth rates are up and whose death rates have tumbled. The result is a medieval birth rate and a 20th-century death rate.

In 1952, the Egyptian government commissioned the building of the high dam at Aswan to reclaim millions of acres for agriculture and provide power for industry. But when the reservoir is to be full in 1972, the population will have increased by 13 million. Most of the produce of the extra land will be needed to feed these people. The Egyptians might do better to spend a small percentage of foreign aid on population control.

Foreign aid to supplement a nation's income per capita will fail if the number of new heads each year is sufficient to absorb it. Scientists alone cannot solve this problem even though they are trying to extract food from the sea and make atomic power practicable.

Many may not believe in birth control and consider having children a personal matter. On the other hand, those wanting information on effective contraception should have it. The pill may not be natural, but neither is the use of penicillin to stop an infection.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

DRY HANDS ON WET DAYS

M. F. writes: My hands perspire excessively but on rainy days they are dry. Could the weather be responsible for moist hands?

REPLY

All too little is known about the relationship between the human body and the temperature, humidity, and barometric pressure. Your experience is unusual because most persons are more aware of sweating in humid weather, which decreases the rate of evaporation of perspiration from the skin.

HORMONE IMBALANCE

Mrs. F. writes: What is meant by hormone imbalance?

REPLY

Normally the various glands of the body work in harmony; but when one of these structures manufactures too much or too little of its hormone, the other glands are forced to make adjustments. Until this is done, the balance between them is upset.

VISIT FAMILY PHYSICIAN

L. A. writes: Where does the average person go for observation relative to keratosis, tumors, and cancer, etc.?

REPLY

Start with the family physician. Many of these doctors have the facilities for cancer detection. If your doctor does not, he will refer you to a clinic or to an appropriate specialist.

WOMAN'S LIFE SPAN

Mrs. L. W. writes: Why do women live longer than men?

REPLY

Easy life and no work—that is, after the house is cleaned, the dishes washed, and the children put to bed. Women are subject to less strain and tension than are men and, in addition, the female sex hormones discourage arteriosclerosis.

Viet President 'Incidental,' Solon Declares

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., who supports President Johnson's policies in Vietnam, says Premier Nguyen Cao Ky "is an incidental" and is not determining U.S. policy positions in Southeast Asia.

McGee and Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who opposes the American involvement in Southeast Asia, clashed sharply on the taped CBS news program "Capitol Cloakroom" broadcast Wednesday night over WCBS.

McGee said the American military action in Vietnam "is the means to the end, not the end. And nobody aspires to a military solution."

"Premier Ky has just called for an escalation of the military effort," said Hatfield.

McGee replied: "Mr. Ky has called for all kinds of erratic things. He's as loose of mouth as a great many American politicians sometimes. And he often gets both feet in."

"And he is this administration's puppet in Vietnam today," interjected Hatfield.

"That's not true," McGee shot back.

"We put him in and we can take him out," said Hatfield.

"Mr. Ky doesn't happen to be determining the position in terms of Southeast Asia," said McGee.

Hatfield quoted Secretary of State Dean Rusk as saying only three weeks ago, "We are there (in Vietnam) in a supplementary, supporting role."

Hatfield added: "And this is very clearly then, a Ky government, a Ky government policy that we are supporting. So you cannot brush him aside as saying that he is a talkative man. He is our man there."

McGee replied: "I brush him aside. We're there because it's in the American national interest to be there."

Hatfield: "What's the national interest?"

McGee: "The national interest of the United States as a Pacific nation, Pacific power — capital P."

Hatfield: "An Asian military base; an Asian military base?"

McGee: "is to establish a new stability, a new balance in the wake of the chaos left after World War II. That job has not been finished yet."

McGee continued: "I think that Ky is an incidental. Ky is not determining these policy positions, and is not in an position to determine those policy positions. He determines the policy positions in terms of South Vietnam and the internal affairs."

Hatfield said McGee was introducing "a new dimension to this whole Asian conflict.

Man Lives in Cave 31 Years Escaping 'Speed'

By ARTHUR BENTLEY

GATEWAY, Ark. (UPI) — A bearded 75-year-old, who decided in 1936 the world was moving a bit too quickly for him, rebelled and hunted out a hole in some hills. He has been living in caves ever since.

His name is W. L. Call and his present residence is a cavern deep in the Ozark Mountains near Gateway. Gateway itself probably could fit into a medium-sized cave. It is a tiny dot on the map in northwest Arkansas and appears to be only the length of a tall pine tree from the Missouri Border.

Call's cave is considerably more comfortable than were those of his primordial ancestors. Its furnishings include heating and cooking facilities and Call sleeps in a bedstead.

It is near U.S. 62, which winds through the picturesque, wooded Ozarks. The highway affords Call an opportunity to scrutinize the speed he left behind, and it distresses him.

"Day after day I see high powered cars speeding up and down this old highway, with people in them rushing along, and I don't actually believe half of them realize the real purpose of life, or even where they're going or where they're likely to stop," Call said.

Those mountain curves are treacherous, he said, and folks who pay them no heed and don't slow down are "fixing to commit suicide."

"One thing I always stress is that the trouble with the world is that too many folks are speed-crazy," said Call, who was born on a ridge across a ravine from his cave.

The old man of the mountains believes in living and letting live. Back in the old days, when moonshine was stronger and more fiery than sunshine, several of his fellow citizens operated stills. He would never reveal their locations.

"It didn't matter if I knew where a dozen whisky stills were working, I wouldn't tell a living soul," Call said. "I figure the other fellow's business is his business. Mine is mine."

The Ozarks are Call's herita. His father, John P. Call, settled in the region after the Civil War. And one of his uncles, W. L. Call, fought for the Confederacy in the Battle of Pea Ridge. Pea Ridge and Gateway, both in Benton County, are within a few miles of each other.

Call passes his days observing nature and contemplating it. He makes notes of many of his observations.

Besides the Ozarks, he has lived in mountain caves in Arizona.

When painting, wipe up splatters as you go along. If the paint is allowed to dry, the splatters are hard to remove.

Double Standard Pattern Found In Delinquency

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Youth delinquency travels a double standard route.

This fact is the probable reason boys are five to 10 times more likely than girls to become a social problem, says one University of Michigan investigator.

Dr. Ruth A. Morris suggests that the higher rate for the boys simply means there is the absence of cultural and social support for delinquency among girls — in other words, a double standard.

Dr. Morris and associates in the university's Institute for Social Research interviewed matched groups of delinquent and non-delinquent boys and girls in Flint, the site of a continuing study of family life and youth by institute researchers.

Dr. Morris says the interviews support the theory that delinquency results most often when factors prevent young people from reaching "culturally defined" success goals. These goals differ for boys and girls.

She said that obstacles to higher social status are most likely to lead to delinquency in boys, obstacles to warm interpersonal relationships most likely to lead to delinquency in girls.

The researcher said that those interpersonal relationships are more often available to girls than social mobility is to boys — ergo, boys, being frustrated in their goals more often turn delinquent.

Boys' delinquency is more tolerated by others, including other young people, says Dr. Morris. And girls in the study were less willing than boys to admit previous contacts with police, an indication that they feel more shame about delinquency.

The study also shows there is less social disapproval of boys than of girls for committing the same offenses, the researcher says.

FRIDAY FORECAST

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You feel — and are — very much tied down to a considerable number of little things which must be done and there is no use resenting the fact you have to do them, so pitch in and get them behind you just as quickly as you possibly can. You must exercise a greater amount of care, efficiency, than in the past.

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Labor diligently at whatever may be your duties either at home or in the business world, or of a health nature and right results. Don't dawdle. Please co-workers as well by being Johnny-on-the-spot.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow that clever idea you have that will make you more attractive, a picture of health. This may be a little costly but well worth it. That particular hobby you have should be perfected, also.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) Look about you at home and see what can be done to have greater comfort and beauty around you. Others appreciate your conscientiousness and give the support you need. Entertain somewhat tonight.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) Much care in driving will insure that you get done what you have set out to do safely. You can then concern yourself with reports. Be diplomatic with an irate associate. Don't get into any arguments.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 21) Instead of spending your money like water on others, see how you can improve your own position in life. Get busy with that paintbrush, bucket. See to it that all is prophylactically clean all around you.

VIRGO: (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Certain restrictions in personal activities can be overcome now by stopping your procrastination and getting right at 'em. Make sure that your health is improved by methods that have proven worthy in the past. Show others you have spunk.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Anything of importance that needs completion should be gotten at early, so do not permit others to disturb you. Get ideas from an expert regarding information you should have. Be thorough.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't misjudge what a good pal is now engaged in or you lose a valuable ally. The situation may be entirely different than you think. Be patient and kind in whatever is purely social.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be particularly careful in both speech and actions, or you lose out on backing you want later on. Get that bill paid up now that you have been putting off for some time. Be thoughtful of others.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) New situations come up but you have to give them much study and care before you take any action on them. Some new partner will gladly assist you in this. Impress with the fact that you are very serious.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get right at the tasks that are yours and others will appreciate you more than if you ran off on some tangent. Avoid being criticized. Show loved one that you are truly devoted. Be more agreeable.

PISCES: (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't give in to that temptation to have a big argument with an associate you feel is not working to your interests as well. You may be wrong. Be very exact in carrying through with agreements you have made yourself. Evening is fine for sociability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he, or she, will be one of those meticulous young people who wants a place for everything and everything in its place, but you must teach him early that important work must not be neglected just for the sake of being too orderly and too clean. This can also be overdone. Teach to be a little more humane, also. Then the chart becomes a very successful one, the friends many.

WINE MAN DIES

MOSCOW (AP) — Georgi G. Agabalyants, who put Soviet champagne into mass production, died suddenly Monday at the age of 62, Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper reported today.

Agabalyants, a scientist, wine grower and educator, won a Lenin Prize in 1961 for developing a method of producing champagne by an automated, constant-flow process.

Congress Continues to Disagree About War

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright said today President Johnson should take the chance that a halt in bombing of North Vietnam will produce peace talks despite Hanoi's rejection of his latest offer.

But Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., a cocritic with Fulbright of Johnson's Vietnam policies, contended in a statement that the President had attached a new condition requiring that "we have evidence that Hanoi has already ceased infiltration before we stop the bombing."

Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he feels there is hope for a Soviet initiative by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin toward negotiations despite Ho Chi Minh's refusal to stop infiltration of South Vietnam in exchange for a cessation of air attacks.

"I think it is well worth stopping the bombing to see if there is any substance to Kosygin's statement that if there is a halt talks could proceed," Fulbright said.

Kosygin's statement came during his talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson at the time of the February Lunar New Year cease-fire. Johnson's offer to Ho was made before the cease-fire started.

Fulbright called "reasonable" Johnson's offer to Ho to stop the bombing and freeze U.S. forces at their present level as soon as the President was "assured that infiltration into South Vietnam by land and sea has been stopped."

Kennedy also referred to Kosygin's statement that a halt would bring talks. He said this was confirmed by Ho's letter.

Kennedy interpreted Ho's reply as requiring only a bombing pause, rather than a permanent cessation, to get negotiations going. To administration officials, Ho seemed firm in demanding that the United States must stop permanently all air attacks and other "acts of war" before he would agree to consider negotiations.

For example, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said the bombing will stop "at the very instant" Hanoi demonstrates it will take reciprocal action to reduce its military activity.

"Now Hanoi says: Stop the bombing unconditionally — once and for all — and maybe we can work something out," Humphrey said in a speech prepared for a Birmingham, Ala., audience.

He said this wouldn't be enough, that the North Vietnamese must show that they "are ready to enter the path of honest negotiation." If they are, he said, "we are ready."

"We have stopped the bombing before," he said, "and every time Hanoi has responded by pouring massive quantities of men and material unimpeded into the South."

Fulbright's expressed disappointment that nothing tangible had come out of the exchange of letters was shared by most of his colleagues. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he hoped it wouldn't prevent the President from making other attempts.

Fulbright said he never had taken the position that Johnson wasn't sincerely seeking peace. But he added, "There is a widespread feeling that he wants peace on his own terms."

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., another persistent critic of Johnson's Asian policies, said he was "glad to find there has been some diplomatic intercourse. Somehow I had the idea there hadn't been."

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., called Johnson's proposal "a commendable initiative, an appropriate premise for a cease-fire and possibly for a peaceful settlement." He added he was especially pleased the President offered to halt the U.S. military buildup along with a stop in bombing.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said he thought to get action the President would have to "put more in the pot" besides a bombing halt.

Old Talbott Tavern, Bardstown, Ky., has been in continuous operation since 1779.

H.L. Hunt Writes

Apathy among our citizenry is a confederate of the enemy seeking to destroy our freedom and this Republic. Doing for freedom is of the utmost importance. Following are some things you can do for Freedom. Start now!

Note the names of businessmen favoring freedom by advertising in patriotic papers or with patriotic programs on the air. Write, phone or visit expressing your pleasure, admiration and appreciation for what they are doing. Inasmuch as "the customer (sometimes Queen) is always right," you will be certain to get results.

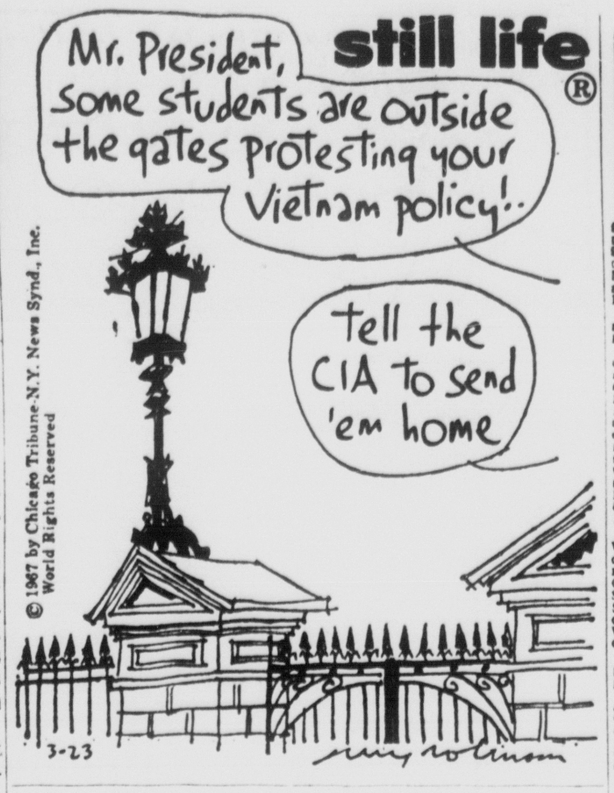

Get to know the freedomist members of the communications media. Nearly every publication, TV or radio station has at least one active patriot on its staff. Learn t ospot them and encourage them. Alert them to news developments which constitute good news for the cause of liberty.

For each 100,000 of the U.S. population there is one daily paper published. In communist countries the closest to the U.S. ratio is one paper for each 700,000 in Czechoslovakia; in Rumania the ratio is 1,400,000 population for one daily. In the USSR the ratio is one daily for each 4.7 million; and in Red China one daily for each 85 million. These are seldom pubilshed statistics, but newsmen will find them interesting in evaluating their means of livelihood in the event of takeover by freedom's enemies.

Learn to write an intelligent letter to the editor of 150 words or less favoring the Freedom side. Letters become a record for later study and research. Freedom has the distinct advantage of having the truth on its side and wins in the forum debate.

Encourage your friends to write a letter to the editor and be certain to commend others who write good letters as well as the newspaper which publishes it.

Any who have lost freedom would say, if they could, that it is too precious to take for granted. May we never learn that lesson the hard way!

Federal Highway Fund Restrictions Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Restrictions on the use of $175 million in highway funds freed for use by the states have been removed by the Bureau of Public Roads.

The money was part of $1.1 billion or highways frozen last fall by presidential order to take the heat out of the economy.

With indications that the threat of inflation was lessening, the bureau released the $175 million last month but said it could be used only for right-of-way and engineering work tied to later construction. Wednesday these limitations were rescinded.

Release of an additional $350 million for unrestricted use was announced last weekend.

SPABA Okays Watershed Recreation

SPABA (Springs Area Beautiful Association) today became the latest organization to endorse public recreation on the city's watershed when its board of directors approved two amendments which will appear on the April 4 ballot.

The two amendments, which deal with mountain parks and recreation around selected areas on the city's watershed, were proposed by the Colorado Springs Jaycees. City Council agreed to place them on the ballot after they were drawn up by city attorney Frederick Henry with the aid of the Jaycees and the Multiple Use Committee appointed by council.

SPABA is an association "dedicated to the preservation and promotion of the beauty of the City of Colorado Springs and surrounding areas."

After lengthy study of the two amendments by a committee representing the 300 members, the board of directors approved both amendments at its March meeting.

Tom Evans, superintendent of the Pike National Forest, addressed SPABA in February, and at that time pointed out the need of approval of both amendments by local residents to allow authorities to plan and budget for the future.

Both amendments, the first dealing with the Northfield system on the Rampart Range and the second covering the Pikes Peak North Slope system, provide for proper health, safety, fire protection, and conservation standards.

According to a release, SPABA noted that "with these safeguards included in the law and the U.S. Forest Service developing the areas, Colorado Springs will be fortunate in having these additional beautiful parks."

Grand Jury Indicts Shaw For Conspiracy

by Jack Ruby two days after the assassination.

Shaw was discharged from Southern Baptist Hospital here Wednesday night after being treated for fatigue and an old back injury. He entered the hospital last Saturday.

His attorneys filed a motion Wednesday, approved by Garrison, asking permission for Shaw to spend the Easter holidays at an unspecified location on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The attorneys said Shaw could return to the city within three hours if necessary.

Gordon Novel, 29, who testified before the grand jury on March 16, was subpoenaed for another appearance today but he turned up in Columbus, Ohio, where he said he did not want to return here without a guarantee of immunity from "harassment."

He said he knew Shaw "but not in connection with this." He also said he "indirectly" knew a "David Ferrie," but did not know Russo.

Novel was quoted in Columbus as describing the Garrison investigation as "a fraud" and that he first helped the district attorney but "Garrison double-crossed me."

Previously he had told a newsman here he thought Garrison wanted to question him about activities "during 1961 which are related to Mr. Sergio Arcacha Smith."

Arcacha, now a Dallas resident, said he never heard of Novel. Arcacha headed an anti-Castro group here in 1961 which had offices in a small camp street building about five blocks from Canal Street. Some of the pro-Castro Fair Play for Cuba leaflets handed out by Lee Harvey Oswald here in August 1963 had the same address.

Colorado Water Problem Study Being Proposed

lems will not help. What is needed is a thorough and comprehensive study of the problem that will benefit both surface and ground users."

It's known that the proposal has already gained the support of water people from throughout the state, particularly in the Arkansas Basin where stalemated water problems have held up the district courts since last summer.

Other legislation adopted earlier this week concerned domestic and stock wells, underscoring an implied law that exempts them from permits provided that they are not pumping in excess of 50 gallons.

Sandwiched around the proposal for a two-year study is another proposal calling for a water court to administer jurisdiction over complicated water problems. It's likely for debate next week.

Tougher Entry Into Reserve, Guard Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Draft-age men soon will have a tougher time getting into Reserve and National Guard units.

The Defense Department, acting on instructions from President Johnson, ordered Wednesday that beginning May 1, Reserve units must give enlistment priority to men below draft age.

Volunteers other than those in the younger group — ages 17 to 18½ — are to be accepted only as needed to fill specific unit vacancies.

Defense officials emphasized, however, that all reservists in good standing are deferred from the draft and the new policy won't affect that.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Showers are forecast tonight in the northern Rockies, the north Pacific coast and the southern Plateau region. Snow flurries are predicted for the state of Wyoming and New England. It will be warmer in the eastern third of the nation. (AP Wirephoto Map)

U.S. Supertanker Salvage Plans Are Proposed

LAND'S END, England (AP) — New attempts were planned today to salvage the blast-wracked American supertanker Torrey Canyon despite an official warning that the $15-million ship could blow up any time.

Undeterred by an engine-room explosion that killed a Dutch salvage expert Tuesday, salvage tugmen stood by to reboard the 61,263-ton ship lying across the notorious Seven Stones Reef.

Eight thousand soldiers and sailors were thrown into the battle to keep Britain's southern beaches from being ruined by the millions of gallons of crude oil oozing from the tanker's split holds.

The navy said the huge, pear-shaped oil slick was drifting shaped oil slick wa sdrifting with the tides only eight miles off Land's End, Britain's southwestern tip, and menacing the golden beaches of Cornwall. The black pool of oil stretched 35 miles southeast of the reef and was 20 miles wide in parts.

The Defense Ministry expressed anxiety over the renewed salvage operations. With fumes probably filling the tanker from some 80,000 tons of oil still in its holds, a ministry spokesman said, "it needs only a spark to set the whole lot off."

The explosion Tuesday came as 18 salvage men pumped compressed air below decks in an attempt to make the tanker buoyant enough to life her off the reef on a high tide.

Capt. Hans Stahl, 36, who was in charge of a salvage team from the Dutch Wijsmuller organization, was struck by a hatch cover and knocked overboard. He died aboard a tug bringing him ashore. Ten other men were hurt.

Matthew Thomson, vice president of the Union Oil Company of California, owners of the Torrey Canyon, said salvage operations would go on.

A British heavy-duty helicopter flew from London to lower a one-ton air compressor onto the crippled ship. The salvage men still hoped to refloat the ship on a high tide, then tow her to Amsterdam.

Both the American owners and the British government were reported opposed to suggestions to blow up the ship with aerial bombs and set its oil cargo afire. Experts said the mammoth blaze would pose more problems than ever.

The British gave top priority to the attempts to disperse the thick black scum floating just off the "English Riviera."

The oil was a threat also to beaches of Ireland, Belgium and northern France.

Officials said 80,000 gallons of strong detergent would be available every day for the fleet of 30 ships trying to sink the oil by constant spraying.

Ft. Carson Man Dies Following Copter Crash

his first duty assignment to Company D, 1st Battalion, 3rd Infantry, Ft. Myer, Va. His mission at Ft. Myer was to serve The President's Own Battalion which performs all honor ceremonies for dignitaries in the Washington area and for funerals and burials in Arlington National Cemetery.

Men assigned to this unit are carefully chosen for the honor.

He went to Vietnam in December, 1965 and served as a door gunner with the 129th Aviation Co. While there, he earned the Army Commendation Medal with V device for valor, the Air Medal with 10 clusters, the Aircraft Crewman Badge and the Vietnam Service Medal.

Specialist Steele came to Ft. Carson in January of this year reporting first to Co. A, 1st Battalion, 61st Infantry. He was transferred to the 189th Aviation Co. in February as a machine gunner.

Three other men injured in the crash are recovering in Ft. Carson Hospital.

BLUEGRASS WITH BENT

Heaviest Casualties Are Suffered in War

SAIGON (AP) — Both American and Communist forces suffered the heaviest casualties of the Vietnam war last week, the U.S. military command reported today.

Reflecting steadily intensified ground fighting since February, allied forces killed 2,675 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops during the week which ended last Saturday, the U.S. command said.

The previous high was 2,449 during the week ending Feb. 25.

The U.S. command said 211 Americans died in combat last week, 1,874 were wounded and seven were missing — a total of 2,092 casualties. The number killed was below the highest for the war, but the total figure far exceeded the previous high of 1,617 dead, wounded and missing during the week that ended last March 4.

The weekly total of American combat dead was exceeded by the 240 reported killed in a week of November, 1965, during the battle of the Ia Drang Valley, and the 232 reported killed in the week ending last March 4.

However, the 1,874 Americans wounded last week was the highest weekly total of the war. The previous high was 1,381 during the week ending March 4.

The heavy casualties came during a succession of engagements throughout much of the country, rather than any single major battle. The Communists also intensified their mortar attacks on allied positions.

South Vietnamese troops also sustained high, but not record, casualties last week. The government reported 357 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 117 were missing. The government does not announce the number of Vietnamese wounded.

The total of 474 Vietnamese killed and missing last week topped by 100 the total for the previous week but was well below the record 562 killed or missing during the week ending Feb. 26, 1966.

Officials also reported 1,004 Communists or their adherents defected to the allied side last week under the South Vietnamese government's open arms program. This maintained the steady high rate of defectors in recent months although it did not reach the record 1,198 who turned themselves in to the allies the preceding week.

Four Reasonable Men to Boycott Charter Meet

The self - termed "Four Reasonable Men," candidates for city council, will boycott Monday's Charter Association candidates meeting, Charles E. Hughes, chairman of the Committee for Reasonable Councilmen, said.

Hughes said the candidates would not attend because they feel "it would be impracticable to expect an unprejudiced and objective consideration" from the association.

The candidates are H. J. Brunette, Ray Curtis, Tom Keene and Myron H. Pike. They are running as a slate.

Principal object of the four to the Charter Association meeting is the fact that all four worked to defeat the proposed two per cent city sales tax in 1965 and the Charter Association endorsed the tax.

They made known their objections to the meeting, which is being held in conjunction with the League of Women Voters meeting, in a letter to Jerry A. Donley, president of the association.

"Inasmuch as these candidates were active and instrumental in the recent fight against the imposition of an unfair and inequitable sales tax, not in the best interests or for the benefit of the citizens of Colorado Springs, and further, since the Charter Association publicly endorsed this sales tax scheme, the candidates feel that no useful purpose would be served by attendance at a meeting sponsored by your organization," the letter said.

The letter continued, "your public meeting was scheduled after most of your vote was completed and some members of your organization were denied an opportunity to vote after the public meeting. We are of the opinion that this forthcoming meeting may well be just so much window dressing for endorsements decided prior to the meeting and quite possibly of candidates committed to your demonstrated position on on the 1966 sales tax scheme."

The letter also found it "unfortunate that the League of Women Voters have elected to combine their meeting with yours." A copy of the letter went to Mrs. Robert S. Grimes, president of the League.

The letter was written by Hughes and countersigned by the "Four Reasonable Men" candidates.

Two Springs Men Beaten Early Today

Two Colorado Springs men were severely beaten early this morning after their car was allegedly forced to the curb in the 700 block of South Corona Street.

Police said Harold V. Twiss and his brother Raymond Twiss, both of 534 E. Moreno St., were treated at Memorial Hospital following the incident. Officers said Harold was treated for a deep laceration to his right hand, one over his right eye and numerous abrasions.

Raymond Twiss received a laceration on his lip, one across his nose and one on his forehead. Police said they were unable to question him at the time due to his condition.

Harold Twiss told officers a car followed them for some distance and after stopping their auto, he said eight persons got out and began beating him and his brother. According to the report, the attackers also employed a knife in the incident.

Baby Elephant Sobs Like Child In English Zoo

LONDON (AP) — "I know that zoologists may say that an elephant can't cry," said Jean Robinson today, "but I saw tears in this elephant's eyes, and I saw them running down her trunk."

Mrs. Robinson is secretary of the Twycross Zoo in Leicestershire.

Every night the peace of the zoo was shattered by shrieks and sobs. The noise sounded like a baby crying, but no child was around.

One morning six girl attendants at the zoo found Iris, a baby elephant, sobbing like a child.

"Big tears were rolling down her trunk," said Mrs. Robinson. "I saw them and so did the girls."

Irish is a four-month-old Indian elephant, only recently brought to England.

"There was nothing to cause her pain," said Trevor Vorley, a member of th zoo staff. "She was eating well and was healthy.

"Oh, yes, she was crying real tears from her ever so sad eyes. I saw them."

One of the girls told Varley: "We think she's afraid of the dark."

A night light was installed in the elephant house early this week. Not a peep has been heard from Iris since.

King Promises Stronger Stand Against War

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., moving into a far more active antiwar role, plans major efforts this year to build support for a guaranteed annual income and better jobs for Negroes.

"I am personally planning to take a much stronger stand against the war in Vietnam," King said in an interview. The war, he said, has become the major obstacle to the civil rights movement.

"I feel it's playing such havoc with our domestic programs that I'm forced into (opposing the war)," King said. The war has shifted attention and resources from the civil rights struggle, he said.

King said he believes civil rights programs will suffer less from his actively opposing the war than from not opposing it. The criticisms, he said, "will be much less than the frustrations and anxieties we will face in not opposing it."

King will speak at an antiwar rally next Saturday in Chicago and then join his first antiwar demonstration in New York April 15.

He said the nation and President Lyndon B. Johnson have become obsessed with the war.

King disclosed he recently made plans for intensive organizing of Negro slums as a base to seek a guaranteed annual income and a nationwide campaign for economic improvement of Negroes through bargaining with major businesses.

"We have got to go all out to grapple with this economic problem," he said, talking of his plans for the first time since finishing a book about the racial struggle. Negro slums still retain explosive conditions, he said.

"Nothing much has changed," King said. "I'm afraid we're going to get a repetition of last summer." Rioting erupted in Chicago, Cleveland, Omaha, Neb., and several other cities in 1966.

Chicago again will be a target, King said, in an effort to "highlight or expose the problems of the ghettos through demonstrations." The demonstrations will center on housing and school segregation, he said, and might include marches by Negro pupils to predominantly white schools.

King described an agreement ending demonstrations last year in Chicago as "a marvelous agreement on paper."

"But nothing much has been done," he said. "And this only intensifies the feelings in the slums." Open housing was the major issue in 1966.

King said disenchantment over the war, "intolerable conditions" in the slums and white backlash against civil rights programs were creating an atmosphere for turmoil.

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which King heads, in recent meetings decided to concentrate on organizing slum residents, he said.

"We are bringing in about 50 solid organizers and we are going to have a workshop within the next three weeks to train them in the techniques of organizing," King said.

Chicago will be a primary target for this organizing, aimed at building "a base of power in order to bring enough pressure to bear to bring about a guaranteed annual income."

A second SCLC program, King said, will seek to improve job opportunities for Negroes through a nationwide program called "Operation Breadbasket." This program, which has worked in Atlanta and Chicago, involves bargaining with businesses for the hiring and promotion of Negroes.

King said clergymen from major cities will meet in May to set up the program. The first target, he said, probably will be a national firm or product. If the bargaining efforts fail, then a boycott will be initiated.

King brushed aside suggestions in recent months that the civil rights movement is dead. "I think it is more alive than ever," he said, adding that the SCLC's financial support is holding up.

He also discounted harmful effects of the black power movement and of divisions among Negro leaders.

Return of the Roaring 20's

By WALTER LOGAN

CHICAGO (UPI) — There is happy news for the man over 50, especially if he can remember the Deusenberg, F. Scott Fitzgerald, flappers and bathtub gin.

One of those fashion things has turned full cycle again, the look of the 1920s and 30s is back and the middle - aged man can now be the best-dressed man on his block.

Rock - and - Roll hasn't died out yet, and the memories of the Beatles are still fresh.

But one of the fashion experts attending the recent convention of the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear (AIMBW) and the American Retailers of America (MRA) convention here confesses his teenaged children have asked him to teach them the Charleston.

Remember white linen suits? Well, they're back for spring and summer though they are apt to be made out of some of the newer fibers and don't wrinkle as much. Remember the panama hats with turned - down brims? So are they. And the double-breasted suits, of course.

No one knows for sure how it got started. The clothing people in Paris have been doing "Ze Gangstaire" look for months. Some of the ones in London came up with a rival gangster look. And double-breasted styles reappeared in the United States a couple of years ago and have swept the country.

The Mod look, of course, is dead and the attention has swung from the flashily dressed teen-ager to the more conservative male. This time the pendulum has swung even farther and for the first time in years the manufacturers showing at the MRA convention gave some house to the conservative banker type.

Conservative: Well not in the summer wear. Some of the outfits shown could have been lifted from John Held Jr.'s drawings in the old Life Magazine before it died and was reincarnated as a Luce publication. A straw hat, for example, topping a navy-blue, double - breasted jacket, with striped pants and black and white shoes.

Adding another bit of nostalgia is the fact that peak lapels are back on suits. The lapels lapels are wider. Shawl collars on dinner jackets are almost as wide as those the Old Guard of New York society wear at the Metropolitan Opera on Monday nights. (Most of them appear to be a holdover from the 30s).

There is a difference. New fabrics have more wrinkle resistance and hold their creases better. They resist dirt more and there may never be a repetition of a scene of our childhood when all the boys wore white linen suits to a dance and came home pink because the belle of the ball had the bad taste to wear a bright red dress that faded.

There are other differences. Dress shirts for business wear are in deeper tones but there are plenty of stripes of the kind worn in the 30s. Ties are in less lurid patterns but are almost as wide as those of the jazz age. Shoes are in much lighter weights—but they are two-toned.

Imports accounted last year for about 12 per cent of American steel consumption.

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — Special to Gazette Telegraph — Civilian employes of the military overseas have a constitutional right to be protected against official military searches of their private living quarters even if they are located on a military base, A Federal Court has ruled here. The Court of Claims unanimously upheld a dismissed employe's demand for back pay, and imposed new limits on military control over civilian dwellings located on military property.

Informed sources here say that the proposal of the President's for a draft lottery is out, or at least for the present Congress. Mail from "back home" addressed to the members of Congress has been against any lottery. Another defeat for the Kennedy clan. Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee is against it and the word here is that Congress will pass a new draft law that will make it impossible for the President to impose any lottery.

Finalization of the Defense Department's proposal for a pay increase this year for the military is expected daily. Regardless of what the Pentagon asks for, Congress is not expected to give the military any less than what will be authorized for Federal employes. The Defense Department is also expected to ask for a temporary increase in housing allowance for enlisted men of at least 9 per cent to "hold" until a complete realignment housing pay for all is ready the latter part of 1967 or early in 1968.

Lump sum payment variable to Army men reenlisting will be paid in cash from now on. The Air Force however is not changing its payment method at this time. The exception will be Airmen with "personal hardship" cases.

With the military Medicare program already working the next step will be Dentical for the military. The House Armed Services Committee is expected to come up with a bill on this for the military, including retirees, before the summer is over. The proposal will have the full backing of the medical services of the Armed Forces. In view of the heavy work load now being handled on bases, the new program as written by Congress will probably direct that the work be done at civilian facilities. While it is predicted that the House will push the measure through just what action the Senate Armed Services Committee will take is a rather open question at this time.

Now the Medicare program for retirees is working there is a movement under way for civilian insurance companies to provide supplemental insurance to pay that part of medicare costs that the individual retiree must pay.

Score one for the military. After 7 years of escaping the draft Hollywood actor George Hamilton has been reclassified as I-A by his local board. His original deferment was due to his being the sole support of his mother.

Nobody Injured as Dock, Ship Collide

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A Navy floating dock and an Israeli freighter bumped each other in the fog off Cape Henry Tuesday night, but no one was hurt and the ships continued on their ways.

Coast Guard spokesmen here said damage apparently was minor on both the amphibious transport dock La Salle, with 27 officers and 390 crewmen aboard, and the cargo motorship Deganya, with a crew of about 48.

The 521-foot, 13,900-ton La Salle was on exercises off the cape in the Atlantic and the 473-foot, 5,624-ton Deganya was en route to New York from Charleston, S.C., with a load of vegetable oil when they collided at 8:42 p.m. Neither vessel sent a distress call.

The Coast Guard said the La Salle gave no indication that she planned to return to port, and evidently intended to continue on the exercises.

Navy Capt. M.Y. Clark is skipper of the La Salle, which, like the Deganya, apparently suffered some minor damage above the waterline.

The Deganya is owned by the Zim Israel Navigation Co. Ltd. and is registered in Haifa. She was expected to arrive in New York today.

SPELLING BEE WINNERS — Charles Broughton (left) director of instruction, Air Force Academy, congratulates winners in two caterogies in Wednesday's El Paso County Spelling Bee. First-day winners in the larger school categories were Jay Misenheimer, 4-5-6th grade classification, and Gail Zunich, 7th-8th grade classification.

Hit or Out, Each Time Up, for Kids In El Paso County Spelling Event

To the kids it was the World Series of spelling and each time at bat was a hit or a strike-out, nothing in between.

No matter that bigger things awaited at the state contest in Denver. The kids knew that if you flunked out here you would not make the trip to Denver anyhow.

There were no cheerleaders, but that didn't matter to the tykes who gulped and fidgeted through two hours of pressure during the El Paso County Spelling Bee Wednesday.

As far as the kids were concerned the support they got from nervous parents in the County Building Auditorium was enough. When the hemming and hawing finally ended — mercifully for some — there were these winners:

Jay Misenheimer, 11, a student at Douglas Valley, Air Force Academy, and winner of the 4-5-6th grade classification. He is the son of Capt. James Misenheimer, an associate professor of English at the Air Force Academy.

Gail Zunich, 12, a student at Manitou School, and winner of the 7-8th grade classification. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zunich and the family resides in Green Mountain Falls.

Wednesday's session was the initial one in the two-day County Spelling Bee which was to conclude Thursday with contestants from the rural schools in El Paso County.

The first day's session involved contestants from these areas: Harrison, District 2; Widefield, District 3; Fountain, District 8; Cheyenne, District 12; Manitou District 14; and Air Academy, District 20.

Winners in the two-day sessions will be eligible to participate in the state spelling bee in Denver, and subsequently in the national spelling bee.

The 4-5-6th grade category Wednesday began with 12 students competing in the contest which began at about 1:30 p.m. By 2 p.m. the contestants had been reduced to 11, and by 2:20 p.m. it was a head-on contest between young Misenheimer and Robin Hooley of Manitou School.

Young Hooley, aged 10, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hooley of Green Mountain Falls. In physical stature he was the smallest of the group and he gave the winner a real tussle before bowing out on the word "comprehension." Misenheimer spelled that word correctly and also got the bonus word evaluation correctly.

Miss Zunich reduced the contest in the 7-8th grade classification to a near 20-minute head-on contest between herself and Laura Downing of the Air Academy before both tripped up on the word "bouillon." Miss Zunich, however, came right back and correctly spelled "absorption" to win.

Contestant-rules, however, will allow two others in the 7-8th grade group to make the trip to Denver. Accompanying young Misenheimer, and the Misses Zunich and Downing will be Cindy Ewart and Peggy Stuckey, both of Manitou School.

Charles Broughton, director of instruction at the Air Force Academy, District 20, conducted the spelling bee which was coordinated through the offices of the El Paso County superintendent of schools, Norton Gorman.

16-Hour Water Shut Down In Parts of City Saturday

A 16 hour shut down of water service in the Pikes Peak Industrial Park and some residential areas near the Garden of the Gods Road will begin at 7 a.m. Saturday as installation of two large valves gets under way.

City Utilities Director Ray D. Nixon said the interruption of service will continue until 11 p.m. Saturday.

Affected will be three business firms east of U.S. Highway 25 adjacent to the Garden of the Gods Road and all firms in the Pikes Peak Industrial Park west of U.S. Highway 25.

The Holland Park Subdivision and the Hills Mesa Subdivision will have water but pressure will be low. Residents of Holland Park and Hills Mesa are requested to refrain from lawn or other irrigation during the hours listed in the foregoing. Other areas experiencing low pressure will be Panorama Dr., Friendship Place, Mesa Road and Crescent Lane in the vicinity of the Mesa Filter Plant.

Two, 24 inch valves will be installed on the 24 inch water main which runs east to west on the Garden of the Gods Rd. One will be at Industrial Drive and the other 400 feet west of Hewlett-Packard. Nixon pointed out that installation of the valves will make it possible to have alternate transmission feeds for water into the areas in the future.

"We regret any inconvenience experienced by our customers, but hope they understand this Saturday's project will be a major improvement in their water service," Nixon stated.

Representatives of the Water Division have been making house-to-house and business-to-business calls this week delivering notices concerning the Saturday water interruption.

In December, a similar shutdown was occasioned in a northeastern area of the City in order to install valves similar to those to be installed this week.

"As our area continues to grow we must make improvements to our transmission and distribution system in order to best serve our customers," said Nixon. "We realize such improvements cause temporary hardships, but we hope everyone affected will make necessary arrangements to carry them through the coming service interruption."

Palmer Lake Easter Services Begin at 6:30

The annual Easter Sunrise service will be held at the town hall in Palmer Lake at 6:30 a.m. Sunday. Rev. Robert Powell, pastor of the Little Log Church in Palmer Lake, will conduct the service and Rev. Jesse Shaver, pastor of the Monument Baptist Church, will deliver the message.

The Lewis-Palmer High School Glee Club will sing during the service.

This annual event, sponsored by the Monument-Palmer Lake Kiwanis Club, will be followed by a breakfast served in the town hall. The public is invited to attend both the service and the breakfast.

Youth Takes, Wrecks Car; Sheriff Says

A 16-year old boy who was taken to Zebulon Pike Center stole and wrecked a 1965 model car belonging to Western Auto Rental, Motor City, the sheriff's office reported Wednesday.

According to Deputy Sheriff Charles White the keys of the car which was parked at 217 E. Fillmore St. had been left on the floorboard and the vehicle was unlocked.

Merchant Group Plans Saturday Easter Egg Hunt

The annual Easter Egg hunt sponsored by the West Colorado Springs business men, will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Bancroft Park.

All children from ages two through ten years are eligible for the hunt.

Candy Easter eggs, 20,000 of them, will be distributed. Two thousand additional prizes will be scattered with the eggs as a gift of the West Side merchants.

The annual affair is now in its sixth year.

Park Department Warns Citizens Of Fire Danger

Citizens of the Colorado Springs region are requested to use extreme caution during the next few weeks while building fires in the City Park System. Park caretakers report the grass, shrubs and trees are very dry due to the lack of moisture during the past four months.

With the weather being conducive to outings, picnics, and hiking there are a number of people using the mountain park system. Special care should be taken over the Easter weekend.

The Park and Recreation Department states that fires should only be built in the fireplaces as provided in North Cheyenne Canon Park, Garden of the Gods, and Palmer Park.

When people leave their campfire, they should double check their fires to make sure there are not hot coals still burning. The ashes should be soaked with water, and then covered with dirt or sand. Persons driving through the parks should use their car ash trays and not throw the cigarettes out the windows.

Over 95 per cent of fires occurring in the Colorado Springs Park Department are caused by people using the parks.

$65,000 Poverty Grant Set for Legal Services

A Federal grant of $65,915 was announced Wednesday for the Pikes Peak Community Action Program (ComAct), the local arm of the Anti-Poverty Program.

The office of Rep. Frank E. Evans, D-Colo., via telegram, said the funds are to be used by one of ComAct's component programs, the El Paso County Legal Services.

The Federal monies are to fund an 11-month program to provide legal services for low income residents. The funds were approved by the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

The Legal Aid Society is the local agency that operates the legal services program headed by attorney Jack Hudson. Clinton Cole is president of the Legal Aid Society.

The new Federal grant represents a decrease from the previous year's funding budget for legal services, said ComAct director A. A. Christopher. The last grant, administered through ComAct, totaled $73,795 so the current grant represents a cut of $7,880.

The decrease in local funds also reflected a national cutback in anti-poverty monies.

Mental Health Group Slates Monday Panel

Recovery Incorporated, a national organization of former mental patients and nervous persons, will present a demonstration of the Recovery method at a public panel at 8 p.m. Monday in the Grace Episcopal Church, Monument and Tejon Streets.

The meeting is recommended by the Professional Advisory Committee of the El Paso County Association for Mental Health, Inc., as a public service educational program. It will allow local residents interested in mental health to observe the Recovery method at close range.

The meeting is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

A similar panel was presented last month to the staff and patients of the Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo.

Attendance at Recovery meetings by members is entirely voluntary and sponsorship of a demonstration panel by a local mental health association does not necessarily constitute official endorsement of the program.

The hour-long demonstration panel will include a short history of the founding of Recovery by the late Dr. Abraham A. Low, a Chicago psychiatrist, then a brief panel demonstrating the actual technique followed by a question and answer period.

In 1937, Dr. Low founded Recovery Incorporated as a self-help after-care method for preventing relapses in former mental patients. He soon found the method also worked well for persons who were chronically nervous, but not ill enough to be hospitalized. In his capacity as Associate Director of the Psychiatric Institute at the University of Illinois Medical School, Dr. Low was aware of the problems faced by the mental patients being released from hospitalization. Residual nervous symtoms and stigma so often caused relapses and the dreaded return to the hospital. Recovery, which has expanded greatly since Dr. Low's death in 1954, is now composed of almost 600 groups which meet weekly in most large cities of the United States and Canada.

In March, 1966, a Recovery group was formed here with local professional and clerical support and is now composed of 12 to 15 members who meet every Monday night in room 200 of Grace Episcopal Church.

Anyone having questions concerning either the public panel or the Recovery method can contact the local group leader at 635-4914 or write to P.O. Box 172, Highlands Station, Denver, for information on the 12 other groups now functioning in Colorado.

Plaintiff Gets Amount Asked; May Be a First

A plaintiff in district court Wednesday was awarded $9,010.34 in a personal injury suit, exactly the amount requested.

It is extremely rare for anyone ever to receive the exact amount demanded and no court official could recall a similar instance.

Plaintiff was Edith Carlson, 211 Bijou Court, and defendants Edward Graham and William O. Stewart doing business as Ivywild Launderette and Dry Cleaners, 1609 S. Nevada Ave.

According to the complaint the plaintiff was on the premises June 5, 1965 being interviewed for a job when Graham knelt down behind her and she fell over him. It was alleged that she was seriously injured, fractured her right hip and was hospitalized.

Judge William M. Calver was on the bench.

Council Passes Ordinance to Vacate Alley

The Florence city council Monday adopted a Bill for Ordinance No. 519, which calls for the vacation of the alley in the hospital block between Third and Fifth streets.

The alley will be sold to the Benedictine Sisters and will be incorporated into an overall landscaping projection with the city retaining the right of easement.

Council also re-appointed Irene Giuliano to serve a six-year term as member of the Florence City Planning commission and tabled an application by Televents Inc., for a community TV hook up in Florence.

The water committee will meet this week to establish rates for Rainbow Park water users in the event the park is able to form a district or association to handle Florence water from a metered head. Joe Serkowski and Jim Ramsey represented Rainbow Park interests.

City Manger Frank Carochi reported that water is beginnng to move into the reservoirs from Adobe-Mineral Creek and Newlin Creek. A number of leaks in the old wooden Adobe creek line were reported repaired this week by city crews and a number of new meters were installed in the city.

Major task now facing city crews is the cleaning of irrigation ditch laterals in the city preparatory to turning in irrigation water from Fremont and Union ditches. The city is also planning to install a new 2-inch line into Central Park for better summer irrigation, Carochi said. Reseeding work is planned at Union Highland Cemetery.

Carochi noted that $30,000 in federal funds is being sought by Fremont Community Action Inc. by director Frank Cervi for use in developing the Florence Municipal Mountain Park. Carochi has indicated that the city may have to dig up matching funds for federal aid monies used in any municipal program such as the one being proposed.

Applications for pool manager are still shy and appeals are still being made by the city as the season opening May 15 nears.

Council also agreed to pay half of the cost of new shirts for the police department.

Charter Group Will Hold a Straw Ballot

In a letter addressed to members of the Colorado Springs Charter Association, Jerry A. Donley, president, urged attendance at the city council candidates meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Horace Mann Junior High School auditorium.

As has been the custom for many years, members will be requested to evaluate candidates according to standards set by association by-laws, Donley stated.

All candidates have been invited to attend, and will be rated by Charter Association members present at the meeting. The League of Women Voters, co-sponsors of the event, will not participate in the straw ballot.

A questionnaire prepared by the two sponsoring groups has been sent to all candidates. Replies will be made available, and each candidate will have an opportunity to speak and answer questions from the audience. All voters are invited to attend the hearing.

Military Team Lectures About Nuclear Attack

A Ft. Carson chemical team is serving the Colorado public by lecturing throughout the state on the effects of radiological monitoring in civil defense.

The Civil Defense Instruction Team, under the supervision of M. Sgt. Wilton Sawyer, who coordinates a service film with informative lectures, divides a 16 hour instruction course into four blocks of regional lectures for presentation to such groups as the Soil Conservation Service, Civil Defense directors and the State Emergency Operation Center.

Other speakers on the tour are Capt. Ward Fagan, officer in charge, and Sgt. Donald Clevinger.

The chemical engineers spoke to recent audiences at La Junta, Sterling, Golden and Fort Collins. Their subject dealt with the preparation needed for civilians to survive a nuclear attack.

Candidate Urges Advisory Board For Utilities

Larry Ochs, candidate for city council, has proposed the creation of a utilities advisory board, along the lines of other such agencies now working with council.

Ochs made the proposal in an address before the East Side Rotary Club.

Ochs told club members that the city already relies on groups such as the planning commission, the hospital board, the drainage board etc. to act as advisors to council on special problems.

"Because of the highly complex nature and magnitude of our city-owned utilities, I propose that a utilities advisory board be established by city council," Ochs said.

He said that the board would be composed of "highly qualified citizen personnel in the fields of finance, personnel, engineering and administration."

Ochs emphasized that the board would only act in an advisory capacity and "would, in no way, diminish the authority or the responsibilities of council."

The candidate for a six year term also told club members that he was in full support of Amendments 1 and 2 which would eventually see the Pikes Peak and Northfield watersheds open for recreational use.

"The recreational facilities will be just 20 minutes driving time from Colorado Springs and will be an added inducement to visitors to spend more of their vacation in the Pikes Peak Region," Ochs said.

One Gets Jail; Two Are Fined For Shoplifting

Three defendants were sentenced Wednesday by County Court Judge Jack Roeser for shoplifting.

The first was Fred Major Taylor, 57, 132 S. Cascade Ave., who received 45 days in county jail for stealing March 11 from a shop at 117 N. Tejon St.

The remaining two were women.

Helen P. Otto, 42, 708 Prairie Rd., paid a $30 fine. The defendant pleaded guilty to stealing from a shop at 2346 E. Platte Ave., March 17.

Lillian A. Morris, 40, 1714 W. Colorado Ave., was also fined $30. The incident happened at 2314 W. Colorado Ave., March 12.

Motorbike for Two, Not Three Driver Finds

A motorcycle built for two is for two — not three — a motorcycle owner learned the hard way Wednesday. William Tackett, 15, 1423 N. El Paso St., appeared in Municipal Court Wednesday on a violation of the city code regarding motorcycles.

According to testimony from Patrolman Donald Riley, the youth was spotted driving his motorcycle in the Wasson High School parking lot with two other youths hanging on behind him. According to the officer, when the youths spotted the cruiser they jumped from the cycle.

Later, though, Riley saw the same cycle with the same three youths on it traveling on Afton Way. He said that the small cycle had one solid seat with hand-hold and foot rest provisions for the driver and one passenger. The additional passenger on Tackett's vehicle was sitting on the luggage rack, the officer said.

Tackett told the officer that the other two boys had forced him to take them for a ride and that was the reason for the excess number of passengers.

The boy asked Judge Robert M. Isaac during the court session exactly how many other cases of this type had come before the court. "It makes absolutely no difference," said the judge. He then asked the youth how many speeding cars he had seen that hadn't been stopped. "There are only so many officers on the police force and only so many jobs they can do," said Judge Isaac. He then pointed out that the officers are forced to go on spot checks of certain violations since they can't possibly apprehend all those who are committing violations.

The youth was found guilty of the code violation after the Judge explained that the code says a motorcycle shall not have on it more than the number for which there are permanent seats, handholds and foot rests. He was fined $10 and the fine was suspended on condition Tackett attends three sessions of the drivers' school.

Other dispositions made included:

Karen Ross, 23, 1713 Kingsley Lane, improper turn, $10.

Thomas Anderson, 36, 2301 Afton Way, speeding, $25.

Owen Moore, 47, 215 N. Chestnut St., stop sign violation, acquitted.

Roger Stevens, 19, Ft. Carson, traffic signal violation, $5.

Henry Whitman, 29, Cormack's Court, right of way violation, $15.

Julia Longley, 54, 23 W. Washington St., backing violation, $5.

Clifford Buckley, 32, 3222 Gladiola Drive, traffic signal violation, $15.

Paul Prijatel, 23, 5410 N. Nevada Ave., careless driving, acquitted.

Kathryn Flinn, 61, 616 Swope Ave., right of way, acquitted.

George Smith, 75, 2314 W. Bijou St., following too close, dismissed.

Dwight Tuttle, 31, 2867 Merry Lane, right of way violation, dismissed.

Gerald Thompson, 24, Security, careless driving, acquitted.

Alex Esquibel, drunk, five days in jail.

Wesley Durham, no address, drunk, 10 days suspended.

Appearing in Municipal Court Tuesday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, Joseph Brooks, 33, 352 E. Moreno St., was found innocent of [illegible] charge.

Daytime Lights Urged for Motorcycles

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's 5 million motorcycle and scooter operators are being urged to ride with their headlights on even in the daytime as a traffic safety measure.

The "Lights On For Safety" drive was launched by motorcycle safety experts as a result of surveys showing that most motorcycle - car accidents are caused by failure of automobile drivers to see the small, two-wheeled vehicles.

The Motorcycle, Scooter and Allied Trades Association says all riders of motorcycles and scooters should turn on their lights the very minute they start their machines, no matter how short the trip.

"If motorcycle riders turn their headlights on in the daytime, I am certain that a significant reduction in automobile-cycle collisions can be accomplished. The use of white clothing is helpful but a light furnishes the greatest increase in visibility known today."

Looking at Hollywood

BY FLORABEL MUIR

HOLLYWOOD — Hayley Mills absolutely refused to discuss the report that she will wed producer Roy Boulting when I talked to her via trans-oceanic telephone to Singapore, where she's starrring with Trevor Howard and Shashi Kapoor in Universal's film version of Noel Coward's "Pretty Polly." But the former Walt Disney child star, who celebrates here 21st birthday next month, wasn't reluctant to talk about the uproar created by her last picture, "The Family Way," produced by Mr. Boulting. Hayley was referred to as a 'virgin' in the dialog and was shown without clothes on in a back shot in a bathtub. "I must say it feels terrific to suddenly be a controversial actress," she said. "Of course, it's sheer hypocrisy for anyone to get upset about someone's nude back and to call it 'derriere.' That makes the whole thing unwholesome and, guite frankly, what's unwholesome about bodies? Everybody has them." Hayley's love scenes with Kapoor, the handsome matinee idol of India who appeared in "Shakespeare Wallah," are on the torrid side. When I asked how an actress could go from playing starring roles in family-type pictures to an adult drama with powerful romantic scenes, Hayley laughed and said: "There's no problem. I think that this is one of the easiest things in the world because it's instinctive."

The whole "Pretty Polly" company is living at the famous Raffles hotel in Singapore. Hayley told me that she never knew there were so many eligible and aggressive bachelors in any one city. So far she's turned down all dates to be able to concentrate on her new grown-up role. In London, the Roy Boultings are divorcing. The 54-year-old director is the father of four children and has indicated he wants to marry young Hayley. William Friedkin, at 27-years of age, is Hollywood's youngest director with ten years in the field. He has signed the very hot 25-year-old David Hemmings to star in Harold Pinter's upcoming fall Broadway play, "The Birthday Party," when it is filmed in London next January. Friedkin started in the mail room of WGN-TV in Chicago and in a short six months this bright young man had moved up as floor director, and then to directing award winning documents for W-G-N and The Wolper company. He has jumped the town with the signing of Hemmings, the British West End actor, and will also coproduce "The Birthday Party" with playwright Pinter who is now writing the screen adaptation of his play.

Hemmings is finishing his role as Mordred, the villain, in Jack Warner's multi-million dollar "Camelot," and reports in April to director Tony Richardson for the start of "The Charge of The Light Brigade" in London, with three months of location in Turkey. Friedkin just finished directing Sonny and Cher's first major film, Columbia Pictures "Good Times" will be attended by Governor John Connally in Austin, Tex., on April 11th, when Sonny and Cher arrive in their new $700,000 Lear jet. Seven major Texas radio stations have bought out their neighborhood theater openings on April 12, when "Good Times" opens simultaneously in 100 Texas theaters. Two hundred and eighty-five college radio stations, proclaiming "Sonny & Cher Day," will introduce the sound track album "Good Times." It looms as if the winning team of "Guns of Navarone" will be reunited if Gregory Peck agrees to star in producer Carl Foreman's Columbia Picture, "MacKenna's Gold," with director J. Lee Thompson.

Life of Rare Dolphin Reported Endangered

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) -- A touch and go effort to save the life of a rare dolphin is being waged by officials of an oceanarium and San Diego State College.

The dolphin is reported to be the first of the rare Grampus Grisseus, or Risso's dolphin, to be captured in the eastern Pacific. The 11-foot long mammal weighs 850 pounds.

It was rescued Tuesday from a nearby beach which authorities said the animal probably approached to die of an intestinal disorder.

Dr. David W. Kenney of the Sea World Oceanarium said he knows of only one other such dolphin in captivity.

CHANGES MIND: PAYS A PRICE

ASHFORD, England (UPI)—Talk about women changing their minds!

Carpenter Ted Knight, 47, was just about out of the harbor aboard the Italian liner Fairseat enroute to Australia as an emigrant when he decided he was making a mistake and told the captain. A harbor launch was near enough to be summoned and Knight was put aboard.

Back home with his wife, Gladys and two daughters, he said, "I just couldn't bear the thought of not seeing my family for a long time."

Said Gladys, "It was good to get him back. We haven't been separated in 23 years."

The fare, $484, was forefeited.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

BY WALTER TROHAN
CHIEF OF CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S WASHINGTON BUREAU

WASHINGTON — In all the sound and fury over various disclosures or purported disclosures of friction between President Johnson and the family of his predecessor-John F. Kennedy, one fact of paramount importance has gone neglected by the historians of our time, by the press, and in academic halls.

That fact is the warm friendship and genuine affection that exist between the President and Mrs. Johnson and Jacqueline Kennedy, the widow of the late President. Never once has she spoken or written anything showing any resentment against either of the Johnsons or any indication that she has felt she was slighted or mistreated by them.

All the criticism has come from members of the palace guard of the late President. They have attempted to make it appear that she was shocked that Johnson should have invited her to be present at his oath-taking aboard the Presidential plane at Dallas, repelled by his move to take her arm to lead her from the plane at Washington, and nauseated by his use of the endearment, "honey."

This is the impression one gathers from all the writing about the assassination from the controversial story which the family commissioned William Manchester to write.

The impression is heightened by stories dwelling on the differences between the President and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy (D-, N. Y.), the elder surviving brother of the late President, on Viet Nam, and the stories that the senator is reaching for the White House in 1972 if not 1968.

However, there has not been one criticism from the one who bears the greatest burden of grief. This should make it clear that she has none, and that her relations have been and continue to be most cordial with the Johnsons.

Johnson is open to much criticism, as all politicians are, both for his political conduct and operations before and after he became President. He is getting his share of criticism now, most of it from Kennedy followers who should have been delighted that he put over the program their hero could not, but he did so with the help if his predecessor's memory.

Even when Kennedy lived, there were those in his personal and official families who did not liek Johnson. Mrs. Kennedy not like Johnson. Mrs. Kennedy was never one of these. When she wanted something done in the government, she frequently turned to Johnson, even when her husband was in the White House, because she knew that Johnson knew the workings of government as few men do.

When Mrs. Kennedy left the White House — at her own pleasure and not the Johnsons' as has been intimated — she wrote long letters by hand, during hours of fresh grief, offering advice and counsel to Mrs. Johnson on problems of operation of the White House. It is known that she has continued to offer advice since, and to express thanks for various courtesies and kindnesses.

No doubt, if he wished, Johnson could blow various critics out of the water by releasing such correspondence. He has not chosen to do so, evidently because he considers such correspondence to be personal and private, no matter how important it may be to his image.

If so, his decision is wholly admirable as his conduct has always been in relation to Mrs. Kennedy and on taking over the Presidency at the death of her husband.

Clark Denies Motive for LBJ's Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark denies a Republican congressman's charge that President Johnson's strong stand against wiretapping grew from a desire to deal "a rather strong rebuke" to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The exchange between Clark and Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., came late Wednesday as the attorney general wound up three days of testimony before a House Judiciary subcommittee considering various parts of Johnson's anticrime program.

McClory, who has been the subcommittee's most vehement opponent of administration bills aimed at firearms and wiretapping, recalled that Kennedy — while attorney general in 1962 — supported a bill to allow wiretapping against a broad range of crimes.

McClory noted the President's strong stand against wiretapping came just after a controversy between Kennedy and Federal Bureau of Investigation Director J. Edgar Hoover over authorization of wiretapping by the FBI.

Is it not correct, McClory asked Clark, that the "President's attitude with regard to Sen. Kennedy's advocacy of wiretapping entered into the President's position?"

"I think I know that was not a factor at all," replied Clark, who was acting attorney general at the time. He said Johnson always has been "deeply opposed to wiretapping."

Earlier, Clark told the subcommittee there is "significantly less" use of guns in crime in those cities with strict gun control laws than in cities without such laws.

"You have to wonder what the rate would be if they did not have tough gun control laws," Clark said.

McClory noted that firearms are involved in only 3 per cent of major U.S. crimes. But Clark said guns were used in 71 per cent of 5,600 murders in the nation last year. He added the category of major crimes includes such infractions as car thefts.

More Highways Paved in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico, with more paved highway mileage than any other Latin American country, is expanding its roads to the remotest areas of the country.

The country's 35,000 - mile highway network is being stretched further by the current six - year program costing more than $240 million.

Current expansion is taking place mostly in the Pacific coast area, along with a nationwide system of feeder and farm-to-market access roads.

The present highway network is the result of more than 40 years of planning and construction since the National Highway Commission was created in 1925.

Mexico ranks 16th in paved roads among the 145 countries studied by the International Highway Federation of Washington, D.C. About two - thirds of the roads are paved and the rest graded or gravelled.

Highway communication to all capitals of the 29 states is provided under the present system. The only exceptions are a small stretch between Merida, Yucatan, and Chetumal, capital of Quintana Roo territory and the land routes to La Paz, capital of the territory of Southern Baja California. The latter is now reached by ferry boat across the Gulf of California from Mazatlan.

Among the major projects under construction is a new, more direct route between Queretaro and Mexico City, at a cost of nearly $32 million. This multiple lane route, part of which will be an expressway, is to bring Mexico City closer to Queretaro, junction point for important highways to the Mexico — U.S. border. The new highway will give Mexico City a spacious boulevard approach with landscaped esplanades dividing the traffic.

A border - to - border highway about 2,500 miles long that will link Tijuana on the U.S. border with Talisman, Chiapas on the Guatemalan border, also has top priority. Completion has been scheduled for 1970. Work is progressing most rapidly in Guerrero and Oaxaca states and work has started in Michoacan state for this coastal highway. Actually, only about 400 miles remain to be built, but it is mostly through difficult mountainous areas.

More Humility Could Boost Powell Record

By BOB MONROE

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of Jubilee Records says that if Adam Clayton Powell "had a little bit more humility" it might boost the disappointingly low sales of his "Keep The Faith, Baby" album.

Jerry Blaine, head of the firm, said the album would have to double its current sales of about 103,000 copies before the company can recoup $46,000 it advanced to Powell to pay off a defamation judgment.

"If things would have gone according to my schedule, he should have been way over a million albums by now," Blaine said.

"If he had a little bit more humility, if he would say 'I need some help,' ask people to go out and buy the album, I think this would have been sensational," he added.

Blaine said he planned to fly to Bimini today to discuss a second record with Powell and to urge the ousted Harlem congressman to visit the mainland and plug the first album.

A STATEMENT FROM KARL F. ANDREWS

I am sincerely interested in the future of our great city. I feel that growth and progress in the years ahead is inevitable and that we should be ready with municipal policies that invite business and industry so that more and more jobs are created from a continually thriving economy.

We must provide ourselves with clean air and pure water, expand our parks and recreation program, insure ourselves of a clean city, a well planned city, and a city developed economically to match our opportunities.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those listed below who have petitioned my candidacy and many others who feel I am qualified to serve. If elected I pledge hard work and cooperation in helping all citizens make this a better place in which to live and work and play.

Draftees Doing Scientific Work Of Their Choice

The old gags about the Army's making a cook out of an accountant may still occasionally apply, but the modern Army does a pretty competent job of dropping round pegs into round holes.

Take, for instance, the three mathematicians at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. Draftees all, and doing the work of their choice.

Spec. 5 Thomas O. Carlson of Kent, Wash., and Pfc. Michael J. Maher of Lubbock, Tex., are mathematician - statisticians in ARADCOM's analysis division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Combat Developments. They do scientific computer programming.

Spec. 4 Thomas P. Murphy of New York City, also a mathematician - statistician, does statistical computer programming in the material readiness division, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics.

All three hold bachelor's degrees in mathematics.

Then there's S. Sgt. Wilma P. Walworth, a member of the Women's Army Corps and now a resident of Colorado Springs.

The sergeant, a WAC since 1954, has spent all but two years of her WAC career as an accountant. She studied accounting in high school and on a scholarship at the Midwest Business College in Pueblo. She has also taken University of Colorado extension courses and has enhanced her background by Army courses in the subject.

Sgt. Walworth worked as an accountant in private industry before entering the WAC. She now supervises another accountant in the ARADCOM comptroller's office.

And what was that about making a cook out of an accountant? The Women's Army Corps didn't do it — Sgt. Walworth did it herself. She enjoys cooking so much that she volunteered to be a cook, and, in 1957 and '58, whipped up meals for approximately 100 women of a WAC detachment at Ft. Sill, Okla.

Three Hurt in Freak Mishap Wednesday

Three persons in two automobiles received minor injuries in a freak accident Wednesday afternoon at Sierra Madre Street and Moreno Avenue.

Police said two employes of the Denver Equipment Co., 520 S. Sahwatch St., were in the process of moving a 60-foot-long, 6,600 pound steel I-beam across Sierra Madre Street with two fork lifts when a car driven by Roger Lee Sanchez struck the beam. Moments later a truck driven by Harry De Bella, Pueblo, struck the beam from the opposite direction. Officers said the front wheels of DeBella's truck went over the beam.

Police said a passenger in the Sanchez car was treated for lacerations. A third passenger in the car, David Sanchez, fled from the scene, police said.

Officers said Roger Sanchez was issued a summons for failing to have a valid driver's license.

Rio De Janeiro Traffic Head Here Friday

The director of traffic engineering for Rio de Janeiro will arrive in Colorado Springs Friday for a three-day tour and briefing to traffic engineering operations here.

He is Artur Cesar, who will be making his first visit to the United States. He speaks English although his native language is Portugese.

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said Cesar is involved in a technical study program in this country involving all phases of traffic engineering. His tour is being sponsored by one of the largest manufacturers of electronic traffic control devices in the free world.

Smith said Cesar's itinerary includes New York City, Canton, Chicago and the University of Northwestern Traffic Institute, Moline, Davenport, Colorado Springs, San Francisco, Las Vegas, Los Angeles and Miami, returning to Rio April 10.

Significantly, Colorado Springs is the only comparatively small city on his tour, but he specifically requested such a visit; the previous traffic engineer had made such a visit about two years ago and was "highly impressed" with the Colorado Springs operation.

Smith has made arrangements for the visit with Robert W. Yeager, manager, international sales and marketing for the E. W. Bliss Co.

Part of Cesar's Colorado Springs briefing will be to watch a street pavement marking.

Springs Termed Great City With Great Future

Colorado Springs is "a great city with a great future, if we don't muff it, a candidate for City Council told a luncheon meeting of the Civitan Club Wednesday.

Karl Andrews, running for a six - year term in the April 4 election, said that the city has a firm foundation from which it can grow progressively if we look forward.

"I see those who say the view of where we are going is getting a bit foggy — or that maybe we ought to back off and take a look at where we are going," Andrews said in reference to remarks made by another candidate.

"Maybe these people have lost touch with the firm foundation upon which we have to build," he continued. "I see a clear - cut goal and opportunity for our city — and I see a clear - cut track to run on — but we do have to have good drivers to keep us on the track. I say if we aren't careful we could be left standing at the station while progress and opportunity pass us by . . . while some of the people are still wiping the fog from their glasses."

Andrews said the city's foundation is based on "big stones" of growth and progress resulting from among other things, "our climate and water supply."

In reference to the latter, Andrews indicated he was in full support of the utilities department and its plans for continuing to provide an adequate water supply here.

He said it was the climate and the availability of water which "enticed 86,000 people here over the last 10 years and created approximately 12,000 new jobs during this time. I say this is a foundation upon which to build — not to tear down."

"I see those who would try to play politics with our most valuable natural resource—water," he said. "Water, and a good supply of it, is another one of the big stones in our firm foundation to build for the future."

He said that if special water fees for each new house were instituted, it would have cost $2,450 per unit over the past 10 years to pay for the $48 million in water resource development spent in that same period of time.

If this were the case, he said, "I see people and business and industry going elsewhere because we priced ourselves out of the market."

Andrews also took issue with statements that the city and county need to work together, pointing out that there already is a good working relationship between the two bodies already as evidenced by the City-County Health Department and other agencies.

"I say that now is the time to build, and that we have a great foundation upon which to build," he said.

TWO FLAMINGO FOULS

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) - In 38 runnings of the Flamingo, top winter stake for 3-year-olds, there have been two fouls. Jewel's Reward won in 1958 but was disqualified and placed second behind Tim Tam. In 1962, Sunrise County won but was moved to third back of Prego and Ridan.

TWO FAVORITE COLORS

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) — B. A. Dario's racing colors are red and white. His trainer, William LaRue, has a pet turkey that is snow white with a red comb. He also has white chickens with red combs around the barn.

And when LaRue saddles Dario horses he wears a white shirt — and a red tie.

Christopher Says EOA Is to Aid At Local Level

City council candidate A. A. Christopher, in a talk to the Elk Club this week, said that the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 was established to "encourage local communities to solve their own problems."

Christopher is director of the Pikes Peak Community Action Program, local agency for the Federal Anti-Poverty Program.

Christopher said that "18 per cent of the families in El Paso County (90 per cent of which live in Colorado Springs) are in the low income group. Nationally, the figure is 20 per cent."

In a recent report by the city-county health department, he cited that the infant mortality rate in Colorado Springs was higher than the national average. In a housing survey, made by school areas by the same agency, the following conditions existed, said Christopher

Helen Hunt — 58 per cent of housing was deteriorating or delapidated; Lowel — 89 per cent, same conditions; Midland, 77 per cent; and Washington, 85 per cent.

Recently, he noted, the police department here reported that the crime rate increased 72 per cent for the months of January and February in comparison to the same two months in 1966.

Christopher said that the city leaders "seemed to be apathetic about these conditions with an attitude that this was not a problem."

These problems are growing rapidly and will continue to grow unless some "sincere concrete plans are made to combat these conditions," he said. He added that "a total community effort must be made to cope with these local problems. We cannot expect outsiders to come in and do for us what we are not willing to do for ourselves."

British Industry To Be Nationalized

LONDON (AP) — Britain's iron and steel bill cleared its final parliamentary hurdle Wednesday night, paving the way for the Labor government to nationalize the industry this summer.

Royal assent, the final legislative stage, was given in the House of Lords to the measure for which the Labor government had campaigned in the 1964 and 1966 elections. The Laborites contended the steel industry had failed to modernize and needed reorganization.

A Labor government took over the industry in 1950, but the Conservatives turned it back to private ownership after they returned to power in 1951.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government is paying $1.344 billion for Britain's 14 biggest companies, which produce 90 per cent of the nation's iron and steel. They have an annual capacity of 30 million tons of steel. Another 140 companies, most of them small specialty firms, will remain under private ownership.

The Eye Is an Intricate Mechanism

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three dispatches on blindness, what is known about it and some of the things being done to combat it.

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The human eye is a marvelous mechanism. But, like all intricate machines, it is made up of many componkents and therefore is vulnerable to disease and disability on many fronts.

Small as it is, the eye has 37 separate parts and functions. They include such familiar ones to us as the pupil, the lens, the cornea and such unfamiliar ones as the medium choroidal vessels, the medullated nerve fibers and the ciliary nerve processes.

Time is the implacable enemy of most things that move and function. The human eye, like the finest automobile engine, deteriorates with age even with constant and careful care. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare charts the steady rise of impairment of vision like this:

Under age 45 — 13.6 per cent.

Between ages 45 and 64—20.1 per cent.

Age 65 and over — 31.8 per cent.

Those figures do not mean that every person included in them is blind. What they do indicate is the percentage of people who have suffered enough loss of vision to limit their daily activities. But a tragic number of them are on the road to blindness.

Under age 45, women are better off than men, partly because men suffer impairment of vision from accidents at work. But at retirement age of 65 the threat is equal to both men and women. Nearly one - third of both sexes are in trouble.

The ravages of time and age on the human eye can be quickly illustrated by the fact only about 42,000 of the blind persons in the United States are under 21 years of age. There are 210,000 blind people aged 65 and over.

Cataracts, the principal cause of blindness in this nation, definitely are associated with the aging process in the majority of cases. A cataract is caused by a change in the chemical composition of the crystalline lens. Instead of being transparent the lens becomes opaque. If a surgeon can get to the trouble in time, he has a good chance of preserving the eyesight. Recently a new technique of cataract removal has been perfected — the use of extreme cole in the form of liquid nitrogen.

The second most dangerous threat to our eyesight is glaucoma. This disease builds up increased pressure on the aqueous fluid inside the eyeball and destroys the nerve cells in the retina. The insidious thing about glaucoma is that the deterioration of eyesight may be so gradual that the victim will be unaware that anything is wrong. Glaucoma usually can be controlled if detected early enough.

Such general diseases as diabetes, hypertension and nephritis can contribute to or even cause blindness, but the ray of cheer here is that they can be treated unless in an advanced state.

The United States happily is almost free of a major cause of blindness in some other parts of the world, especially the underprivileged nations — trachoma. It is the only infectious disease which attacks the eyes exclusively and the tragedy is that it can be controlled by antibiotics to nations where health precautions are primitive and the population is uninformed about medical science.

There are some myths about blind people that will not die. Maxine Wood writes in "Blindness" that it was not true that the sightless develop a sixth sense, that they have especially acute hearing or that they can tell colors by touch:

"A blind woman knows if she has given the grocery clerk a one dollar bill or a $10 bill because she has organized her wallet with the ones folded in a certain way and the tens in another. She knows she is wearing a blue scarf because she is familiar with the texture of the material."

And Robinson Pierce, writing about his own blindness in "It Was Not My Idea", says:

"I imagine that most people think that everything looks black to a blind person. I have never asked other blind people how it is with them, but in my own case it is not a matter of blackness. What would be the field of view is gray, not a very dark gray, and with somewhat yellowish tinges . . . There is nothing of the effect of being shut in by a curtain. To some extent it is like a fog but not exactly. Most of the time, of course, one is unconscious of this background. One is altogether too busy keeping track of what one is doing."

(Next: What to do when blindness strikes.)

Woman Just Obeyed Her Maternal Instinct

LONDON (AP) — A woman whose car caused the death of a pedestrian was acquitted of a dangerous driving charge Wednesday after her lawyer said she obeyed her maternal instinct.

The attorney told the jury in the Old Bailey court Judith Hitchings, 30, turned her head when her baby fell off the back seat and yelled.

Mrs. Hitchings lost control of the car, which ran up on the sidewalk. It hit a road sign which crashed over and killed Doris Rogerson, 38.

"It is almost beyond the control of a mother not to turn her head and look when she hears her baby screaming in pain," the defense lawyer said.

The jury took only a few minutes to acquit Mrs. Hitchings.

Miss Whitley Wins Honors In Music Contest

The daughter of an Ent NCO recently took a second place in the Colorado State Music Contest. Sandra Whitley, daughter of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Harold Whitley, 90 Landoe Lane, won the honor in the lyric soprano category. Her father is NCOIC of Ground Safety at the 4th Weather Wing.

It was the first time that Miss Whitley, a sixth grader at South Security Elementary School, had sung solo publicly. Last year she won a high rating in the contest in the duet category.

The award was based on her outstanding performance of Enrico Toselli's "Serenade" In this year's contest, she also participated in a double quartet that performed "Sing a Song of Sixpence."

In addition to singing, Miss Whitley also plays piano and clarinet in her school band. She has long been encouraged in music by her parents and by her music teacher, Mrs. Helenclair Southern.

Some Men Want Kid-Stuff

In spite of all the to do about "perfumey" men's cosmetics, a couple of handsome actors would rather use kid stuff. The smell of success with John Cullum and Bob McGrath is the light fresh scent of baby powder and baby lotion.

Six-foot John Cullun, who captures feminine hearts in such TV soap operas as "Edge of Night" and is currently a matinee idol of "Man of La Mancha," keeps his face smooth and unchapped with baby lotion with hexachlorophene in it. After shaving, he smooths on the baby lotion, which he says, "discourages any problems from nicks or small cuts because of the hexachlorophene protection."

Bob McGrath, the handsome tenor who was seen on "The Best of Sing Along With Mitch," and is a recording artist, uses baby powder for shaving with his electric razor. He says it is perfect for a smooth comfortable shave, and he utilizes it after showers to keep himself cool and comfortable under hot studio lights.

B'nai Sisterhood Plan Gay Purim Celebration

Plans are underway for a gala Purim Carnival, sponsored by the Sisterhood of the B'nai Israel congregation starting at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Synagogue.

The holiday is one of the oldest, gayest and brightest of all in the Jewish traditions. It signifies literally, the drawing of lots, but historically, the triumph of good over evil. However, in Europe there is an undertone of tragedy to the holiday, for it's observance is often set on the date commemorating the last major persecution of the Jews in the area in which it is celebrated. But for the most part, the festival is happy and gay — it is especially a hilarious time for Jewish children.

Purim is the only Jewish holiday that is celebrated more in the synagogues than in the home. The festival lends itself more to crowds and gatherings of people than do the other Jewish holidays which are observed within the family circle.

The holiday is a happy reminder to the Jewish people that while evil may seem all powerful at times, it can be defeated if people of good faith work together.

There will be booths for the young and the young-at-heart to enjoy, such as a candy wheel, a ring toss, a fish pool, and many more. A bake sale will feature homemade cookies, cakes and other delicacies. Lunch will be served at noon and a beautiful white handmade Afgahan will be given away before the close of the afternoon.

Mrs. S. Olesky, president, asks for the cooperation of all Sisterhood members. They are invited to bring their husbands, children and friends to this Purim celebration.

Secretarial Group Honors Springs Girls

Miss Janice Fountain daughter of T. Sgt. and Mrs. L. D. Fountain, recently was selected as Miss Future Secretary of America.

Miss Judy Sacchetta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sacchetta, was first runner-up; and Miss Lorrie Manross, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. T. D. Manross, was second runner-up. All are students at Harrison High School. Mrs. Rose Marie Ormanoski is their teacher-advisor.

Requirements for entry in the competition are:

The girl must be a senior secretarial student and have a cumulative B or better average. A rigid qualifying examination involving all phases of secretarial skills is given to all candidates.

The seven finalists then appear before a panel of judges who base their final selection on personality, appearance, poise and the applicant's answers to two "situation" questions. All judging is done on a point basis.

Competition is sponsored by National Secretaries Association for the purpose of inspiring and encouraging high school girls interested in a secretarial career. Four schools comprise this chapter: Air Force Academy, Harrison, Manitou and Widefield. Mrs. Patty Stone is NSA advisor for the group.

Treat Dyed Hair Gently

Edie Adams, who recently completed a starring role in the film, "The Honey Pot" has come to consider herself a hair coloring expert. "I've become an expert through experience," she explained. "It seems that every new part I play calls for a different hair shade.

About the best advice I can give to women who also dye their hair is to treat it as delicately as possible. To me that means washing when necessary, using gentle baby shampoo and protecting it from the drying effects of the sun."

Edie, an incurable dieter, also loves to exercise. Dance lessons and swimming help to keep her trim. A former instructor, she once made a regular habit of swimming five miles. When asked about the current vogue of mini-skirts she replied, "I think they're great for willowy girls under 25 but prove unflattering to most mature women."

Variety Is Available in Steel Fireplaces

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Since its discovery, fire has had a very special relationship to man and his existence. And there is nothing cozier than watching a crackling fire in the fireplace. A survey of what homeowners feel contributes to a perfect house included some interesting comments by women on this particular feature.

There were a few who said they didn't like the dirt and loss of wall space involved with a fireplace. The majority, though, were willing to press husbands to pay extra for at least one fireplace, if not more, in a newhome.

Often men let their wives speak for them but a great-grandfather refused to hide behind any feminine disposition. In remodeling the house in which he and his wife had lived for more than 50 years he included a fireplace and says he relishes the time he has to enjoy its charm.

Those who yearn for a fireplace in a home that is not designed for one can take heart. An economical and convenient answer is a steel fireplace that can be installed without elaborate masonry work.

There are designs that may fit in a corner, be raised hearths or be asymmetrically designed to sit in the center of a room.

Steel used includes stainless, colorful porcelain on steel, black painted sheet steel or factory prime - coated heavy gauge sheet steel. Franklin stoves, for example, are very popular in beach or lake homes.

Steel units with an Underwriters' Laboratories approval may be placed directly on subflooring or against wooded joists or beams. The steel firebox is lined with a heat-resistant material and surrounded by casing with air space. Where you place such a fireplace depends upon where the flue can go. There are flues available for 1-, 1½- or 2-story houses and for flat or pitched rooflines.

Prefabricated steel fireplace units may be installed waist high and serve as a barbecue. Units now sit atop cabinets or bookcases or in a sash window like an air conditioner. Obviously the fireplace has a new lease in the American home.

HERBERT CUES FOR BAD HAND

Take a look at the bidding of today's hand. South starts with an artificial two club opening and North gives the negative two diamond response.

At this point South could merely rebid to three no - trump but he thinks that his hand is so good it may make a slam with very little help from partner, so South bids three diamonds to show his suit.

What is North's three heart bid? Is it a psychic or just evidence of temporary insanity?

Actually it shows the Herbert convention at work. The Herbert convention provides that if your partner opens two clubs and rebids in a suit after your two diamond response, then you show a really bad hand by bidding the next suit and not the minimum number of no-trumps.

Note that South can't lose three no - trump and has no trouble making an overtrick against a spade or heart lead while if North is declarer the queen of hearts lead gives the defense the first five tricks.

It should also be noted that if South is not playing Herbert he should rebid three no - trump rather than three diamonds and protect himself against a heart lead through his king.

You can also use the Herbert convention when you play ordinary strong two bids. This way, North would bid two hearts over a forcing two diamond opening and South would play the no-trump contract.

We recommend the Herbert convention highly. However, before you use it, you had better really discuss it with your partner. You don't get to use this convention more than two or three times in a year of steady play and it can be really disastrous if you forget when it does come up.

Card Sense

Q — The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
	1 Spd.	Pass	2 Clbs.
Pass	3 Spds.	Pass	4 N.T.
Pass	5 Hrts.	Pass	5 N.T.
Pass	6 Spds.	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades, J-2; Hearts, A-K-6-5; Diamonds, 4-3-2; Clubs, A-Q-8-2.

What do you do now?

A — Bid six no - trump. This should be fully as safe as six spades and if your partner holds solid spades plus the extra ace and kings and has forgotten to bid the grand slam he may remember to do so now.

Today's Question

Instead of rebidding three spades your partner bids three clubs over your two clubs. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

From Shoulders to Hand

The swagger's back and full of swing. Shoulder strap bags now easily convert to handbags with an easy adjustment of the strap. Although fashionably petite the styles are roomy because of accordion - pleated sides that open wide. Hardware trim on the outside gives a mark of distinction.

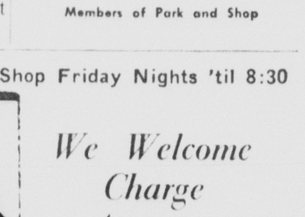

Prints, Prints and Prints

Put yourself in a print from the newsiest collection ever. This year, the print is news. The story is told with multi-prints, quilted prints and paisley prints. And they are not limited to tops, skirts and dresses. Man-tailored slacks in prints make you the "fanciest pants" ever.

Duck giblets, alone, simmered in water do not give rich broth. Add some of the duck fat (cut from the bird before roasting) and you'll have a more robust broth.

Widows Need to Drive

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were going over our guest list for a series of dinner parties we will be giving this winter. I have several widow friends. My husband said, "Please don't ask any widows for it is too tiring and worrisome having to carry them home afterwards."

Although they are financially able to take a taxi, they feel that as long as we have a car and both my husband and I drive we should give them chauffeur service home.

Please tell widows that they would get more invitations if they wouldn't expect so much. —DAYTON

DEAR DAYTON: If YOUR widow friends expect "too much" it's up to you to straighten them out, but please don't generalize. Most widows are so tickled to get a dinner invitation they are delighted to provide their own transportation.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for all patrolmen to see. One evening I was driving my own car and my boyfriend was sitting beside me.

A patrolman came alongside me and signaled for me to pull over, which I did. I had been exceeding the speed limit slightly, but that didn't bother me. What did was this: The patrolman looked at my driver's license, then he looked at me and said, "Is this YOURS?"

I assured him that it was and asked why he questioned it. He said, "You sure don't LOOK 46 years old," Abby, I wanted to hit him. I can easily pass for early thirties, and sometimes do. Needless to say, I was humiliated, embarrassed, and annoyed. —OLDER THAN I LOOK

DEAR OLDER: No wonder the police are discouraged. Here a cop compliments you — and you get sore. The cops can't win!

DEAR ABBY: A rather embarrassing thing happened to me and I need some advice. The other day I received a very appreciative note from a friend of mine, thanking me for a baby gift I did not send. The worst part of it is, I never got around to sending her baby anything, although I had been meaning to.

Should I let this person know of her mistake? Or should I ignore the whole thing so she'll never know I didn't send anything? - B

DEAR B: Let your friend know at once that a mistake has been made. Then she can try to find out who sent the gift and thank her for it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "POSITIVELY STUMPED" IN LOUISVILLE: If neither you nor your daughter knows which one of you he is interested in, I suggest you BOTH forget him. He's probably too young for you, and too old for your daughter.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I am an interior decorator.

When I take draperies down for cleaning, I mark on the inside heading of each drapery: "window number 1 right, number 1 left," etc. with an indelible ballpoint pen.

As I take the drapery pins out, I use the ballpoint pen to put a dot where each pin will be reinserted. The ballpoint pen mark does not come out in the cleaning.

When rehanging the draperies, I start in the center of the traverse rod, hooking onto the master carrier first.

If extra carriers are on the rod, leave them at the outside ends of the rod or the draperies will not slide easily.

These rules will save housewives a lot of hard work. — Rena Williams.

Be sure and make these marks on the inside heading of the facing on the top of your curtain so it won't show when rehung.

I roared with laughter when Renua told us there was a use for ballpoint-pen ink, which we don't have to worry about removing.

And, did you know that while your curtains are down and being cleaned, that you could use paste wax inside those traverse rods? It will make them slide like new again. —Heloise

---

Dear Heloise:

Here's an idea I find both economical and time-saving.

When making bread or rolls, instead of scalding the milk in a pan, just add boiling water to your powdered milk for the liquid.

The milk never boils over on the stove this way as it sometimes does when scalding it. — Delaine Kolb

Dear Heloise:

When your rubber girdle has a small broken place in it, take take two pieces of mending tape, put one on the outside and one on the inside of the break, then sew it on your machine with a zig-zag stitch. It will wear and wear. — Jane

---

What's the matter with a tire patch? They work too, honey chile. —Heloise

---

Dear Heloise:

We have often seen men dust off the toes of their shoes on the back of their pants leg.

Our shoeshine parlor always has strips of men's wool pants cut up to buff those shoes. The wool really makes them shine.

So why not cut up some old pieces of wool to shine your shoes? —Henry O'Mally

---

I can't argue with you Henry. Wool did make our shoes shine beautifully but I just wasn't about to cut up a pair of my husband's pants to see if it differed from the scrap of wool I tried. — Heloise

Thanks, pal.

Dear Heloise:

I keep a small squeeze bottle filled with liquid laundry detergent beside my washing machine.

When collars and cuffs need to be scrubbed, I just squirt some in the proper place, rub it in a little, and the clothing then goes into the tub.

No more lugging of heavy jugs or boxes that dump out more than we need. — Virginia DeArmond

Dear Heloise:

To keep those sheet blankets from sliding, I cut one sheet blanket in three equal pieces crosswise and sew one piece to the end of each of the other sheet blankets.

This makes my sheet blankets plenty-long-enough to tuck under the foot of the mattress, and keeps them from sliding and pulling out at the foot. Really great. — Mrs. R. L. Estes

Dear Heloise:

When planting grass seed by hand, I always mix the seed with a bit of kitchen flour. This way I can see where I have thrown the seed and I can sow it far more evenly.

The flour does not hurt the soil at all. — Sol Weinstein

Mrs. Pearson Appointed To Patriotic Committee

Mrs. Ruth Pearson of Pilot Club of Colorado Springs has been appointed as a member of the 1967-68 Patriotic Emblems Committee for Pilot Club International.

Announcement of the appointment has just been made by Mrs. Louisa Stanfiel Harris of Lenoir City, Tenn., president-elect of Pilot International, through the March issue of "The Pilot Log," the official publication of the international classified civic and service organization for professional and executive business women.

The Log also outlines the program to be undertaken by Pilots during the 1967-68 year under the theme, "Progress Through Knowledge and Performance." Mrs. Ruth Pearson as a member of the international committee has had a major role in planning the coming year's program and she also will have an important part in development of the program throughout the year. She will participate in a committee workshop at the international convention at the Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, July 23-28, 1967.

Mrs. Harris, in announcing her committee appointments and plans for the 1967-68 Pilot year, said, "Knowledge is useless unless it results in action — but Pilots, with sights set on service, use knowledge acquired in performing acts of service to all mankind. This service is to individuals and groups, to all ages and races, in the areas of health, welfare, and any other area where a service to humanity is needed and can be performed by Pilots. The performance of service is Pilot's reason for being."

Pilot International has 14,000 members in over 470 clubs located in the United States, Bermuda, Canada, England, France and Japan. The headquarters office is in Macon, Georgia.

Eye Shadow Adds Depth

Eye shadow adds depth and luster to your eyes. But at all costs avoid a too - bright, clownish look. For daytime, try the soft, hazy shades, such as brown, gray, amber, pale blue and turquoise. White shadow used under colored shadow gives a clear tone. Used over shadow, white gives a pearly translucence. For after -dark eyes, brighter hues are effective, as well as the frosted shades. And if you use cream or stick shadow, set the color with a faint dusting of powder.

Big 8 Thinclads Open on Saturday

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Eight track teams will open the outdoor season Saturday with the Arkansas Relays and the Kansas-UCLA dual heading the schedule. The indoor season was the most successful in league history.

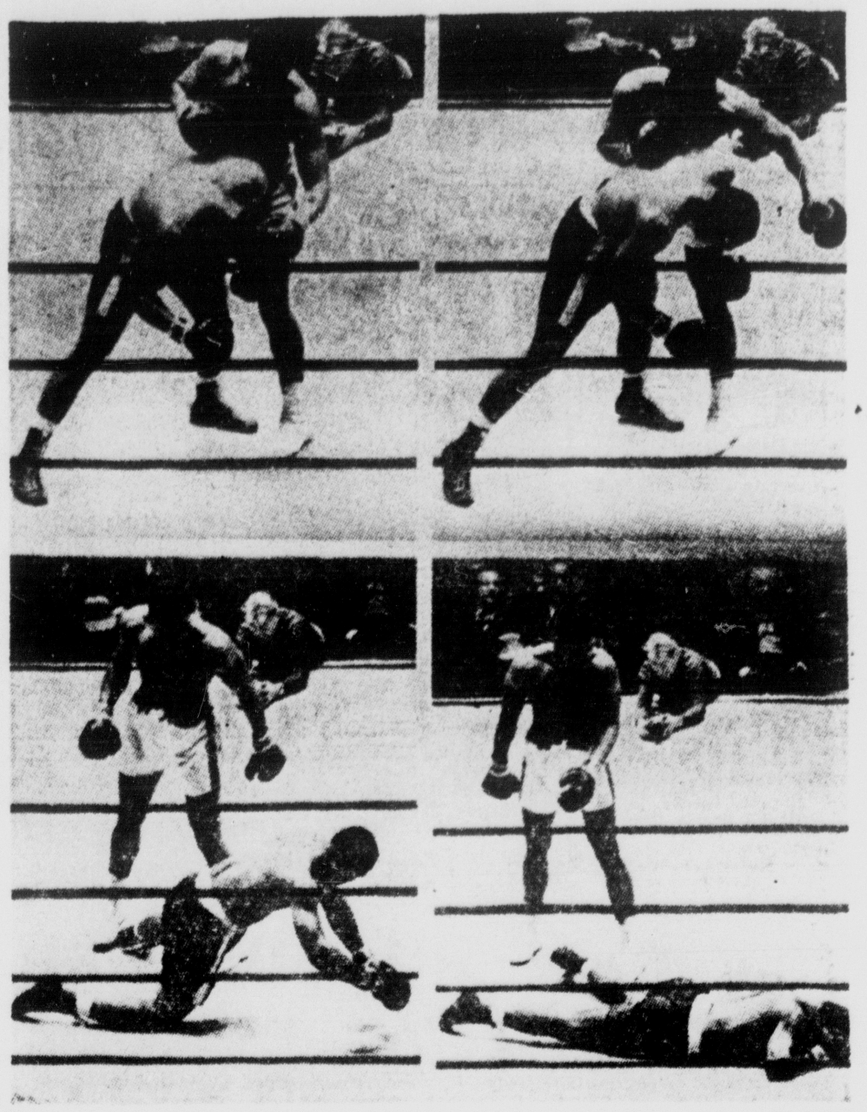

Five all-time indoor best marks were established and all were either set or shared by underclassmen. In addition, the final indoor listings include 83 men and 58 will be back next season.

UCLA is the defending NCAA outdoor track champion and recently swamped a well-regarded Arizona State team 114-31, winning 14 of 17 events. Nine UCLA men set life-time bests. Kansas, led by Jim Ryun, isn't given much chance to come close to UCLA in the dual, to be held at Los Angeles Coliseum.

Oklahoma is at Arizona State and Nebraska at New Mexico in other dual meets Saturday, while the other Big Eight schools will be in the Arkansas Relays. Colorado hosts the Colorado Relays, indoors.

In the final rankings, Ryun headed the list with two all-time league bests, a 3:58.8 mile and 1:48.3 half-mile. The others are the 16-2¼ pole vault by Colorado's Chuck Rogers; a 6.6 for the 60-yard lows by George Byers of Kansas, three times on boards, and teammate Lee Adams, once on dirt; and a 7-0 high jump, shared by Missouri's Steve Herndon and Oklahoma's Ron Tull.

Leaders in the other events were Byers and Darryl Green, Iowa State, both 7.2 in the 60-yard high hurdles; Charlie Greene, Nebraska and Wayne Long, Oklahoma, both 6 flat in the 60 dash; Bill Calhoun, Oklahoma, 48.1 quarter; Steve Carson, Iowa State, 1:09.8 600; Ryun 2:09.9 1,000 and 8:44.2 two-mile.

If Cassius Beats Uncle Sam, Bonavena Next Opponent

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay has finished off the last of a list of fighters who could be called — with kindness — contenders with his seventh-round knockout of Zora Folley.

Argentina's Oscar Bonavena will be the next sacrificial lamb for the super-fast, invincible champion in Tokyo, May 27, unless Clay's legal appeal for a stay from Army induction April 11 is rejected.

Folley, the 34-year-old, No. 1 contender, was knocked out when the supremely confident Clay, or Muhammad Ali as he prefers, decided he wanted to pull the trigger on Wednesday night.

The end came at 1:48 of the seventh round from a chopping right to the jaw. Another right had dropped the bloody-nosed veteran for nine in the fourth round.

These were the highlight rounds of a bout that became one-sided when Clay decided the time had become ripe to open up in the third round. Before that he danced around the ring, virtually conceding the first two rounds to the plodding, methodical challenger.

Bonavena, is a 24-year-old, crude, muscular swinger, who was virtually blanked in 10 rounds by Folley nearly 13 months ago in Madison Square Garden. His greatest defensive skill is blocking left jabs with his head.

Folley was a prohibitive 7-1 long shot for his first shot at the title. What odds against Oscar? 100 to 1?

"There is no one around today who can beat him," said Folley in an interview in the Garden's basement after the fight. "I know, I've fought them all.

"All I remember of the end of the fight was a right — right on the chin. After that I just don't remember."

Clay heatedly denied, in answer to a question, that he had carried Folley.

"I was not carrying him," he said. "He was a better fighter than Sonny Liston, or Floyd Patterson or Ernie Terrell.

He was slick, tricky and a good boxer."

Folley's greatest moment came after he was floored in the fourth round. A left-right combination to the jaw dropped him on his face. He sat up with a startled look at the five-count and was up at nine.

Clay Matches Final Punch With One That KO'd Liston

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, or Muhammad Ali if you prefer, compared the punch that put away Zora Folley Wednesday night with the one that did in Sonny Liston in the first round of their return match at Lewiston, Maine in May, 1965.

"In a way it was the same punch," said Clay, who dropped the 34-year-old challenger for good at 1:48 of the seventh round.

Then Clay shrugged off suggestions of an anchor punch — the term applied to the blow that took Liston out in the first round of their bout.

"There is no anchor punch," the champion said. "That was just a publicity stunt."

Folley, who seemed to be carrying the fight to Clay before being knocked out, said he remembered getting hit before going down.

"All I remember," Folley said, "was a right — right on the chin. After that, I just don't remember."

Clay toyed with reporters in a joint dressing room press conference in which he shared a raised platform and microphone with Folley.

"What was the knockout punch," one reporter asked.

"I don't have a punch," countered Clay, teasing his critics. "Just couple of lucky right hands."

Clay said Folley was one of his better opponents. "He's better than Liston, Floyd Patterson and Ernie Terrell. He hurt me quite a few times to the body But I was smart and clever," the champion said.

"I fought well," said Folley, a veteran of 18 years in the ring. "I gave it all I had. He was just a better fighter."

Folley did well in the early rounds and at one point, when Clay danced around the ring with his guard down, the champion's manager, Herbert Muhammad, became alarmed.

"He said I should quit playing with my hands down," said Clay. "I said I wasn't playing, but just feeling him out. He was slick, tricky and a good boxer."

Folley said he would continue fighting. "I think I can beat everybody around but Clay," he said. Then he added that he didn't think there was any heavyweight around who could take the title away from the champion.

"And I've fought all the contenders," the challenger added.

Clay's next fight appears to be with Uncle Sam. He is scheduled for induction into the Army April 11.

"We have an agreement to fight Oscar Bonavena in Tokyo May 27," said Herbert Muhammad. "There are some ifs though."

A reporter asked what the "ifs," were.

"One of them," replied Muhammad, "is if the champ doesn't get drafted."

Orioles Lob Two Over Fence for First Home Runs in Exhibiton

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank(ly) speaking they were grand sights for Baltimore fans — those two balls soaring over the fence at Sarasota, Fla.

They were the first home runs of the exhibition season for Frank Robinson, and they came on consecutive times at bat Wednesday in the Orioles' 5-4, 10-inning victory over Chicago.

Robinson, who has been quietly rounding into shape since underdoing knee surgery during the off season, only played four innings, but it was long enough to give opposing American League pitchers an early start toward a good case of the jitters.

Chicago tied the game at 4-4 on rookie Bill Voss' two-run single in the eighth, and then Baltimore won it on two wild pitches by Danny Lazar and Dave Johnson's single.

Two players St. Louis is counting heavily on had a big day in the Cardinal' 7-2 victory over the New York Mets at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Roger Maris got three singles and a double and scored four times, and Orlando Cepeda collected a single, double and two-run homer. Maris had collected only four hits in 10 previous exhibition games. Ron Swoboda hit a two-run homer for the Mets.

In other games, Cincinnati outslugged Philadelphia 10-6, Houston edged Atlanta 4-3, Pittsburgh nipped Kansas City 2-1, Boston downed the New York Yankees 5-2, Washington topped Detroit 6-4, Los Angeles trounced Minnesota 15-2, California defeated the Chicago Cubs 5-2 and Cleveland walloped San Francisco 14-5.

Vada Pinson and Lee May paced Cincinnati's 16-hit attack at Tampa, Fla., with home runs. Philadelphia managed only three hits — doubles by Tony Gonzalez and Grant Jackson and Johnny Callison's homer.

Meanwhile, at the Phillies' camp at Clearwater, Fla., owner Bob Carpenter announced that Manager Gene Mauch's contract has been extended through 1968.

Norm Miller's two-out, two-strike homer in the last of the ninth lifted Houston past Atlanta at Cocoa, Fla. John Hoffman hit a two-run homer for Atlanta.

Bill Mazeroski singled home both Pittsburgh runs, the second one in the top of the ninth, in the Pirates' victory over Kansas City. The A's scored off Dennis Ribant, who pitched the first five innings. Jim Shellenback worked the last four for the Pirates.

Jim Bouton was touched for two-run homers by Carl Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli in the third inning in Boston's defeat of the Yankees at Winter Haven, Fla. Mickey Mantle left the game in the third inning with a slight pull of the left hamstring muscle.

Frank Howard keyed Washington's triumph over Detroit at Pompano Beach, Fla., by driving home three runs with a double and homer. Bill Freehan hit a two-run homer for Detroit.

Los Angeles cut loose for 19 hits in its rout of Minnesota at Vero Beach, Fla. Ron Fairly led the way with a single and triple for three RBI. Wes Parker, Jim Hickman and Jeff Torborg each batted in two runs.

At Palm Springs, Calif., Paul Schall and Jim Fregosi hit bases-empty homers in the first inning off the Cubs Ferguson Jenkins. Jay Johnstone singled home what proved to be the Angels' winning run in the sixth inning.

Cleveland used 15 hits and seven San Francisco errors to blast the Giants at Phoenix, Ariz. Rocky Colavito drove in three runs, including two with a homer, for the Indians.

BYU, UCLA Tied In Fourth Round Of Invitational

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Brigham Young University and UCLA went into the fourth round of the Riverside Invitational Tournament today tied for the lead.

Brigham Young romped over Ohio State, 14-11, Wednesday and UCLA scored a 10-2 triumph over the University of California at Riverside.

Both leaders have three wins and one loss.

The round robin tournament ends Saturday after six days of play. Each of the eight teams plays seven games.

Wyoming beat Washington 13-12 Wednesday in 11 innings. The a winning run was scored by Don Adair, who opened the inning with a walk.

Pitcher Jerry Ruth tried to pick Adair off first base and the runner went to third.

The next batters were walked and Art Howe singled to center to drive Adair home.

In other third round action Wednesday, Mississippi stopped Yale, 7-6.

The Ohio State loss was its first defeat of the tournament.

However, Ohio State tied with UC Riverside in 14 innings Monday night.

World Ice Championships At Three Way Tie Midway

By MARTIN ZUCKER

VIENNA (AP) — The 1967 World Hockey Championships reached the halfway mark today and the big question was how can Russia be stopped.

The Russians are tied with Canada and Czechoslovakia for first place — all with three wins and no losses. But they have scored the most goals and shown the most fearsome firepower to date.

They are the defending champions-having won four times in a row — and most hockey officials here tab them to do it again.

The players had a day off Wednesday and during the pause the question of how and who can beat the Soviets was asked. Here are some answers:

U.S. goalie Carl Wetzel of Detroit, who had to make 37 save in a 7-2 loss against Russia last Sunday, said, "Only a great team effort can beat the Russians because all their shots are good. The Canadians can do it."

Veteran Swedish forward Sura-Pelle Pettersson said, "Sweden has beaten them before. It is important to score the first goal and make them make mistakes. But I don't really know how to do that."

Sweden ruined Russia's perfect championship record last year by tying the Soviets. The two teams meet here Saturday.

Finnish team manager Pekka Aitero, who saw his skaters go down to an 8-2 first-day defeat, summed up an opinion held by many.

"They are a machine and nobody will be able to beat them," he said.

East German Coach Rudi Schmieder, who felt the full brunt of Russian power in a 12-0 pasting, said, however, that the Soviet machine can be made kaputt.

"They can be beaten," he said. "Even we got as close as tying them 3-3 last December. Canada and Sweden can do it here. I don't think the Czechoslovaks can.

"It will take lots ot toughness, lots of body checking, both of which could break up their perfect precision play."

U.S. Coach Murray Williamson of Minneapolis suggested one way to do it is to score the first goal and then "forecheck the hell out of them."

Williamson has other problems, however. Today his team faces Canada, which has run 24 up goals in three games — second only to the 27 Russian scores.

The Yanks gave tough Czechoslovakia a battle for two periods Tuesday night before a combination of mistakes, superior condition and teamwork buried them in an 8-3 loss.

"I hope we make less defensive mistakes against Canada than we did against Czechoslovakia," Williamson said.

He referred to several Czechoslovak breakaway goals — three of which came while the Czechoslovakians had a man in the penalty box.

Interviews by Illinois for Head Coach

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Two former Illinois stars, Alex Agase, Northwestern football coach, and Johnny Kerr, Chicago Bulls' basketball coach, reportedly have been interviewed, among others, by Illini groups for head coaching jobs at the university.

The football and basketball jobs are open on the resignations of Pete Elliott and Harry Combes.

Cliff Hagan, former basketball star at Kentucky, also was on hand for an intreview by Leslie Bryan, acting director of athletics.

Meanwhile, Gene Vance, the former Illinois Alumni Association executive director who becomes athletic director April 1, was understood to have been asked by the athletic board to curtail a Hawaii vacationto have a voice in the final selections.

Champaign businessmen, it was reported, have started a drive for a testimonial for Elliott, Combes and assistant baseketball coach Howard Braun.

The goal is to raise $10,000 cash for each coach.

Construction On CSU Stadium Begins in April

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) —Construction on the new Colorado State University football stadium will begin in late April, according to planning director Hersh McGraw.

Completion of the stadium is expected to add to CSU's potential of becoming a member of the Western Athletic Conference.

McGraw said bids for the project will be opened in Denver April 11, and construction will start 10 days to two weeks afterwards.

Estimated cost of the 30,000-seat stadium is $2,275,000.

Foreign Athletes in Spain for Easter Games

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Athletes from the United States, Canada, England, Venezuela and other countries began arriving today for the Trinidad Northern Amateur Association's Easter International Games, which open Saturday.

Father Brings Other Big 10 Schools Into Aid Dispute

CHICAGO (AP) — The foster father of Rich Jones, Illinois' basketball star ruled permanently ineligible, has involved other Big Ten schools in a recruiting campaign for his son.

Meanwhile, in Springfield, the Illinois House in a vote of 127 to 14, has joined the Senate to set up a legislative probe of the relationship of the university with the Bit Ten.

A 10-member committee of House and Senate members will conduct the investigation and report to the General Assembly by June 1.

The resolution urging the investigation grew from the forced of Illini coaches Pete Elliott, Harry Combes and Howard Braun in the university's slush fund recruiting episode.

If they had not resigned, the Big Ten would have indefinitely suspended Illinois from the conference.

The Chicago Tribune quoted the father of Jones, a junior who was among five Illini athletes ruled permanently ineligible by the Big Ten, as saying that his son was "offered a free auto and as much as $100 a month spending money by recruiters for other Big Ten schools."

The father, James Barber, principal of the Kansas Elementary School in Memphis, Tenn., was quoted by the newspaper:

"The recruiters said they represented Indiana University, the University of Iowa and Michigan State University."

Barber told the Tribune that recruiters "swarmed around" him shortly before his son graduated from Lester High School in Memphis.

"I didn't take down any names, but a man who wanted Rich to go to Indiana offered a free automobile and spending money," Barber was quoted by the newspaper. "So did a man from Iowa. And the recruiter from Michigan State offered to double any offers we had."

Barber said that Illinois, offer was for a straight athletic scholarship and that he decided to convince his son to attend Illinois "because I felt he would get a superior education there."

At Springfield, Rep. William Pollack, of Chicago, Republican majority leader, said "there is nothing political" in the legislative investigation.

"So many questions are being raised by the people of Illinois after the firing of coaches forced by the Big Ten that we must look into it." Pollack said.

"Athletic contests at the university, partly because of commercial television payments, are themselves directly involved in the revenue aspects of state government.

"No one is being accused, ridiculed or indicted. We are just concerned about our relationship with the Big Ten."

The top three teams and top eight individuals will qualify for the nationals in Carbondale, Ill.

Dayton Playing One at Time In NCAA Hardcourt Finals

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Dayton Flyers are coming to Louisville today intent on winning the NCAA basketball title, but they're trying to take the whole thing in stride.

"It's always been our policy to worry about the game coming up before worrying about the next one," said Dayton's successful coach, Don Donoher, who is in the NCAA playoffs for the third straight year.

"We'll play everybody in the tournament the same way we went through the season," he added. "There's not time to change anything anyway."

Dayton and the three other teams competing for the NCAA title, UCLA, North Carolina and Houston, arrive today and will hold hour-long workouts in Freedom Hall, site of this year's tournament.

Dayton is the most surprising entry in the championship field, having advanced over sixth-ranked Western Kentucky and Southeastern Conference champion Tennessee, but Donoher says the Flyers planned it that way.

"We were hoping to go to the CAA playoffs again," Donoher said. "We're an independent and since there's no league title to shoot for, we just aimed for the NCAA."

Dayton brings a 24-5 record into the championship meet and Donoher boasts the best winning percentage of any coach in the tourney. He's won 69 and lost 18 for a .793 percentage.

All three of Dayton's NCAA regional games were close. They beat Western Kentucky 69-67 in overtime, whipped Tennessee 53-52 and toppled Virginia Tech 71-66 in overtime.

But Donoher said the close games were "just one of those things."

"In our games this season, we didn't have many close ones. Usually we'd win by a pretty good score or lose the same way," he said.

"But the competition had a lot to do with it when we got into regional play. Actually, our region was pretty well balanced. Any of the teams could have won it."

Dayton will be the underdog again in the opening game of the tournament Friday night against North Carolina. Houston and UCLA meet in the second game Friday.

The championship game is Saturday night and many of the coaches attending the NCAA Coaches Association meeting at Louisville say the winner of the Houston-UCLA match will emerge as the national champion.

Indiana Bids To Break Swim Hold

By BOB VOGES

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) —A team from Indiana sets out today to break swimming domination of the National Collegiate Athletic Association by Southern California and Yale.

A fight among Indiana, defending champion Southern California and Yale shaped up in the first day's competition in the NCAA Swimming Championships at Michigan State University. The meet ends Saturday night.

Southern California is trying for its fifth straight NCAA title.

Yale is loaded with tank talent this year, including Don Schollander, winner of four gold medals in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo.

But Indiana has been the Big Ten champion seven straight times and the NCAA runner-up the last three years.

The Hoosiers have strength in diving and in high point relays events.

Ken Sitzberger won both the high and low board events in the conference meet. He also was the Olympic springboard diving gold medal winner.

Indiana has been reaching as far as Australia to import talent. Kevin Berry won an Olympic first in the 200-meter butterfly and Bobby Windle took the 100-meter freestyle, both for the Aussies.

Indiana defending NCAA champs include Bill Utley in the 200-yard individual medley, Ken Webb in the 400-yard individual medley and an intact 800-yard freestyle relay team.

The defending champion Trojans have their winning 400-yard freestyle team running from last year. And Wayne Anderson returned to defend his 200-yard breaststroke title.

Southern California was the winner of the Pacific Eight Championship. Yale is fresh from taking the Eastern Seaboard Championship.

Michigan also is considered a strong contender. The Wolverines have an all-around swimmer in Carl Robie, defending champ in the 200-yard butterfly. He was a triple winner in the conference meet, placing first in the butterfly, 500-yard freestyle and 1,650-yard freestyle.

Michigan State's leading swimmer is Gary Dilley, two-time NCAA winner in the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

Afternoon preliminaries daily will be followed by evening finals in the meet.

Finals tonight are in the 500-yard freestyle, 200-yard individual medley, 50-yard freestyle, one-meter springboard diving and 400-yard medley relay.

Football Coaches Warned Watch Words With Press

ATLANTA (AP) — A letter of caution will be sent to every major college football coach in America as a result of a controversial series written in Sports Illustrated last summer by Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) reported.

Dick Colman, head coach at Princeton who heads the NCAA Ethics Committee, told the Atlanta Constitution by telephone Wednesday night that no punitive action was taken against Bryant "even though we did feel there were some unfortunate statements made in the article."

Colman said the committee examined the series closely at its meeting in Houston.

"We felt there were dangers in it, but that, as a whole, it was a personal statement that represented a great deal of commitment to football and an unquestioned love for the game," Colman said. "Bryant's basic attitude was considered good."

In the series, Bryant said that in past years some players on his teams were "paid," but that since coming to Alabama in 1958 there has been no violation of the rules.

"If I were a young coach starting out," Bryant wrote, "I might give in, but I'm not going to do it now. I don't have to, and if I had to I wouldn't."

"That was the one part that stuck in our craw," Colman said. "We felt a little sick about it. But when you read that series in toto, you cannot conceive of this man advocating cheating or anything approaching it."

Colman said the letter of warning will be sent out shortly to some 2,000 coaches coast-to-coast. It will urge that they "stress the valuable and important aspects of football and urge that they be every careful in dealings with the press."

Wrong Turn Lifts Mitchell to Victory

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

A wrong turn kept Mitchell's South Central League winning streak alive Wednesday, and extended Centennial's losing string to four games this season.

Bulldog pitcher Bob Hessel, fielding a seventh-inning bunt, momentarily forgot the runner on third to throw out the batter at first and Mitchell excaped a pitchers' duel with a 3-2 verdict at Memorial Park.

Mitchell, unbeaten league champion in its first season in 1966, won its 15th straight SCL contest and raised itss eason record to 2-0 going into this afternoon's non-league encounter with Air Academy High.

It was an uphill struggle all afternoon but the Marauder made it pay off when pinch runner Ray Weidenhaft scored from third on Gary Brown's squeeze bunt. Hessel came off the mound toward the third baseline with Weidenhaft halfway down. Instead of forcing the winning run back to third, or attempting to tag him out, Hessel elected to try for the double play, first to home. Brown was out easily enough, but Weidenhaft slid under catcher John Palmer's tag for the decider.

It had been a scoreless — and almost hitless — deadlock after the first two innings. Centennial scored twice in the first and Mitchell slipped over a couple in the second. The next three innings passed without hits, although seven runners reached base. Mitchell's Bob Croft hit a single in the sixth but a double play erased the threat to the Bulldogs, who eventually went down to their fourth loss of the year.

With two out in the first, Centennial's Zeke Nava slammed a triple into right. Palmer walked and during a rundown between first and second, Nava tried to score from third. The peg home was in time but Nava's slide shook the ball loose from catcher Dave McGlothlin.

Palmer later scored from second on an infield error.

Runners died on second and third when Hessel struck out two batters in the first, but Mitchell recovered in the second.

Rick Milner singled and was put out in the first half of a double play bid on Rick Doneqhue's grounder. Doneqhue stole second and Bruce Thompson walked. Croft placed the ball just to the left of second base, but the shortstop muffed the throw trying to nail Croft and Doneqhue scored. Dave Sample singled, driving in Thompson.

Thompson, the starting hurler, was in trouble almost every inning. He struck out a batter for the third out with the bases loaded in the fifth, his final inning.

Rick Clark came on to hurl the final two frames, and he, too, had his troubles. In the seventh, Bulldogs reached second and third with two out and Clark came back to fan the dangerous-hitting Hessel.

T-Birds Shatter Cheyenne Mountain on 16-Hit Attack

By W. J. McGLASSON
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The Wasson Thunderbirds used everything from a grand slam homer to a bloop single in the infield Wednesday in crushing Cheyenne Mountain, 16-6, in a non-conference game on the Indians' home field.

The grand slammer, by catcher Rick Mueller in the fourth inning, was one of two homers the T-Birds collected in their 16-hit assault upon three Indian hurlers en route to their easy win.

The other was by Phil Freeman in the sixth inning off of relief left hander Jim Thatcher. The day before Freeman had hurled a 10-inning, 2-1, loss to Pueblo East.

It was a real romp for the T-Birds who had lost their two previous games this season.

They jumped into a three-run lead in the first inning when the Indian's starter, right hander, Fred Ritchie, issued two bases on ball, a single, and a double. These, coupled with a sacrifice fly by right fielder Bud East, produced their go - ahead tallies and they were never stopped.

In the second inning they also collected three runs on Mark Finlayson's double and singles by Freeman and East topped off by one walk and a hit batsman.

It was in the fourth, however that the gates broke open. The T-Birds sent 11 batters to the plate in sending seven runs across the plate. During the inning East doubled and singled, Mueller powered his four-run homer over the centerfield fence, Freeman got a ground rules Double when his drive into left barely missed clearing the fence on the fly but bounced out of play, Dave Murphy and Tom Waymire singled and Finlayson got a run batted in when Ritchie walked a run home.

Wasson added three more in the sixth frame when Mueller, leading off, got a double on a bad-hop grounder to shortstop which was deflected into short centerfield. Freeman homered, Dick Roebken, the winning hurler for Wasson, doubled, and Murphy was walked, stole two bases and made it home on a passed ball.

The Indians got nine hits en route but were never a real threat as Roebken repeatedly bore down to pull himself out of the hole. He struck out 10 of the 38 batters he faced and issued only nine hits, all but two of them singles.

Catcher Jim Cech doubled to lead off the fifth inning for Cheyenne Mountain and Ritchie, who finished the game in right field, got a two-base shot in the sixth, when Chuck Hughes had relieved Roebken.

Hughes was into trouble in his second outing of the season when he took over the mound duties in the sixth frame. He gave up three hits, and another batter reached first base on an error. But two runners were doubled off second and another struck out leaving the Indians' rally short with only three runs.

Cheyenne Mountain got their first tally in the first inning when centerfielder Jim Fullerton walked, first baseman Galen Graham singled, and Cech singled a run home.

They got two more in the second when, with two out, Cary LaGrone walked, and Mike Hammel singled him home following an error which left LaGrone reach second.

It was not until the sixth that Cheyenne managed to score again.

Edelen Boosts Alamosa As Ideal Training Spot

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP) — Meet Buddy Edelen, militant spokesman for the little community of Alamosa as a training site for Olympic athletes, especially distance runners.

Edelen has set American records for distances ranging from seven miles to the classic marathon measurement of 26 miles, 385 yards.

He says Alamosa, with its 7,544-foot altitude in south-central Colorado's San Luis Valley, is a fine spot in which to train for the next Olympic Games at Mexico City in October 1968.

Alamosa, walled on three sides by snowtipped peaks, is about 200 feet higher than the Mexican capital.

Edelen, who keeps running every day that weather allows despite acute pain from a ruptured spinal disc, came to Alamosa in September two years ago.

He now teaches psychology classes at Adams State College, which has offered its facilities for training purposes if the International Olympic Committee approves.

If approval is given, Edeln will become full-time coordinator for the Alamosa project at $8,000 a year.

Edelen said he came here to determine for himself if long-distance runners could compete successfully at altitudes above 7,001 feet.

He said an IOC ruling says that high-altitude training should not exceed four weeks in Olympics open. Not long enough, Buddy said.

"I feel that the minimum training period will have to be at least 12 weeks," he said. "There are several things about high-altitude training that haven't been taken into account.

"High-altitude training definitely has a carryover effect. Once an athlete has trained at this altitude for a certain period, then goes back to a lower altitude, it won't take him as long to recondition himself to high altitudes as someone who's trained all the time at sea level.

"Another thing the committee has to realize is the sun at these altitudes. It's definitely a factor. It's much brighter and warmer than at lower levels, and even in February I can feel the effect of it."

Widefield Splits Second Doubleheader of Season

By LARRY KNUDSEN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Widefield came up with several flashy stars during the basketball season and now has the makings of one on the baseball diamond.

The Gladiators have depended on underclassmen this year, and Bill Cardenas, junior pitcher, is no exception. The little righthander hurled a four-hitter as Widefield crushed St. Francis, 11-1 in the first game of a doubleheader at the Glads' diamond Wednesday.

The Warriors revenged the loss by downing the Glads, 6-3, in the five-inning nightcap.

It was the second straight victory this season for Cardenas. He picked up his first win last Saturday with a 1-0 triumph over Denver West as Widefield also split that doubleheader, losing in the first game by the same score.

St. Francis' lone run came in the fourth inning as Dan Malarkey ripped a double off Cardenas. Brian Baker walked, while Dan Martin advanced the runners with a sacrifice to third base. Malarkey scored as Bob Ward reached first on an error.

For Widefield the third and fifth innings were the big ones with a total of nine runs coming across the plate in those two frames.

Mike Genner, who started on the mound for the Warriors, gave up four hits in the third and two walks.

Art Weinshank opened the stanza with a three - base error committed by Jim Kloppenberg, and Lindy Elton brought him home with a triple that was stretched to the limit. Elton just beat the throw in from left field.

Terry Kashner singled as did Steve Loveless and Mike Winkelbauer drew a walk before Mike Hittesdorf walked to drive in another run. Don Castle then singled. Genner yielded one more walk the second time around in the order to Weinshank before striking out Elton to end the rally.

In the fourth inning Genner walked three Gladiators, while two others were safe on errors by Dick Phillips.

Malarkey relieved Genner in the sixth inning and gave up one more run. Winkelbauer walked, stole second and came home on two wild pitches by Malarkey.

In the second game, Rich Anderson was on the mounds for the Glads, and the Warriors pounced on him for two hits in the first frame. Malarkey, the starting pitcher, ended the threat by grounding into a double play to shortstop Hittesdorf.

The second inning found the first two Widefield batters go down in order before Hittesdorf singled. Castle drew a walk and Anderson reached first on an error.

Both runs came in on Weinshank's single before Elton struck out.

The Warriors came back in the third with three runs with Malarkey's double driving in Ward and Kane. An error put Ward on while Kane singled. Joe Kloppenberg then singled to drive in Malarkey.

Widefield's hit-and-run specialty brought in the Glads' final run of the day in the third inning.

Kashner was safe on an error, and Loveless and Isenhart moved him to third with consecutive sacrifice bunts. Winkelbauer singled to finish the job.

Bruce Scott, who replaced Anderson on the mound for Widefield in the third, took the loss as he gave up three runs to the Warriors in the fifth.

Scott opened the inning by yielding a bunt single to Phillips at the top of the order, while Ward reached first on a fielder's choice.

Kane walked, Malarkey was safe on an error and Kloppenberg rapped a sacrifice fly to score the last run of the day.

Widefield, now 2-2 for the season, travels to Mapleton Saturday for a 9:30 a.m. contest.

Monroe, Tucker in Pan-Am Cage Test

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Little All-America Earl Monroe, who led Winston-Salem, N.C., State to the NCAA college division championship, and Al Tucker, of Oklahoma Baptist, twice voted the Most Valuable Player in the NAIA Tournament, were named today to the NAIA squad that will participate in the Pan-American basketball trials.

Also named to the NAIA squad were Robert Allen of Arkansas AM&N and Don Dee of St. Mary of the Plains, Dodge City, Kan.

The 18-man tryout squad will begin training Wednesday, March 29, at St. Cloud, Minn., State College. Twelve players will be selected from the tryouts to represent the NAIA in the four-team Pan American trials.

Also participating in the three-day round-robin will be teams representing the AAU, the Armed Forces and the NCAA.

Like Winston Salem, Arkansas AM&N played in the NCAA Tournament this year. Both schools have dual membership in the NCAA and NAIA.

A. O. Duer, NAIA executive secretary, has announced that Jim Gudger, basketball coach at Western Carolina College, Chullowhee, N.C., will be head coach of the NAIA team. Oklahoma Baptist Coach Bob Bass was named an assistant.

Named as trainer was Jim Emmerich, head trainer for the U.S. Olympic team in 1956 at Melbourne and in 1964 at Tokyo. The team manager will be Joe Axelson, assistant executive secretary of the NAIA.

Monroe, a 6-3 guard, averaged 44.3 points per game this season, the second highest in NAIA history. Bevo Francis of Rio Grande (Ohio) led the NAIA in 1953 and 1954 with 20.1 and 48.0 averages, respectively.

Tucker became the all-time leading scorer in NAIA national tournament play with a total of 471 points. The 6-8 senior hit 47 points in the championship game, in which Baptist lost to St. Benedict's of Atchison, Kan., 71-65.

Tucker had led Oklahoma Baptist to the NAIA finals three straight years. The Bisons won in 1966 and wound up second in 1965.

Dee, a 6-8 junior, led St. Mary of the Plains to its finest season ever, averaging 21.9 points a game. He scored 34 points in a losing effort against eventual NAIA champion, St. Benedict's, in the District 10 finals.

Allen averaged 26.8 points and 14 rebounds a game while leading Arkansas AM&N to a 24-7 season. He is a 6-6 senior.

Selection of the other 14 NAIA players will be completed within the next two days.

They blanked the runner-up Baltimore Clippers 2-0 Wednesday night to take an eight-point lead over the Clippers with only six games left to play in the regular season that ends April 2.

The Cleveland Barons beat the Springfield Indians 4-1 to move within four points of the idle second-place Rochester Americans in the Western Division. The two games were the only ones scheduled in the AHL Wednesday.

Ski Season Hits Top in West Classic

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (UPI) —The international ski racing season hits its last lap here this weekend on a gigantic Teton mountain in the Wild Wild Classic, and two big questions remain to be answered.

Can Jean - Claude Killy of France continue his string of seven straight American victories, and can Marielle Goitschel hold her narrow lead over two little ladies in competition for the women's World Cup?

If the gambling fraternity ever set its sights on skiing, the odds this week would be heavy in favor of both these strong French skiers. But the two giant slalom courses, and one slalom on Rendezvous Peak could—as always—upset the odds.

Killy, who won all three international races two weeks ago at Franconia, N.H., then led his team to the world series of skiing title with four firsts at Vail, Colo., last weekend, is favored again to sweep the men's field here.

At the conclusion of the slalom Sunday, Killy will receive the World Ski Cup for men, which he cinched with a victory at Franconia and then frosted by winning a maximum 225 points with his performance at Vail last Sunday.

The winner of the lady's cup will be determined after the giant slalom Saturday and the slalom Sunday. Currently, Miss Goitschel leads all international women racers with 169 points. She is followed by her teammate, Annie Famose, with 161 points, and Canadian Nancy Greene, who won two races at Vail, with 151.

Both Miss Greene and Miss Famose have mathematical possibilities of outpointing Miss Goitschel for the cup in the first year of its existence, but a normal performance by the leader this week is expected to insure her winning.

More than 90 skiers from the United States, France, England, Canada, Italy, Switzerland and Austria began training on the four, 135 vertical foot drop at the Jackson Hole ski area Wednesday. Most racers agreed that the snow on the mountain was in good shape for this late in the season and expected fast times.

An opening giant slalom race will be held Friday and will count for points toward the Wild West Classic Trophy, also to be awarded Sunday.

Rangers Tip Hawks for 2nd in NHL

CHICAGO (AP) — The Hulls made the Chicago Black Hawks' offense a family affair Wednesday night in a 3-3 stalemate with the New York Rangers, who grabbed sole possession of second place in the National Hockey League.

The tie gave the Rangers 68 points. The Montreal Canadiens whipped the Maple Leafs 5-3 in Toronto to deadlock the Leafs for third place, each with 67 points.

The Black Hawks are stampeding to their first NHL championship and hold first place by 20 points.

Dennis Hull pushed the Hawks into a 2-0 lead early in the first period. He scored his 20th and 21st goals 32 seconds apart.

Reg Fleming scored midway in the opener and Vic Hadfield tallied early in the second period to put the Rangers into a 2-2 tie.

Bobby Hull, at 4:48 of the second frame, slammed a 25-foot shot past goalie Ed Giacomin for his 52nd goal of the year to put the Hawks in front 3-2.

Hadfield's second goal at 7:35 of the finale while Chicago's Pat Stapleton was in the penalty box, locked the game at 3-3.

J.C. Trembaly's two successive goals early in the second period opened a 4-1 lead by the Canadiens. Ron Ellis then led a Toronto spurt with two goals.

After the Leafs had pulled up to 4-3, Jean Beliveau's goal at 16:54 of the last period proved the Canadiens' clincher.

SET WOMEN'S DATES

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1967 Senior Women's Amateur golf championship will be played at the Atlantic City Country Club, Oct. 4-6. Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., is the defending champion.

Wilt, Runs Show Against Royals

CINCINNATI (AP) — "Their game strategy was obvious with the first play and that was with Wilt going to the basket. At that point we knew what we were in for," Coach Jack McMahon of the Cincinnati Royals said quietly.

What the Royals were in for was a dazzling one-man show as Wilt Chamberlain poured in 37 points to lead Philadelphia to a 123-102 victory that evened the National Basketball Association's best-of-5 Eastern Division playoffs at 1-1 Wednesday night.

Chamberlain scored the 76ers' first basket to tie the score and the Royals never went ahead. Wilt also pulled down 27 rebounds and was credited with 11 assists as the 76ers avenged their series-opening upset in Wednesday's only playoff game.

"Wilt showed why he should be recognized as the greatest player in the history of the game," Coach Alex Hannum said in the 76ers' dressing room.

"We also tried to key in on (Oscar) Robertson a little more tonight and since Wally Jones is smaller we tried to shift other men on him too."

"We've got two tough ball clubs, but I feel Philadelphia is physically stronger than the Royals," said Hannum. "I would like to play them again tomorrow (Thursday) instead of Friday."

Over in the Royals' dressing room, McMahon said it was not just a matter of strength.

"I was not at all surprised at their going to Wilt," he said. "We knew what to expect. We just didn't play well enough.

"You know, I know and all the rest know that Philadelphia plays zone defense at least partially and the basic adjustment against zone defense is to move the ball. In the final analysus, it was the shooting that killed us."

Statistics bore out McMahon's view. The Royals hit with 40 of 92 shots from the field, while the 76ers connected with 49 of 101 field goal attempts.

Robertson scored 29 points to lead the Royals and Connie Dierking — the star of Tuesday night's game — added 21, plus 17 rebounds. Hal Greer scored 28 for Philadelphia.

Hannum said the 76ers took no special measures to keep Dierking down.

"No, we didn't do anything different against Dierking," he said. "I thought Connie was great Tuesday night, but I jus didn't think he could play lik that again."

While the 76ers and Royals rested, Los Angeles prepared t take on San Francisco and th Chicago Bulls moved to St Louis to continue their playoff tonight.

LaRusso Sues NBA; Calls Conspiracy, Monopoly

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rudy LaRusso, who was suspended from the National Basketball Association after refusing to participate in a triangle swap last January, is sueing the association for $465,000.

LaRusso filed suit Wednesday in federal court charging the NBA with conspiracy and monopoly.

The strapping 30-year-old former Los Angeles Laker forward says that because of the trade and subsequent suspensions he "is, in effect, blacklisted by all of the other teams and is a victim of group boycott."

The three-way trade involved the Detroit Pistons, the Lakers and the Baltimore Bullets.

Under the deal, Ray Scott went to the Bullets from the Pistons, Mel Counts left the Bullets for the Lakers and LaRusso was to have moved to Detroit.

LaRusso says he signed a new contract with the Lakers last July and on Jan. 16, without consulting him, Los Angeles traded him to the Bullets.

He had played with the Lakers since 1959.

LaRusso says he was subsequently traded to Detroit by the Bullets without written notification.

When LaRusso refused to move from Los Angeles, saying he would play only for the Lakers, he was suspended.

On Jan. 20, the suit alleges, the Lakers agreed not to trade him and reinstated him.

The following day, says LaRusso, NBA President J. Walter Kennedy, also named as a defendant in the suit, suspended LaRusso until the association Board of Governors met Jan. 26.

Shortly after the board met, LaRusso was suspended for breach of contract.

LaRusso says the NBA and its teams and president "conspired and combined" to deprive him of his $30,000 salary for the 1966-67 seasons and $35,000 average salary for 1967-68 and three years hence.

Additionally, he asked damages to cover injury in his "business trade and property."

The suit was filed in federal court because the NBA teams engage in interstate commerce through broadcast games and in contracts negotiation.

Brewer Leads Top Field In Pensacola Competition

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Gay Brewer leads a field of 144 pros into the $75,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament today on the 6,419-yard, par-72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Top money in the 72-hole tournament is $15,000.

Tour tournament winners for 1967 in the field are two-time winner Julius Boros (Phoenix Open and Citrus Open), Bob Goalby (San Diego Open), Jack Nicklaus (Bing Crosby National) Dan Sikes (Jacksonville Open) and Doug Sanders (Doral Open).

Sanders is returning to the scene of the tournament in which he blew his chances last year of becoming the first repeat Pensacola winner.

The Cedartown, Ga., native was disqualified after 36-holes last year for failure to sign his score card. At the time, Sanders had shaved 14 strokes off par for a 130 and a four-stroke lead over Brewer.

Miss from the field are Arnold Palmer, Tom Nieporte and Billy Casper, last year's leading money winner.

Brewer outlasted a late surge by Bruce Devlin last year to win by three stokes. It was Brewer's lone victory of the year and sparked him to a $75,687 year, his best since turning professional.

Frank Beard was low pro today at 64 in a pro-amateur event, collecting $350 for his six-under-par performance.

Pro Paul Bondeson and his team of C. B. Collman, T. A. Crane and R. P. Landry, area amateurs, won the pro-am with a best-ball score of 52.

Also competing is the world amateur team of Downing Gray, Ron Cerrudo, Bob Murphy and Dean Beman. They represented the United States in the Eisenhower Trophy competition last fall in Mexico, finishing second to Australia.

Wasson Slips By Trinidad

TRINIDAD — Wasson edged Trinidad, 347-348, Wednesday in its dual meet golf opener. Thunderbird Tom Connell was medalist with 75.

Next outing for the T - Birds will be Tuesday at Patty Jewett, in a meeting with Boulder, Fairview, Air Academy, Palmer and Mitchell. Time is 2:30 p.m.

Same Getaway, Problems Haunt White Sox' Stanky

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP — The Chicago White sox got off fast this spring, just like they did last season when they won the Grapefruit League title in the American League. But the same old problems still plague Manager Eddie Stanky.

The hitless wonders of the league who were last in club batting at .231 and last in homers with only 87, still have a power shortage.

Pitching has carried the White Sox for years and it figures to do the same this time. The staff had the best earned run average in the league last season and should be as good as ever. Subtract Juan Pizarro, an 8-6 disappointment who was traded to Pittsburgh, and add Jim O'Toole, a 5-7 flop with Cincinnati, and things remain unchanged.

A deal with the St. Louis Cardinals to get more batting sting from the bat of Walt (No Neck) Williams still can not be evaluated because Williams suffered a hairline fracture of the right wrist in Puerto Rico during the winter.

Williams reported to camp with the arm still in a cast although he has been able to swing the bat in practice games.

"We figure to have good pitching and base running and will play headsup baseball," said Stanky. "That just about sums up our attack.

"Williams always has got a lot of hits. He doesn't strike out often. His size (5-6) is no problem if he can hit that ball. Les Moss (coach) says he reminds him of a miniature Minnie Minoso."

The Sox, who finished fourth, 15 games back, last season, were hit by a series of damaging injuries. Hoyt Wilhelm, the veteran knuckler in the bullpen, missed the first months of the season due to a broken finger.

Ron Hansen, the regular shortstop, underwent a disc operation in June and did not come back. Pete Ward, one of the cub's few long ball men, was out with a hernia.

"We were last in batting last year," said Stanky. "But we do not anticipate the same results this year. We have a young catcher in Duane Josephson, who hit .324 in Indianapolis, and have added Williams and Ed Stroud (3.09 at Indianapolis) to the outfield candidates.

"Ken Berry (.271) has found himself and Tommie Agee, (.273) should be even better with his rookie year under his belt. A healthy Pete Ward has to help and Don Buford (.244) gets on base a lot."

Ward, a young man who hit over 20 homers and knocked in 84 and 97 runs in his first two years with the Sox, 1963 and 1964, has disappointed for two seasons. Of course, his injury cut into his production last season when he hit only three homers and batted .219.

Stanky played him in left field part of the time although he was a third baseman in his first years. He also is getting a look at first base.

Bill Skowron (.249) still is available at first base but h has opposition from fleet Tommy McCraw (.229) and possibl Ward. Jerry Adair (.249) move back to second with Hansen (.176) returning to short. Ward or Buford (.244) probably wil play third. Stanky also took a look at rookie Dick Kenworthy (.290 at Indianpolis) at third.

Agee will be in center and Berry in right or left with the third up for grabs among Williams (330 at Tulsa), Stroud Bill Voss (.252 at Indianapolis' and Charles Bradford (.299 a Evansville).

Rookie Josephson who hit .32 at Indianapolis, is the only catcher with a solid batting average. J.C. Martin (.255) and Gerry McNertney (.220) are th holdovers. Smoky Burgess has reconsidered his retirement and is back at 40 to do the pinch hitting.

Pitching is the strong point o this White Sox club, just as i has been for several years under other managers.

Tommy John (14-11), Gary Peters (12-10) and possibly O' Toole (5-7 at Cincinnati) can be the lefty starters. The right-handers are Joe Horlen (10-13) Bruce Howard (9-5), John Buzhardt (6-11) and Jack Lamabe (7-9).

Wilhelm (5-2) still is the king of the bullpen with help from Bob Locker (9-8), Dennis Higgins (1-0) and Wilbur Wood (14 8 as a starter with the Pirates Columbus farm).

The Sox have one more plus—stolen bases. They led the league and the majors with 15 including 51 by Buford and 44 by Agee. Stanky's problem is age old. You still can't steal firs base.

Kansas City Tries to Hold A's in Town

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A number of Kansas City businesses are pledging up to $10,000 worth of advertising in order to keep the Athletics' major league baseball team here.

"If the team has good attendance, reasonable ticket sales and good broadcasting revenue," Kansas City Major Ilus Davis said, "then we will be in a good position to negotiate to keep the franchise here next year."

Five companies pledged support of the plan Wednesday. The meeting was called by Mayor Davis; Ernest Mehl, chairman of the Greater Kansas City Sports Commission, and Dutton Brookfield, chairman of the Jackson County Sports Authority.

The businessmen were told the revenue received from broadcasting rights is one of the prime sources of income for a owners in other cities have contracts giving them between $500,000 and $1 million this season, Richard L. Wagner, who has been active in promoting A's season ticket sales, said.

In contrast, Finley received $250,000 last year.

A spokesman said Finley could expect to receive only about $60,000 under the present contract.

Wagner presented the plans which call for a company to pledge up to $10,000 worth of advertising for the season. The money, except for possible commissions to agencies, would go directly to Finley, Wagner said.

He said the community leaders feel that the broadcasting rights should give the Athletics' owner about $350,000 to be comparable with income received by club owners in other cities of similar size.

The A's contract with the city expires at the end of this season. In the past, the fiery A's owner has tried to move the club to various other cities, including Louisville, Oakland and Seattle.

Tourists Will Get Chance to See Harlem, Too

By AUSTIN SCOTT

NEW YORK (AP) — The big sightseeing buses that lumber past Radio City Music Hall and the Empire State Building never go near Alexander Hamilton's old home, which has been rotting away quietly for more than a century.

Tourists who come to New York every year flock to small, cellar night clubs in Greenwich Village. But they never hear of the night spots where so many big-name entertainers got their starts.

They gaze at photographs of buildings designed by one of America's most successful architects, Stanford White. But no one visits his elegant, yellow brick town houses that still stand in Manhattan.

The reason? All these landmarks — and many more — are in Harlem, the Negro slum area with a reputation that keeps most visitors out of a large section of Manhattan between 95th and 145th streets.

But it wasn't always so. A century ago Harlem was the equivalent of the modern high-income suburb, a spot to which the wealthy retired when they wished to get away from the noise and mud of the city, and much of the architecture reflects their tastes.

In the first half of this century, an underground art form called jazz was nurtured in Harlem until it bloomed at places like Minton's, and entertainers from the late Charlie Parker to Eartha Kitt won their fame first on Harlem's stages.

Much of this began to die in the late 1930s. But its present reputation is unjustified, say Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ruffin.

Beginning May 27, they will offer four-hour bus tours of Harlem, hitting high spots of the past as well as low spots of today.

"Harlem is one of the most famous residential communities in the world," said Manhattan Borough President Percy Sutton, a Negro and a Harlem attorney.

"Harlem has some of the characteristics of the Left Bank in that it is the center of leading Negro intellectuals, artists and performers, ranging from Bayard Rustin to Harry Belafonte," Sutton said.

He could have added poet Langston Hughes, authors James Baldwin and Ralph Ellison, and many more.

But by contrast, Sutton said, it does contain "miles of some of the most notorious slums in the world."

The tours planned for Harlem will take in such little known scenes as the Jumel Mansion, built as a country estate in 1765 and an outstanding example of Georgian architecture; blocks of brownstone apartment houses that are magnificent reminders of the gaslight era in New York; the old Cotton Club where Cab Calloway made jazz history and Lena Horne first displayed her artistry as a dancer; the Apollo Theater, first step to fame for Ella Fitzgerald, Duke Ellington and others.

Harlem artists display their photographs, paintings and drawings in small bookstores much like those in Greenwich Village. And Adam Clayton Powell's Abyssinian Baptist Church, with one of the nation's largest congregations, is an attraction.

Intensified Bombing Seen for Vietnam

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen predicted today intensified U.S. bombing of North Vietnam as the Washington attitude toward peace talks took a pessimistic turn.

Congressional leaders said after a White House meeting Wednesday that President Johnson has little hope for future peace feelers soon.

And top allied military chiefs reportedly agreed at this week's Guam conference that the war could last indefinitely unless military pressure breaks the will of the North Vietnamese.

Dirksen, a key supporter of Johnson's war policies, said airfields near Hanoi probably will be targeted for air attack in the wake of North Vietnam's rejection of the President's bid for peace talks.

"When you are at war and the enemy refuses to talk except on terms that would mean your surrender, you turn the screws on him," Dirksen said in an interview. "You cut off his supply lines and his source of food and you do everything that is necessary to bring him down."

He suggested this would be the President's future strategy.

Johnson gave no indication of his future military plans at Wednesday's meeting with congressional leaders of both parties. But a participant said the President was solemn and grim about Ho Chi Minh's rebuff of his offer to halt the bombings as soon as he had assurances North Vietnamese infiltration of the South had stopped.

The general feeling among those who attended was that the President found little reason to expect future peace feelers. Johnson was said to have indicated the war might go on for a long time.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, told the Senate after the White House session that "the truculent tone of Ho Chi Minh's polemic makes it very clear that he is unwilling to accept negotiations on any terms except those highly favorable to the cause of communism and highly unfavorable to the cause of freedom."

Kuchel, a sometime critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam, said that under these circumstances it was futile to debate further whether the bombing should be halted. He praised Johnson for establishing communications with Ho in an effort to bring opposing sides to the negotiating table.

But congressional reaction to Johnson's move wasn't totally favorable.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said Johnson's proposal was impractical and doomed in advance to failure.

"How could Hanoi agree to end its reinforcement and resupply of North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam which face over 1 million allied troops?" he asked.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, who participated in the White House conference, said, "The division in Democratic ranks" is encouraging Ho to believe "the longer he holds out the better terms he can get."

Eleven senators discussed the war at a meeting with U Thant Wednesday at U.N. headquarters in New York, and afterwards Chairman J.W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he agreed with Thant's proposal for ending the struggle.

Thant calls for a simultaneous end to bombing of the North and ceasefire in the South, with opening of negotiations between the United States and North Vietnam.

Fulbright, D-Ark., wouldn't disclose the substance of the two- hour private talk between Thant and the senators. But one senator said of the U.N. chief: "I think he has a very important part to play" in settling the war.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, a restrained critic of Vietnam policies suggested the next peace appeal should come through the United Nations.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a consistent critic of Johnson's policies, proposed that Thant seek a cease-fire.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said in a report Wednesday that Communists around the world are trying to make propaganda hay by clamoring for a halt to the still over-restrictive bombing of North Vietnam." The panel urged lifting "at least some of the bombing restrictions."

This drew from the Pentagon a bristling reply that "by and large, bombing operations in the North have produced the results expected of them."

The statemnet added: "The interdiction campaign as substantially raised for North Vietnam the cost of its efforts to infiltrate men and material into South Vietnam and has impaired their capability to support sustained, militarily significant operations in the South."

Stennis has argued the cost would be even higher if more military targets were hit.

The subcommittee contended also that American commanders aren't getting all the troops they want in Vietnam. It said there apparently is to be "a leveling off of troop commitments below previously approved programs."

The Pentagon said this wasn't so.

Red Newsman Is Kidnaped, Koreans Say

By K. P. HONG

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea accused the U.N. command today of kidnaping a Communist newsman who defected at this truce village, and demanded his immediate return.

U.S. Army Col. George F. Charlton, secretary of the U.N. command, rejected the Red demand and said that Lee Soo-keun, 44, vice president of the official North Korean Central News Agency, had defected to South Korea of his own initiative.

"The choice of an individual to decide where to live is a basic right of the peoples in all free nations," Charlton told North Korean Col. Han Chu-kyong.

Lee fled from the armistice commission hut Wednesday in a car with U.S. Lt. Col. Donald E. Thomson as Communist guards fired at least 40 bullets at them. Charlton protested the guards' action and accused them of "reckless" shooting.

Col. Han retorted that the guards fired because it was an "abnormal" situation in which a Communist newsman was being abducted.

A North Korean broadcast earlier today also charged that Lee was kidnaped and accused U.S. military police of forcing him into the car. It said the incident was "part of the aggressive maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists to undermine the Korean armistice agreement, increase tension and ignite a new war"

Lee had come to Panmunjom with other Communist reporters to cover an armistice commission meeting. A Korean source said he went to U.N. officials an hour before the meeting ended and told them he wanted to defect to the South.

After the session broke up, Thomson brought his car to the entrance of the conference building. Lee soon emerged from the building and in full view of about 50 Communist guards and newsmen jumped into the waiting car.

Thomson said two Communist guards tried to force their way into the car, but they were blocked by U.S. Army Capt. Thomas L. Bair, a security officer. The car sped off and the Communist guards on duty opened fire with their revolvers, but apparently no bullets hit the car.

As the car approached the southern exit of the security area, a Communist guard lowered a bar across the road, but the vehicle smashed its way through. Thomson said the bar hit the front fender, smashed the windshield, and hit the top of the car. He was cut slightly by shattered glass.

Maj. Gen. Richard C. Ciccolella, the senior U.N. delegate who had left in another car, took Lee by helicopter to the U.S. Army Hospital in Seoul 31 miles south of Panmunjom for a checkup. Lee was then turned over to South Korean security officials.

A Korean source said the first words Lee uttered when he arrived in South Korean hands were: "I missed freedom. Kim Il-sung (North Korean premier) won't be able to have a good night's sleep today for anger."

Lee is reported to have a wife, two sons and a daughter in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The proposed $30,000 bond issue would allow capacity of the lagoons to meet a population of 4,000 persons. Present capacity is only 1,200 persons.

Based upon present operating costs of the district, board members are of the unanimous opinion increased revenues will offset costs of the expansion program, with no need for a mill levy increase. If you want more information be present at the Thursday night meeting.

North Korean Defects to South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A North Korean Communist reporter defected to South Korea after a meeting of the Joint Military Armistice Commission today at the Panmunjom truce village in the demilitarized zone, an informed source reported.

The unidentified Communist newsman jumped into the car of U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Richard G. Ciccolella, senior delegate of the U.N. Command, at the end of the meeting about 5:20 p.m., the source said.

Communist guards fired several shots with revolvers at the speeding car but it got out of the area with no one hurt, the source said.

The defector was held by U.N. Command authorities at their advance camp about four miles south of Panmunjom and was to be sent to Seoul, the source said.

The Communist shooting shattered windows of Gen. Ciccolella's car but none of the occupants was hurt, the source said. The Communist guard post about 100 yards south of the conference building lowered the crossing gate to block the car, but tre driver sped through it, the source reported.

The reporter was the second North Korean newsman to defect through Panmunjom. In 1959, Lee Dong-joon, a reporter for the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, escaped to South Korea while covering a meeting of the armistice commission.

It is believed that the first celebration of Columbus Day was organized in New York in the late 1700s by the Society of St. Tammany, better known in political circles as Tammany Hall.

LAWNGRASSES SPROUT QUICKLY

Fine fescues begin sprouting in as little as four days under ideal conditions, and Kentucky bluegrass within a week, says the Lawn Institute. But don't wait to seed your spring lawn. Even though sprouting is slower in the cold soil of early spring, the grass does get started and is better rooted when warm weather arrives.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Joe's remarkable case shows how the subconscious mind can disrupt the smooth action of the autonomic nervous system. Many medical miracles can thus be produced by faith. And you "Worry Warts" should team up with God Almighty, for God is the very best medicine we doctors can ever prescribe. Scrapbook this case!

CASE B-594: Joe X., aged 37, was told by a quack doctor that one of his lungs was destroyed by tuberculosis germs.

"Don't you have night sweats?" the doctor asked but Joe shook his head.

Yet that same night Joe had two terrific night sweats while he was sleeping.

A later thorough medical examination showed that Joe didn't have a single TB germ in his lungs at all!

"Dr. Crane," you may ask, "how can the subconscious mind thus work on glands that the conscious mind can't control?"

Well, that is one of the miracles involved in our modern stress upon psychosomatic medicine.

You readers know that even if I were to offer you $100 to stand in front of an audience and concentrate on making sweat trickle off your forehead, you couldn't do it.

Even with your utmost effort and by the undivided attention of your conscious mind, motivated by that $100 reward!

So how could Joe, sound asleep, then have his mind prod his sweat glands until he was dripping with a night sweat that actually caused beads of perspiration to trickle down his face!

* * *

There are two nervous systems in the human body.

The first includes the brain and spinal column.

It deals with conscious thinking and our perception of sights, sounds, odors, tastes and touch, plus temperature sensations.

It also controls our voluntary muscles, such as our vocal cords, plus our skeletal muscles, which are hooked to bones.

But we also have other muscles that do not attach to bones.

The heart is an example, as well as the muscles around our intestines and those that make our hairs stand up during fright.

The glands and organs also are beyond our conscious will.

Thus, we can't control the output of saliva or bile or gastric juice by conscious effort.

Nor can we regulate our heart beat or our blood pressure by a mere act of will.

For those glands and muscles not hooked to the bones, have their own separate nervous system, called the autonomic.

Even when we are in coma, that autonomic system still keepts our heart beating and regulates breathing, digestion, etc.

But there is a nerve connection between the spinal cord and this autonomic nervous system at each vertebra.

And it is through this connection that the subconscious mind can upset our normal physiology.

It can cause severe night sweats, due to such fears as Joe had secretly held since his parents died when he was only 14.

It can zoom our blood pressure and produce insomnia.

It can even contribute to sterility in apparently normal wives by disturbing the proper function of the endocrine glands.

For many a childless wife, like Sarah, Rachel and Hannah of the Bible, may later get pregnant after caring for an adopted infant!

God is thus the very best medicine for mankind!

For a firm belief in the Almighty reduces tension and lets our autonomic nervous system do its proper job without interference from fears, anxiety, dread or even loneliness generated at the conscious level!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

CAPITAL FOOTNOTES

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A study aimed at bringing salaries paid top federal officials in line with those in business and industry will be made by a committee headed by Frederick R. Kappel, retired chairman of the board of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Officials of the annual Cherry Blossom Festival, which opens April 4, say Tuesday's unseasonable snow didn't hurt the forming blossoms.

At the request of the Justice Department the Federal Communications Commission is postponing from March 27 to April 10 its hearings on the proposed merger of the American Broadcasting Co. and International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

The National Association of Government Employes wants Congress to investigate the Federal Aviation Agency. The union contends the FAA is "underequipped, undermanned and under- compensated to the point of public peril."

One-Legged Man May Become Policeman

CHICAGO (AP) — James Zieler, 23, passed the police examinations, including the physical, despite the fact he lost his left foot as a Marine in Vietnam. But the village trustees in suburban Oak Lawn ruled him ineligible to join the force.

Zieler sued them and Wednesday Judge Thomas Donovan of Circuit Court issued a restraining order preventing the trustees from interfering in police hiring policy in Zieler's case.

Judge Donovan said "there would be no point" in the tests if the trustees could interfere.

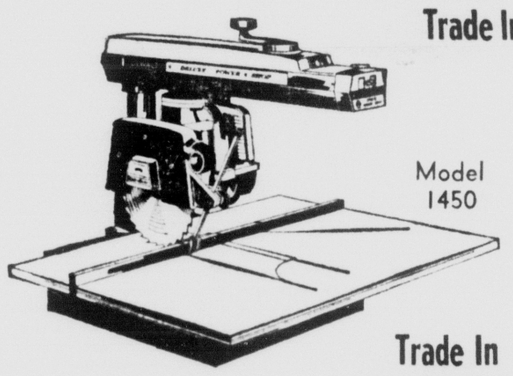

Among the physical feats Zieler had to perform was the standing broad jump, in which he jumped 7 feet 6 inches.

Somali Republic Won't Accept Deportees

By DENNIS NEELD

LOYADA, French Somaliland (AP) — The Somali Republic today turned back a second group of Somalis rounded up by the French in Djibouti for deportation in the wake of the post-referendum street battle Monday.

The two truckloads of about 50 men and women were returned to a crowded detention camp on the outskirts of the capital.

At this little border post an official of the Somali government's interior ministry said no deportees would be accepted into the Somali Republic.

"They have been turned back because they have no papers," he told newsmen.

"We warn the French that if they try to herd these Somalis across the frontier illegally at some other point this will be a provocation.

"It's better that international visitors to so-called French Somalia see the French concentration camps so that they can tell the world how Somalis of Djibouti are treated."

The 14 miles of pot-holed road along the coastline desert to the frontier were heavily guarded by French troops. Gun emplacements pointing toward the Somali republic were dug in the sand, and French helicopters patrolled the frontier constantly.

At one army post, two Somalis were lying in the sun, face down in the dust, guarded by two French soldiers. A soldier ran a mine detector over the clothes of a Somali woman stopped at a roadblock.

The French tried Wednesday to send the first group of about 50 Somalis across the border but they also were refused admission to the Somali republic. The French have rounded up about 4,000 Somalis in Djibouti, claiming they are in French Somaliland illegally, and are continuing to screen Somalis in the capital.

The roundup was ordered after the street battle Monday between rock-hurling Somalis and French troops in which at least 12 Somalis were killed. The Somalis were protesting the result of the referendum Sunday, in which the East African territory voted to remain under French rule.

Broadcasters Hold Annual Company Meet

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Pikes Peak Broadcasting Co., was held at the offices of the company, 399 South 8th Street, Monday.

Re-elected as officers for the coming year were: Harry W. Hoth, president, Joan G. Hoth, vice president, and Anthony A. Trichak, secretary.

President Hoth announced that immediate plans call for the expansion of facilities at the Pikes Peak Broadcasting studios.

On completion of these facilities KRDO will inaugurate their FM broadcasting. The present Channel 3 translator in Alamosa is to be re-oriented in order to give better service to the people of the San Luis Valley.

Continued expansion in the field of color will be accomplished during the coming year. It is anticipated that the American Broadcasting Company network will be full color in the 1967 - 68 season.

Channel 13, through its success in the field of public affairs programming, will expand its local-originating specials, such as the Open Heart Surgery program and the many teletours.

Continued expansion in the metropolitan area has necessitated the use of radio mobile-reporting equipment, which provides the KRDO news staff with instant on - the - scene radio coverage.

The board of directors of the Pikes Peak Broadcasting Company recognize the public service challenge and has answered it with the finest equipment in the Pikes Peak area.

Investment income dividends for the past twelve months have amounted to 23 cents per share.

Financial Industrial Income Fund shares are distributed nationally by the fund's sponsor, Financial Programs, Inc., of Denver.

Date-Line

By Ele and Walt Dulaney

Dear Walt: I am 15 and my boyfriend is 16½. My family is fairly comfortable when it comes to finances. We own a house, two cars and a small plane. Darryl's parents were separated when he was 12, and he lives with his mother in a garage apartment. His mother works but only earns enough for the two of them to get along. Therefore Darryl must work for his spending money, so he has a part-time job after school.

We usually go out once a week. Darryl is very good-natured and would buy me practically anything I wanted. After our date is over, I always feel guilty because he has to earn the money that he uses when he takes me out, while the other boys I date get their spending money from their parents.

I like Darryl a lot but this really bothers me. I though of buying him an expensive present last Christmas, but I knew he would want to do the same for me and I'm back where I started from. So how do I go about evening things up a bit? — J. G.

Dear J. G.: If you care about Darryl, don't make a big thing about your economic differences. No guy likes to be reminded that his girl's family could buy and sell his. Best bet: vary the dating a bit. Instead of a movie or theater date every week, how about a picnic (with you packing the lunch), or a party at your home for several couples, or an excursion with your family?

The point: use your creativity to add some no-expense outings to your romance. You must be doing something right, to make him happy to spend hard earned dollars on you. — Walt.

Daer Ele: I have quite a problem. My older sister, Gloria, is always talking about a girl's personal habits and sex (mine, to be exact). She talks about this around my brothers which is quite embarrassing. I have talked to her so many times about it, but every time she says, "Well, gee, they're only your brothers!" (very sarcastically).

I know they're my brothers, but they don't have the cleanest of minds. In fact every time my sister mentions anything about my personal life in front of them, they leave smirking. What am I to do? — Gloria's Victim.

Dear Victim: Since Squawking hasn't lessened the chatter, try indifference. If Gloria says, "Is it your time of the month?" in front of the boys, don't fall apart. Either ignore her, or return a question, "Why do you ask? Are you going to take out an ad?" If you stop blushing, she'll grow tired of baiting you! — Ele.

Dear Ele and Walt: I've got a gripe and it's with your "gripe of the week" feature. I don't think it's a good idea to encourage people to dwell on the unpleasant things that bug them. This encourages nit-picking and gloom-mongering, and is far from your basically upbeat style.

Why not substitute an "applause" feature instead, and let readers share something each week that someone did for them that made their life a little brighter? In this way, you might encourage people to take notice of the kindnesses that all too often go unrecognized. — Pollyanna.

Dear No: The aim of the Gripe feature is positive not negative. By informing the Date-Line audience of his complaints, a writer unbottles some of his hostility, while helping all of us become more aware of the sensitivities of others. To us, this is ample justification.

But we like the applause idea, too. Let's see what response we get from this open invitation to readers: if you have received or observed a kindness that should be acknowledged in the public eye, share it with DATE-LINE by writing us in care of this paper. (A Bell-McClure Syndicate Feature)

Complaint: Share it with the Dulaneys by writing in care of this newspaper. It might win feature spot as gripe of the week.

U.S. to Consider Giving Stalina Entry to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says it will give "prompt and appropriate consideration" to any application by Svetlana Stalina to enter the United States.

The department confirmed reports the daughter of former Soviet Dictator Joseph Stalin was given a U.S. entry visa before she left India. She now is in Switzerland under a temporary visitor's permit and reportedly is undecided about her future plans.

Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer, said the entry visa would not automatically let Miss Stalina into the United States.

India's Foreign Minister M.C. Chagla earlier denied charges by some Indian officials that the United States had used coercion to get Miss Stalina to leave New Delhi.

McCloskey said the visa was issued only to make it easier for Miss Stalina to enter Italy from India during her defection to the West earlier this month.

He said she asked U.S. Embassy officials in New Delhi for "a safe haven" abroad, and they helped her "in these circumstances and for humanitarian reasons." But no decision has been made on whether she would be allowed in the United States, McCloskey emphasized.

The Bronx is the only one of New York's five boroughs that is on the mainland of the United States.

"Don't get excited—I'm just practicing."

SEEK QUALITY

When choosing a lawnseed mixture read the label, to be certain the blend is composed of grasses that give enduring satisfaction. Annual ryegrass is short-lived, while many field grasses, though persistent, are bunchy and coarse. Labeling requirements now group the elite turfgrasses in an uppermost "fine - textured" listing. When buying lawnseed a clue to quality is the amount of fine - textured grass.

Organizing of Farm Workers Is Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A no-holds-barred fight to organize the farm workers is advocated by the AFL-CIO's chief organizer.

William L. Kircher, director of the AFL-CIO's department of organization called on unions to resort to "strike, boycote, harassment and every kind of economic sanction that you can possibly get by with" to achieve this goal.

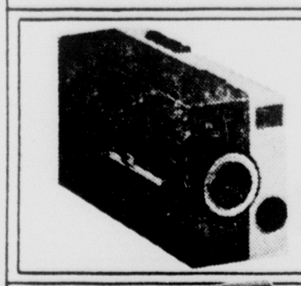

In an interview with the Mutual Broadcasting System, Kircher said these tactics were justified because the deck has been stacked against the nation's three million farm workers.

Only a few, he said, are covered by federal minimum wage laws and all are exempt from legislation such as the National Labor Relations Act. State labor laws also have a blind spot when it comes to farm workers, he said.

Alabama School System Told to Desegregate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An unprecedented federal court decision has placed the burden of enforcing desegregation of 99 Alabama school systems on state officials.

An indication of how state officials will react may come during a statewide radio and television address by Gov. Lurleen Wallace, according to a source close to the governor. Thus far, however, there has been no comment on Wednesday's ruling from the governor's office or state school officials.

The source said Mrs. Wallace's address will probably take place in the near future and may be the "most important and historic speech ever made by a governor in modern times." It was not specified, but the address is expected to deal with the court's order for statewide school desegregation.

A member of the State Board of Education said the decision means "HEW (the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) is out of it now."

Ed Dannelly of Andalusia said the most important factor is that "now we'll be dealing with judges and not a bunch of (federal) bureaucrats. I think the whole school system will be better off under a federal judge who perhaps can interpret the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

The three judges unanimously ordered the state to require the 99 systems not under previous court orders to submit desegregation plans for the term beginning this fall. Alabama has 118 school systems.

The decree is the first to call for statewide, state-enforced school desegregation.

Alabama's governor and state education officials were told to "take affirmative action to disestablish all state enforced or encouraged public school segregation."

The court said, "The defendant state officials have engaged in a wide range of activities to maintain segregated public education throughout the state."

To provide a remedy for Negro complainants, the only effective means according to the court is "a uniform statewide plan for school desegregation made applicable to each local county and city system not already under court order to desegregate."

The systems named in the 29-page order must adopt desegregation plans within 20 days. The court ordered the Justice Department, a party in the suit, to report within 30 days any district failing to adopt a satisfactory desegregation plan.

The decree included a uniform free-choice plan for desegregation.

However, one school superintendent, Thomas W. Carroll of Covington County, declared, "The only thing we could do would be to close some schools — to force integration. We've had complete freedom of choice for two years."

The court also struck down a tuition grant law providing state funds to private schools and barred further grants.

A separate three-judge panel is still considering a suit challenging Alabama's antiguidelines law and a counterattack by the state attacking the HEW guidelines on constitutional grounds.

U.S. Office of Education records indicate 58 Alabama systems are in compliance with the guidelines. Negotiations are being conducted with seven others, funds have been deferred to 51, and terminated to two systems.

But, HEW officials in Washington said they aren't certain the decision clears the way for automatic restoration of the money withdrawn from two systems and the halting of actions pending against 51.

Ever Striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place in which to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control. No more. No less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Less Meddling Needed

Editor's note: Please see "Do Our City A Service" in today's Open Parliament columns.

Boiled down to its essentials, Mrs. Burgess' letter is a plea for the voters of Colorado Springs to elect candidates to positions on the City Council who will thrust their bureaucratic fingers deeper into taxpayer pocketbooks. With governments at all echelons — school district, city, county, state, federal, and even the U.N.—casting covetous eyes at the income individuals are now being allowed to retain, we doubt that her letter will elicit cries of joy from people, many of whom face the necessity of having to borrow to settle up with the IRS and state income tax people.

Our remarks, with reference to the several points she attempts to make, will be keyed to the numbered paragraphs of her letter.

1. Unfortunately, there is a great amount of truth in Mrs. Burgess' argument. People, too many of them, do tend to be contradictory in their thinking. People do tend to want, and believe they can get, something for nothing. People do tend to greet new government projects, and the attending payrolls, with enthusiasm while forgetting that the government has nothing which it does not first take from someone. . .usually, themselves.

And it is precisely this predilection for illogical double-thinking that politicians play to the hilt. The politician who manages to leave the impression in the minds of the voters that the government provided "goodies" will continue, nay, be multiplied, but that the taxes to pay for them will be collected from someone else, is a sure winner. Too late, the voter realizes that the "someone else" is you know who.

2. We know of no one — other than those interested, for reasons best known to themselves, in the growth of bureaucracy—who looks upon any governmental budget as a "two-bit" affair. What Mrs. Burgess apparently fails to realize, is that an added cent tax here, a mill or two there, when all taken together for all levels of government, now come to somewhere in the vicinity of 50 per cent of the average person's income.

Certainly capital is needed for improvement. But what Mrs. Burgess doesn't want to see, is that the very capital needed by business and industry to expand and grow, to make improvements, is being siphoned off in taxes which, in great part, are wasted on boondoggles and bureaucratic paper shuffling.

If the people of Colorado Springs really want more and better parks, then it goes without saying that they should be willing to pay the private enterpriser who would provide them on a pay in accordance with use basis. The answer to the parks problem, if such exists, is to sell them to someone willing to operate them on a strictly profit and loss basis. Why should people who never use parks be taxed to provide them for those who do?

If Mrs. Burgess were really willing to pick up her share of the tab, she would be in favor, it seems to us, of this free, voluntary way of doing things. But no, she has decided that Colorado Springs should have more and better parks and, consequently, that the taxing power of government should be made use of to compel others to conform to HER plan.

3. If water rates HAVE to go up, if the rates now being charged by the city owned water utilities are not sufficient to defray operating costs and provide capital outlay for expanded services needed to meet the demands of a growing city, then the only fair, the only practical, solution is to increase the rates charged users. Certainly any existing deficit between price and costs should not be made up by an increase in taxes.

But the trouble with a monopoly such as the city owned water utility, is that, in the absence of a free market in water, in the absence of competition in fact or the possibility thereof, the users of water can never be sure that they are being charged THE RIGHT PRICE for the water they use. The city should get out of the utilities business at the earliest possible date.

4. Mrs. Burgess is on solid ground here. If there are, in fact, candidates for City Council who are promising more government provided goodies and pie-in - the - sky government induced "prosperity" without increased taxation, they are, indeed, humbugging those they ask to vote for them.

5. Here again, in inviting those who disagree with her to get out of town, Mrs. Burgess is taking an arrogant and dictatorial point of view. The premise from which she argues is that she, and those who agree with her, of course, have suddenly become Lords and Mistresses, the owners, no less, of Colorado Springs, and that those who disagree simply have no rights. Apparently, it never occurs to her that the things she looks upon as "benefits" might be considered as just the contrary to others with different points of view; and that taxes, considered by herself to be "negligible," might be a crushing burden to those of lesser means.

6. We agree that Colorado Springs is a delightful place to live and do business, but we categorically deny that living and doing business here is a privilege gained by agreeing with her arbitrary idea of what constitutes the "costs to enjoy" such a "privilege."

7. A growing number of people, in Colorado Springs and elsewhere, are beginning to realize, we believe, that "Regional Planning" and "Controlled Growth" planned and controlled by bureaucrats, and politically imposed "normal civic responsibilities" are socialistic catch-words which, invariably, mean more political regimentation of their lives. And this is a healthy sign.

The "low cost service" provided by the city owned utilities monopoly, to which Mrs. Burgess refers, is merely an illusion. The taxes which the utilities would pay into the city, state and federal treasuries, if they were owned by private enterprise, are made up in other forms of taxation. Thus, the so-called low-cost service is nothing more than a case of putting the money taken out of one pocket into another with the added costs of bureaucratic overhead necessary to accomplish the trick.

8. The greatest service present members of and candidates for City Council could do for Colorado Springs would be to devote their energies to productive enterprises. Colorado Springs will become "the fine City it was intended to be" when, and to the extent, its people relieve themselves of bureaucratic meddling and regimentation and begin planning and living their own lives, accepting the responsibilities thereunto belonging.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

The Local Scene

Press Party-Part One

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I was among the fortunate ones who were invited to the new Antlers Plaza Hotel at Stone Center last Thursday evening. And there I met a number of friendly and interesting people, many of whom will be permanently connected with the new hotel and others who came from other hotels that are owned by the same company, Western International. This company now owns and operates 68 fine hotels in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, and in Japan, China, Canada, Guatemala, Mexico and Venezuela.

At the door we were greeted by two handsome doormen decked out in the "Beefeater" uniforms of a bygone era. Inside, the first person we became acquainted with was Lou Martinelli who was very helpful with information about the new building and who later gave us a conducted tour of the ground and fifteenth floors. The stories are numbered from below the street level. And, flaunting superstition, which some hostelries do not have the courage to do, the new Antlers has a 13th floor. Whenever I stop there, I am going to ask for room number 1313. I like that number.

The next gentleman we met was Chuck Weaver, Superintendent of Service for the new Antlers. We were also introduced to Harold Brown, Beverage Manager of the Century Plaza Hotel, Century City, Los Angeles, who was here to give a hand in getting the new operation under way. And Joe Calahan, of Seattle, who is vice president of Western International, as well as several others from the company's Seattle hotel. And we were also fortunate enough to meet Joe Mogoush Manager of the Antlers Plaza.

Cocktails and delicious viands were served the guests, of which there was a goodly number, including members of the press and TV and radio news media. Also, quite a few Air Force uniforms were in evidence.

I had a few words with Jack Beverly, another of the "Beefeaters," who explained that the colorful costume was designed during the reign of Henry VIII and has been worn in some parts of the world ever since, especially in England, where they are fond of tradition. My dictionary says: Beef - eater (noun) 1) an eater of beef, hence an Englishman (so called by the French), or a well fed servant. 2) One of the Yeomen of the Guard who attend the British sovereign on state occasions, or one of the similarily uniformed warders of the Tower of London. So it appears that the uniform has never gone out of use in dear old England.

One section of the main floor of the new Antlers has been christened "Little London," which name is commemorative, we presume, of the time when Colorado Springs was proud to be called that or "Li'l Lunnon," as many of the society folks pronounced it. This Little London section contains a large, well appointed dining room and a "satellite" kitchen. And everything is so veddy British, even the telephone booths and waiters will be dressed in frock coats, knee britches and white stockings. Our guide explained that every dining room in the hotel has one of these satellite kitchens to facilitate the handling of the food by preparing the simpler dishes and special orders, leaving the entrees and other main dishes to the chef and his helpers in the main kitchen.

The chef, by the way, is Klaus Zander who has been chefing out at the swank and classy Space Needle Restaurant in Seattle. He is 29 and is already considered one of the top chefs to be found in the best hotels in the world. That's a pretty good recommendation.

I didn't count the dining rooms, but there are several and one especially for the use of the service clubs of the area. There is also a coffee shop.

You enter into the large and very handsome lobby from the south side of the building. And your first impression is that this is just about one of the most beautiful lobbies you've ever had the pleasure of visiting. You are immediately reminded of the old Antlers, for it, too, had a truly handsome lobby. In fact, it was an excellent and handsome building throughout. But we must admit that it had, in late years, become quite tacky looking on the outside. Not only that, the plumbing and the wiring, installed in 1899, were antiquated and obsolete. It would have been an expensive proposition to rehabilitate and completely modernize the old Antlers, outside and inside and, even then, it very probably would not have pleased today's customers as well as the new Antlers is going to.

And as for swank, handsomeness and beauty, you will find that the new Antlers surpasses the old, even though you are a bit loath to admit it. There was about the old Antlers the charm of a late Victorian, turn of the century, ripened antiqueness that the new hotel lacks, being as modern as tomorrow, excepting the purposely dated Little London area. And there may be some who will miss elderly charm. But as they grow accustomed to the newer charm of the new hotel, they will remember the old one with love, but without regret for its passing.

The American Way

Judicial Usurpers

By ROSALIE GORDON

Our people still are much too inclined to think of revolution and revolutionists as a violent overturn brought about by wild - eyed, hairy bomb-throwers. We speak here of revolution, of course, in its invidious sense — not in the sense of a revolt to secure independence or freedom.

But revolution, particularly revolution against the hard-won and once cherished constitutional liberties of the American people and their states, can assume many forms — creeping, sneaky, carried on piecemeal behind highly respected facades that mislead and deceive until the revolution is almost complete without the people realizing it has taken place.

Such is the revolution of which L. Brent Bozell writes in "THE WARREN REVOLUTION," a prodigiously researched volume on which he spent five years (published by Arlington, New Rochelle, New York; $7.00). It is to be followed by a companion volume that will, we expect, lay out the guidelines and the lawful precedents for the necessary — indeed imperative — counter-revolution.

But no revolution, especially so insidious a one as has been set in motion by the Warren Court, ever is successfully encountered until we understand its nature and purpose. Mr. Bozell has written as closely reasoned (so closely reasoned that his book is not for the hurried scanners) and devastatingly logical an analysis as one can find anywhere of the judicial revolution which has crept up on us.

There is no name-calling nor demands for the scalp of Earl Warren in this book. But the reader who approaches it with an open mind cannot be blamed for a feeling of righteous indignation at the betrayals of constitutional trust epitomized in the actions of the Warren Supreme Court.

It is Mr. Bozell's contention that the Warren Court has taken a false doctrine — the doctrine of judicial supremacy which has been sneaking up on us over the years — and stretched it to such fantastic lengths that the Court now undertakes, in the manner of a dictator hiding beneath judicial robes, to tell the American states that prayers cannot be used in their schools, how their legislatures should be apportioned, whether or not they can prosecute traitors operating against their people and their established governments, and a myriad of other matters which leave the states and the American people bound up in the ukases of a single branch of the national government.

The Constitution-makers had no intention of raising one of the three co-equal branches — legislative, judicial and executive — to supremacy over the others and over the states. On the contrary, it was the genius of the system that they established that none was to be supreme. Only thus could a government for free men that would guarantee no abrogations of their freedom be maintained.

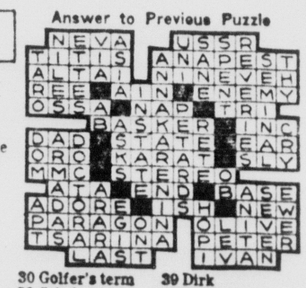

In a study of a series of cases and of the constitutional convention which established the American Republic that involves amazing legal detective work, Mr. Bozell nails down this principle beyond cavil. In so doing, he also provides us with a masterful exposition of the American Republic as it was meant to be — not as it has been twisted and distorted by our academic, political and judicial modern liberal statists.

In the process, he reveals where the noxious notion of judicial supremacy — the usurpation of power by the Supreme Court from the Congress, the legislature, the executive and the people — arose and grew until it reached its grotesque zenith in the decisions of the Warren Supreme Court.

No one who would understand what has happened to our federal system and what needs to be done to restore it, can be without this inexorably logical and revealing volume.

What Will the Neighbors Think?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

The person who is overly anxious for approval is in a predicament but those who acquire an irrational fear of disapproval may be in serious trouble. There may also be side effects which encourage sneakiness and the inability to recognize irrational behavior. Bright little Mary, growing up under the lash of "what will the neighbors think" may note that the nieghbors are not home one day and turn a load of pent up anger upon her younger brother with serious effects.

Unreasonable parental anger may also create a situation in which 8 year old Alice, given the task of washing dishes, ignores the glasses and when her mother screams at her, replies, "But I was afraid you'd get mad at me if I broke a glass."

Fear of what the neighbors may think has prevailed in this country for too long. It provides a cheap way out for parents who don't want to bother to teach children right from wrong. When they become adults, the same children permit the "what will the neighbors think?" theme to rule their lives until they even worry about expressing opinions.

After the last election I received a letter from a man who wrote, "I'm sure you will be glad I didn't vote. Of course I went to the polls since I am a registered voter but I did not mark my ballot. If I refused to go thru the motions, my neighbors just wouldn't understand." I know of quite a few other people who did the same thing for the same reason and I am very sorry for their troubles. Here we have a situation which finds an adult human being anxiously seeking approval while living in awful fear of the disapproval of his neighbors. Obviously there is very little room remaining in which such people may express their own opinions or live their own lives and this is a sad state of affairs, irrational and stultifying.

Last night I listened to one of the telephone interview radio programs and in two hours not one individualistic opinion was expressed. The subject of the program for last night was politics and the 1968 election for boss of the government and the consensus of opinion was a fantastic mish mash of unthinking nothingness. In this instance the people jockey of the program performed as ineffectively as did the listeners who made telephone calls. Since I frequently listen to programs of this nature transmitted from stations in different sections of the country, I know the lack of individualism is not limited to Californians. I also know that people say things on such programs they don't mean and that the dull bleatings are largely motivated by fear of what the neighbors will think if they happen to be listening.

The abject fear of what the neighbors will think makes cowards out of too many people who should know better, including the neighbors who worry about what the others think and none of them realize that all of this adds up to one massive pile of unthinkingness, from end to end.

There is also a correlated evil stemming from the same foolishness; Rebels without a cause, belligerent because they are sick and tired of worrying about what the neighbors think and have reached a point where they become antagonistic, forcing their own bad manners and irrational behavior upon others. This is the reverse side of a coin which is ugly on both sides and every attempt to regiment the actions and thinking of human beings provides a cause for this effect.

Self respecting, responsible people have no reason to worry about what the neighbors think. They direct their inquiries to their own consciences and do their very best to mind their own business. This, I contend, is quite a chore in itself and it requires attention on a full time basis, as far as I am concerned. My thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Schweitzer of Colorado Springs for this: An Arab, quietly watching a group of whirling dervishes was asked, "What do you do about the whirling dervishes?" The quiet Arab replied, "I let them whirl."

Good health and happiness to you, in Freedom.

Nation's Press

Do the Unions Care?

(The Wall Street Journal)

In recent years even casual observers have detected a growing public dissatisfaction with the seeming irresponsibility of organized labor. Up to now, however, there's little indication that the unions themselves have been paying much attention.

Perhaps labor leaders also will ignore the warning of a new book, "Challenges to Collective Bargaining," a collection of papers presented at the latest American Assembly at Columbia University's Arden House. The authors, none of whom can be considered even remotely anti - union, agree that organized labor faces the choice of reforming itself or submitting to much tighter Federal control.

"There is much in contemporary collective bargaining," says Harvard economist John T. Dunlop, "which generates frustration, alarm and disenchantment." Strikes cause increasing damage to the economy and growing inconvenience to the public, often for reasons that most people regard as picayune.

It may be, as Professor Dunlop suggests, that the public would be more sympathetic if it had a more complete knowledge of the issues in bargaining confrontations. But we suspect that few even then would find anything reasonable in last month's wildcat strike at a local General Motors plant, the impact of which idled tens of thousands elsewhere. Or in last year's New York newspaper strike, which helped kill the Herald Tribune, the source of many of the strikers' jobs.

The unions' insensitivity to criticism may reflect a refusal to recognize the fact that times have changed.

In the Depression 1930s, the nation generally came to view industrial workers, even those who belonged to unions, as the underdogs. Some giants of industry, with private police forces and other devices aimed at curbing unions, actually did much to promote organizing; the political climate was created for the Wagner Act and other measures that eased the unions' way.

As University of California economist Lloyd Ulman comments, unions by the end of World War II had grown so large and powerful that neither the organizations nor their members could seriously be called economic underdogs. So when unions at times began to abuse their special privileges, they found themsives subjected to legal restrictions, such as the Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin acts.

Even now, though, labor's leaders don't appear to realize that what the public granted it can also take away. At any rate, unions spend more time in devising strategy to remove the restrictions than they do in altering the conditions at which the laws were aimed.

At the same time labor unions are pressing aggressively to expand their power through more industry wide negotiations and through bargaining coalitions with other labor organizations. So intent are they in this quest that national officials often lose touch with the thinking of members at the local level; the recent GM walkout was only the latest sample of the chaos that results.

Participants in the American Assembly panel offer a number of corrective measures, some of which have considerable merit. Chicago University Professor Arnold Weber, for example, endorses the idea of leaving at least some major labor - management issues for determination at the local level.

For our part, we would like to see what would develop if there were less Federal involvement, not more. If, in other words, unions and management were left more to their own devices, forced to communicate with each other and with workers. If unions, especially, could not always count on a friendly helping hand from the National Labor Relations Board and other supposedly impartial agencies of Government.

It's possible, of course, that matters have gone too far for that, and that the public in desperation will insist on bargaining - by - Federal - fiat. In any case, it's strange that the unions, who have as much to lose as anyone, don't really seem to care.

DO OUR CTIY A SERVICE

To the Editor:

1. We of Colorado Springs, are a contradictory lot. We take great pride in our gracious City, we love our broad parkways and wide streets. We boast of our exceptional perimeter parks; The Garden of the Gods, North Cheyenne Canyon, Prospect Lake, and Palmer Park, and we marvel at our unique mountain backdrop. We announce with glee each new multi-million dollar military payroll that comes to town. Our Chamber of Commerce takes credit for our industrial and population boom. We revel in all this exceptionalism; we enjoy the good life and the luxury life. In fact these are the reasons most of us who are not natives chose to set-let here.

2. And yet we think in terms of a "two-bit" City budget. We are against sales taxes, we refuse to admit that capital improvements are necessary for our parks. We want all the benefits of growth, but we are reluctant to pick up the tab.

3. Currently, "increased water rates" is a nasty phrase. We boast of the Air Academy, Fort Carson, Norad, and the Hardsite but we deny the responsibilities such installations incur. We want the prosperity without the obligations.

4. Presently we are searching for four councilmen to fill City Council vacancies. Instead of looking for men of vision and executive ability to direct our City's growth wisely and well, we are listening to candidates who offer pie-in-the-sky prosperity without taxes, without increased water rates, and without capital improvements. Humbug!

5. The increased costs of growth are not great when divided among so many, but they are real. The added costs of a better city are negligible when weighed against the benefits received. If the corner - cutting candidates want to live in a "cheapskate town" why not let them go back to where they came from.

6. It's a privilege to live in Colorado Springs, and it should be worth the extra dollars and dimes it costs to enjoy this privilege.

7. So I say, down with candidates who bicker about pennies while they fail to understand Regional Planning, Controlled Growth, and normal civic responsibilities. Our City - owned utilities serve as a great low-cost service to all of our citizens. Let us beware of those who would sell them off for an instant profit so that we may pay more later to a private firm for the same services.

8. Look again at that long list of City Council candidates and vote for those who would truly do our City a service. Let us deny those with narrow views and elect the few who understand the full measure of a Councilman's responsibility. Let us reevaluate our own standards, and admit to the responsibilities we must assume to make Colorado Springs the fine City it was intended to be.

SOME QUESTIONS

To the Editor:

Is the soldier who fights and kills at war any less guilty than the so-called trouble makers and killers here?

The majority feels murder in war is fine; yet, in the same breath, will say if a man commits cold-blooded murder here he should be executed. Is there a difference between these two? How many are fighting against their own judgment because they chose this in preference to prison? "Go to war and kill or be locked up in jail" Is this a choice?

The firm that charges double prices for an item because it knows it can get it — are these less guilty of thievery than a common called thief? Of these, which will be the one sent to prison?

Is there an individual anywhere who can truthfully feel he has the right to cast judgment upon his brother? Do we all need to re-examine our own morals to see how we measure up? Perhaps, if we would think less on man's moral and judicial laws and more on self's moral code of ethics, we could find the answers.

Do you suppose it would be entirely possible that we would find that every wrong committed was only our own secret, hidden desire at one time or another?

Just because the majority feels, thinks, and says something, does this necessarily make it right or wrong?

Since God is our Father, each is our brother and consequently part of ourself; therefore, every thought, deed and act should be done with love for our fellowman.

PROTECT THE LAND

To the Editor:

The great land of our nation, the public domain, has its place in our history, today and always. Know it. Enjoy it. Protect it.

National Wildlife Conservation Week is March 19-25. Take good care of our lands, waters, and good fresh air. Keep the mountains, fields, and streams clear, green, and healthy. Guard the wildlife so we all can be clean and clear-as-crystal sportsmen.

DIFFERS WITH PORTER

To the Editor:

I read Mr. Rufus Porter's interesting and uninformed comments concerning a west side high school. I agree that it is poor policy to distribute anonymous unaddressed political leaflets. I am not connected with the group responsible for that.

Mr. Porter states the belief that schools follow population. It would appear that our school board for district eleven does not agree with Mr. Porter. They would not be presently building a junior high school that is now surrounded by vacant land near Peterson Field if they did. They would not be planning to locate the next high school three miles north of Billy Mitchell High School on similarly uninhabited land if they agreed with Mr. Porter.

If the school board would locate schools according to pupil population density, as I understand Mr. Porter's theory, a high school would be under construction on the west side. The pupil population has existed here for two years, if sensible boundaries for the high school were applied.

The present service boundaries for high schools in district eleven average three to five times farther on the west side of the schools than on the east side. This is a very inconvenient and expensive way to set boundaries. If we carry this policy much further, schools will be serving areas in which they are not located. It would not surprise me to see people at Union Blvd. sending their high school students to a school out around Limon in a few years.

I am a West Side Resident.

Cartel Rigged Quinine Price, Probers Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — An international cartel — using quinine it bought from the U.S. government for about 21 cents an ounce — has rigged prices and resold the drug in America and elsewhere at nearly 10 times that price, says a Senate prober.

Dr. John M. Blair, the investigator, told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee Wednesday the cartel was able to dominate prices of quinine and a derivative used to treat heart disease because it purchased more than four-fifths of the quinine released from the U.S. stockpile during 1961-64.

The sales by the General Services Administration were halted in anticipation the U.S. would need quinine and the derivative, quinidine, for the Vietnam war.

Blair, the subcommittee's chief economist, said once the stockpile sales were halted the price of quinidine — a drug vital to treatment of some 250,000 U.S. heart patients — rose sharply in the United States.

The heart drug now costs an average of $10.50 for 100 tablets. The price before 1964 ranged as low as $2, a subcommittee spokesman said.

Artifical Heart Project Attempts Disease Arrest

By C. GRANT LA FARGE, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most challenging and exciting scientific ventures of our time is under way in the research laboratories of the Children's Hospital Medical Center and it ranks not far behind the one at Cape Kennedy.

The perfection of a lightweight artificial heart, with a power supply and controls system which can be wholly implanted within the body is the moon on which we seek to land.

Why the interest in artificial heart devices? About 750,000 people die each year of heart disease. It is further estimated that an additional 15 million people are alive today with known heart damage; perhaps as many as 10 million more could have unrecognized but potentially fatal heart disease.

Our ultimate aim is to produce a device which might give from 75,000 to 400,000 persons at least five additional years of productive life.

The cost to develop artificial hear devices is high; current estimates put the price tag at about $100 million. But we spent several hundred million dollars combating polio, a disease whose over - all incidence never exceeded 40 per 100,000 people.

The coronary heart disease mortality rate is currently 300 per 100,000 people.

The patient would also have to pay for his new heart. The cost would be about $1,500 - $1,800 a year for the most expensive combination, a total heart replacement with a nuclear engine to power it. That's little more than the average annual cost of owning an automobile.

National Heart Institute-sponsored research in the next five years will focus on devices which assist that natural heart rather than on those which will replace is entirely; the problems are simpler.

Assist systems would work in this manner: Blood is accepted by the assist pump during the natural heartbeat; then, while the left ventricle is relaxed, the assist pump ejects blood into the main artery leading to the body. The result increases blood flow and pressure and reduces the work of the damaged left ventricle.

Since the length of time an externally powered pump can be used is limited by the high risk of potential infection along the power line, we have directed our attention toward the concept of placing the power plant and control system wholly inside the body.

The pump design we contemplate is to be initially used as an assist device. Then, if the human heart fails to recover, the nuclear - powered steam engine could be added.

We have been especially interested in the nuclear isotope-powered heart engine because it is reliable, light in weight, has a known lifetime and needs no outside help, Such a unit would be six inches long and three inches in diameter.

Depending on radiation shielding requirements, it would weigh between three and 10 pounds. The heart pump itself would weigh less than three pounds.

The engine's operation is relatively simple. Isotope fuel capsules surround the heating chamber. As the isotope decays naturally heat is produced changing distilled water to super heated steam.

This steam drives a piston cools, condenses and is pumped back to the heat chamber reservoir to begin the cycle again. The piston directly or indirectly drives the heart pump. Circulating blood then easily carries away this heat to be radiated from skin and lungs, much as water cools a car's engine.

We are convinced that an implantable engine such as we have described will be available in the next decade. There are other tough problems which must first be solved.

Foremost is the natural incompatibility between living tissues and artificial materials. Dangerous blood clots, for example, sometimes form on today's artificial heart valves. We are now investigating a number of promising materials which can live in harmony with human tissue and will neither destroy nor be destroyed by blood and plasma, nor generate blood clots.

Second, the artificial pump and its control system must be capable of doing their job properly. The body's everchanging needs for blood flow must be served rapidly, automatically and reliably.

The third problem is the most severe. Mechanical pumping of blood damages its cells, alters the chemical structure of plasma and adversely affects the lungs. Consequently, current research is beng directed towards unraveling the mysteries which impede the development and use even of ventricular assist devices.

But the mysteries will be solved. When an assist pump and engine are avilable, the next task is surgery. The chest would be opened in a manner not unlike that used in present - day, low - risk heart operations.

Appropriate pump connections will then be sewn to the heart and aorta, the power line from the pump attached to the external control and drive unit, the pump activated and the chest closed.

Three to six weeks later, after the patient and his heart have recovered, the pump would gradually be turned off and ultimately removed.

If the heart has not recovered, the portable power source would then have to implanted permanently. The nuclear engine would be implanted under the diaphragm on the left side of the abdomen with a connecting line going upwards to the assist pump. The same engine could be used to power a total heart replacement.

Following discharge from the hospital, his skin once again intact, the patient would be rehabilitated and retrained for a job, if necessary.

If the isotope refueling period is three years, he would then return to the hospital where a relatively minor incision would be made over the left flank, through which the isotope engine would be replaced. In a week, he'd be home again.

Car Goes Wild, Woman Avoids Injury

Shades of the silent movies.

A Colorado Springs woman escaped injury Wednesday evening despite the erratic behavior of her 1967 automobile, involved in a one car accident on Colorado 4, three miles west of Woodland Park.

The patrol said a car driven by Maye Leona Martin, 49, 408 Crestridge Drive, was travelling east on the roadway at a high rate of speed, when its driver applied the car's brakes. The auto went into a broadskid across the road when it stopped on the south shoulder of the road.

The patrol said the car then moved backwards, "under power," through the barrow pit and through a barb wire fence. The wandering auto then made a circle to the left and went through the fence again, ending up back on the road.

According to the patrol report the car then went through the fence again by way of the first hole it had made and became lodged in a dirt embankment.

How does the fall of Adam affect us? Did we inherit Adam's sinful nature? —S. F.

Just as there are family characteristics, there are racial characteristics. One of the traits of the human race is its consistent tendency to sin. The Bible says, "By the offence of one man's disobedience many were made sinners." (Rom. 5: 18).

Just as the errors of a nation's leader have an effect on all citizens of that nation, the sin of Adam, who was the representive of the race, affected all of us.

The proof that sin became a universal tendency of the race is that no man has ever lived without sin except Jesus Chirst, the Son of God. The Bible says, "We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God."

But God sent Christ to bring us deliverance from the power and domain of sin in our lives. Paul, who had found this deliverance through Christ, said "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the Spirit."

Why does God require us to bow down and worship Him? —F .A.

Men worship God, not because He demands it, but because they have a sense of awe and wonder before Him. It is rational to recognize authority, and to show respect for our superiors.

But worship of God goes deeper than this. Christians are possessed of adoration and love for God, and a sense of joy and wonder drives them to their knees in His Presence.

Man by nature is proud, self-sufficient. To know who is supreme in the universe, and to kneel to Him, is a part of wisdom. When we get to the place where we recognize no superior, respect no authority, or do nothing to break our pride, we have indeed sunk to the level of animals.

From the beginning of time, men who have caught a glimpse of the majesty of God have worshipped Him, not only because He demands it, but because it is normal and instinctive to honor greatness wherever it is found.

I like to go to church, but our minister is so negative in his preaching that it depresses me. I thought that Christianity was a religion of hope. Do you think it is a good advertisement for Christianity for Christians to be so hopeless? — G. J.

No I do not! As a matter of fact there is more hope in pure Christianity than in anything else in the world. To be realistic, there is little hope in anything else. The Bible speaks of the faith as: "Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul: both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the vail."

I have been accused of being negative too, but I am only negative when I speak of the false hopes people have. We offer no hope for a world built upon human ingenuity. We offer no hope for a world built upon materialism, with the love of money as a motivating force. We offer no hope for a world which disallows faith in God, and lives in the dimension of time, heedless of eternity. And this is the kind of a world millions are trying to build. This is where a minister of the Gospel may sound negative. But he fails to give the whole Gospel unless he sounds the positive note of the grace of God: "Where sin abounds, grace doth yet more abound." The good news is this: even in a twisted, tortured world, we have hope, but it is a hope that transcends these transient things. It is the hope of Jesus Christ.

Graveside Rites Set For Mrs. Crosley

Graveside services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday in Evergreen Cemetery for Mrs. Mate Alice Crosley who died Tuesday at her home, 906 N. Institute St.

The Rev. Willard Norton will officiate. Swan funeral Home has charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Crosley was born Feb. 1, 1895 in King City, Mo., and had lived here 20 years.

She is survived by a sister Mrs. Alda M. Agee of Colorado Springs, a brother H. C. Benefiel of Kansas City, Mo., and several nieces and nephews.

Finns Plan To Close in On Scandinavia

HELSINKI (UPI) — The Finnish government has been asked to approve a construction plan which, if given the green light, will link continental Finland and the island of Aaland with an 80-mile superhighway through one of the most spectacular archipelagos in Scandinavia.

Blueprints of the plan were recently referred to President Urho Kekkonen, to members of the government and to several special committees for further study.

A suggestion to build a highway between Finland and Aalan was first made in 1939 by Arvo Lonnroth then general director of the Public Works Administration. Lonnroth called for a ferry link from the mainland which was, in fact, later realized, though not according to his suggestion.

The plan presented now includes an estimate of the development of traffic in future, details of the highway itself, facts and figures of estimated construction costs and an appraisal of the highway's significance and profit possiblities for the economy of the country.

The highway would "embrace" the whole of the Turku archipelago. The northern route from near the city of Naantali through Merimasku, Tasivassalo, Kustavi, Brando and Lappo to Aaland would be 80 miles in length. The southern route from south of Turku through Parainen, Nauvo and Houtskari would meet the northern branch in Lappo half way from the continent to Aaland and would be, 85 miles long.

But there are two drawbacks firstly, realization of the plan would cost an estimated 400 million marks ($125 million) and secondly, shipowners plying traffic between the two points are sure to oppose it for fear of financial loss.

The supporters of the plan point out, however, that such an archipelago highway would speed up freighting and transportation to all parts of Europe, reduce transportation costs and boost tourist traffic to Finland.

Most of the road could be build on the numerous islands in the area, and where this is impossible the seabed is only a few yards beneath the surface. A total of 40 bridges would have to be built.

The road itself would be 23 feet in width, with an extra 39-inch "safety valve" on both sides. Where crossing water it would rise an average of two to four yards above the surface.

Having reached the eastern coast to Aaland the highway would continue through the mainland to either Mariehamn or Eskero from where the crossing to Sweden would be made by car ferries.

Officials have estimated that the work could be done in five to 10 years.

Former Skiing Champ Wants to Teach in Watts

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Twelve years ago Jill Kinmont was flying with the wind down a ski slope at Alta, Utah, practicing for the winter Olympics. A tree, a crash and she lay in the snow — paralyzed with a broken back.

Today still partially paralyzed, Jill Kinmont is ready for another plunge. She wants to teach the children of the Watts area of Los Angeles, but may have to settle for some other position.

A Los Angeles city health regulation stipulates that a teacher must be able to walk up steps, she says. That is one thing her electric wheelchair can't manage.

Job applications were returned with sympathy but with little encouragement.

Then Dr. Max Rafferty, California school superintendent, stepped into the picture. He assigned Eugene Gonzales, an assistant superintendent, to act as a one-man placement bureau and Miss Kinmont, 31, has received several job offers.

A year after her skiing accident Miss Kinmont, formerly of Bishop, Calif., entered UCLA and graduated with a major in German. Then she entered the University of Washington and earned a teaching certificate. Now she is a remedial-reading teacher in a suburban Seattle school district.

When her father died recently Jill and her mother decided to return to Southern California.

Then, there's that other reason.

"I just want to know if I can work with these kids," says Jill. "I think I can.

"The color of their skin and my wheel chair make up alike in many ways."

Wasps are able to make paper.

Holy Week Church Services Schedule

Because of the large number of Maundy Thursday and Good Friday services scheduled, they have been combined for your reading convenience. Each church service is open for the public to visit.

TWA YOUTH CENTER

The play entitled, "The People Versus Christ," sponsored by the TWA Youth Center is to be presented at 7:30 p.m. today, Friday and Saturday at three locations.

The play produced by Bakers Plays, Boston, is acted by three actors who take the parts of thirteen different characters. Each different role is portrayed through the use of voice, diction, posture, movements, gestures, without costumes or scenery, re-creating the birth and death of Christ.

The first performance will be presented tonight at Horace Mann Junior High. The second will be presented at the Seventh Day Adventist Church on Good Friday. The third and last performance will be given at Calvary Baptist Church on Saturday.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL

Communion services will be held in the sanctuary of the First Congregational Church at 7:30 p.m. today. Deacons of the church will participate with the Rev. Joseph Carroll in an adaptation of The Office of Tenebrae. Choral music will feature Michael Haydn's "Dark Was the Earth With Clouds" and "Caligaverunt Oculi Mei," under the direction of Charles Warren. Other special music will be the Prelude "Fili Mi Absalon" by Schuetz, featuring four trombones, organ, and bass voice.

PAYNE CHAPEL

The second annual presentation of "The Disciples of Light," a dramatization depicting the background of each disciple, will be given at 7:30 p.m. today at Payne Chapel. The stewards and trustees will enact the parts of the disciples. Holy Communiosn will be served following the presentation. Music will be furnished by Mrs. Bettie McDonald, with Miss Dorothy Spann, organist.

Good Friday 7:30 p.m. services there will be "sermonets" by the Rev. D. C. Coleman Jr. on the Seven Last Words. Music will be by the Senior Choir, Miss Dorothy Spann, director.

WEST SIDE MINISTERS ASSOCIATION SERVICES

The Westside Ministers Association is sponsoring special 7:30 p.m. Good Friday services at the Bethany Baptist Church. These services for several years has brought together churches of many denominations of the Westside in the spirit of the season.

The speaker will be Col. Roy M. Terry, Command Chaplain of the Air Defense Command. His Command has literally made him a circuit rider preacher for the Air Force. Chaplain Terry, a Methodist Minister attached to the New York Conference of Methodist Churches, is a graduate of Syracuse University and Yale University Divinity School.

There will be a mass choir of the members of the choirs of the Westside churches who will sing under the direction of John Fetler, director of the Bethany Baptist Church Choir.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN COMMUNITY SERVICES

The fifty-fourth annual observance of the Passion Hours on Good Friday will be held in the First Presbyterian Church, from noon until 3 p.m. While this service has always been sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church and held in its sanctuary, it is a community service with ministers, musicians, and members of other churches participating.

For those who cannot attend the whole service, opportunity to come and go is provided during the singing of the hymns that come at the end of each section of the program of seven words.

The First Word program meditation will be led by the Rev. Joseph Carroll, First Congregational, with Robert Ramsay and Allen W. Mathies singing a duet.

The Second Word meditation will be led by the Rev. E. Paul Gamber, First Evangelical United Brethren, with a solo by Leonard V. Wecks.

The Third Word program meditation will be given by the Rev. Palmer Pierce, with Irene Yohn, soloist.

The Fourth Word meditation to be led by the Rev. Philip Green, First Methodist, with Eugene McCleary, soloist.

The Fifth Word has meditation by the Rev. Ward B. Hurlburt, First Baptist, with Claire DuBois, soloist.

The Sixth Word program has meditation led by the Rev. Warren M. Hile, First Christian, with Arline MaKinney, soloist.

The Seventh Word meditation will be led by the Rev. Howard E. Hansen, First Presbyterian, with a solo by George Garriques, accompanied by Fritz E. Funk, violin obligato.

OUR SAVIOUR LUTHERAN COMBINED SERVICES

At 1 p.m. Good Friday several Lutheran Churches in the Pikes Peak area will combine to provide a Union service at Our Savior's Lutheran Church.

The participants will include the Reverends Kenneth Tjornehoj, Faith Lutheran; A. G. Edstrom, Bethany Lutheran; Robert C. Jacobson, Shepherd of the Hills; Halvard H. Running, Our Savior's Lutheran; Palmer Pierce, First Lutheran; Lloyd Lorensen, Atonement Lutheran; Leonard Rudolph, Ascension Lutheran; Gordon Johnson, Mt. Calvary; and the Rev. and Mrs. Ivan Anderson of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church.

This service also will provide meditations on the Seven Last Words of Christ.

FIRST BAPTIST

First Baptist Church will have a candlelight Communion at 7:30 p.m. on Good Friday. In accord with custom, members of the congregation and guests will assemble in silence.

Two robed young people, Sharon Hofmann and Craig Hadden, will light the candles at the opening of the service. The Chancel Choir, under the direction of M. Loyd Owens will sing. The Rev. Ward Hurlburt will officiate at the baptism of a group of people. After which, the Hand of Fellowship and membership certificates will be given to those baptized and other new members.

A brief sermon on the theme, "Come See Jesus Cricified," will be given. The Rev. Mr. Hurlburt and the Rev. Llewellyn Walker, assisted by the deacons will serve the Communion.

GATEWAY PRESBYTERIAN

A cantata for Lent and Holy Week entitled, "To Calvary," by Everett Titcomb, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. today at Gateway Presbyterian Church.

The three choirs of the church, adult, Junior High and Junior, will sing a chorus for combined choirs in the Palm Sunday section of the cantata. At the Maundy Thursday section the congregation will be led in the Holy Communion service by the pastor, the Rev. Richard K. Baker, and appropriate music will be played and sung. The works concludes with the composers beautiful and well-known anthem, O Love How Deep.

Soloists are Irene Yohn, guest soprano, Gayle Emmons, contralto, and John Hoffman, bass.

Narrator for the cantata is Jack Riggs. Choir directors are Ruth Horton and Gayle Emmons. The organist is Mary Fulker.

SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS LUTHERAN

At 7:30 p.m. on Good Friday Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church will hold a Special Communion Service for Holy Week. It will be a regular Common Service, with the Senior Choir providing the Anthem, "Tis Finished! So The Saviour Cried" by Leland B. Sateran.

BELLEVUE BAPTIST

The Youth Drama Group of Bellevue Baptist Church will present a Pre-Easter Pageant "I SAW HIM" at 7 p.m. Friday. The Youth Drama Group includes Dennis Roth, David Ash, Marylynn Mathis, Pam Eheman, Marquita Molz, Dean Frey, Tommy Popovich, Nancy Liverman and Mark Barnes. They are directed by Mrs. Barbara Pitts and Pastor Wayne Williams.

Following the presentation of the Pageant the Adult Choir of Bellevue will present "Hymns of The Cross." Robert Watts is music director." Mary Ellen Fish is organist and Lucille Molz is pianist for this Cantata.

EPISCOPAL CHAPEL OF OUR SAVIOUR

The Adult Choir of Episcopal Chapel of Our Saviour, Ben Gahart, organist-director, will perform Franz Schubert's "Mass in G" at 8 p.m. Friday.

The Mass, composed in 1815, is set for soprano, tenor and bass solo with mixed chorus. Although not a lengthy work, it is filled with the melody and harmoney characteristic of Schubert. The chorus sings almost constantly throughout the work, resting only in one movement, the Benedictus, which is a trio for the solo voices.

The singing of the concert Mass will be preceded by a brief service of Ante-Communion. Soloists will be Jacqueline Davis, soprano, Rex Andrews, tenor, and James Clamp, baritone.

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN

The adult choir and young people at Immanuel Lutheran Church will combine their talents under the direction of Vicar Garland Iseler and Music Director Kenneth Schlueter to present a Tenebrae Service at 7:30 p.m. Good Friday. This is the second year that Immanuel is conducting a Tenebrae Service. It is the first presentation of this particular Tenebrae Service written by Vicar Iseler.

During the service the altar cross will be draped with a black veil to portray the awful mystery of the original Good Friday, also known as "The Day of the Cross" and "The Day of the Lord's Passion."

The service will begin and end in total darkness which is the meaning of Tenebrae. The gradual extinguishing of the candles will signify the flight of the disciples. Removal of the central lighted candle will symbolize the death of Jesus and its return the remembrance of His resurrection. At the end the Book will close with a loud sound to acknowledge that the meaning of the Cross is fulfilled.

This unique Tenebrae Service will take the place of the traditional Good Friday sermon.

STRATMOOR HILLS METHODIST

On Good Friday at 6:30 p.m. a Meal of Reconciliation will be held at Stratmoor Hills Methodist Church, where all denominations are invited to join in fellowship and witness to the brotherhood of man and the oneness of the human family. The Meal is to be in silence except for devotional readings and appropriate music. Following the Meal, a Quaker film will be shown, The Time of the Locust.

Two local college students, Mike Ingraham and Alan Anisgard, will share in giving readings. High School students Larry Pierce and David Stewart will serve the Meal, which will be prepared by Helena Chase Johnson. Margaret Parker will sing the Agnus Dei.

The Rev. Robert Zeuner, pastor, is coordinating preparation and program.

Gifts received at the Meal will be sent to those who are helping and healing the innocent victims of the war in Vietnam, particularly women and children.

BOY PAINTS THE TOWN RED

RACKNELL, England (UPI) —It was about as much explanation as one could expect from a boy of 14, the juvenile court judge acknowledged.

He had asked the boy why he stole an aerosol can of red paint and sprayed it on six cars, a road sign, a garage door, a fire hydrant, a number of lamp posts and a white fence.
